ROLLING MILL MINE RESUMES ITS ACTIVITY

Seventy-Five Miners Go to Work in the Morning and 150 at Night, Besides Repairmen and Surveyors.

PUZZLING DISCREPANCIES AMONG THE LISTS OF DEAD

By GIBBONS MARSH,
Staff Correspondent.

Johnstown, Pa., July 14.—Work was resumed in the Rolling Mill mine this morning. Shortly after 6 o'clock a squad of 75 miners boarded the cars and were taken into the mine. The Klondike section of the mine, where the explosion occurred, was not entered by the workmen, who confined their operations to the Mill creek section.

Several gangs of men were taken to the Klondike section to make the necessary repairs before work is resumed there. This section will be ready for the miners on Friday. This evening 150 men were taken into the mine. These miners will work during the night.

At 10 o'clock this morning a party of surveyors went into the mine to search through the headings. Their object was to find bodies of miners who were overcome when attempting to make their escape.

Where Bodies May Lie.

No bodies were recovered during the day. Superintendent George T. Robinson said the only places where they would be found would be in some abandoned part of the mine.

At 3 o'clock this morning Inspector Josiah T. Evans and Assistant Superintendent Charles Crocker went into the mine to make an inspection before the workmen entered. They called up the main office and said the condition of the mine was such that the men could go to work. The company received a number of portable electric lights for the surveyors to carry during their exploring. These lamps throw out a much brighter light than the safety lamps, and are absolutely safe.

A great many of the former employes of the mine left this city today to work in mines in other sections of Cambria county. They were superstitious about returning to the mine that was a deathtrap to so many. It was learned today that many had gone to Mineral Point mine, which is not considered as safe as the Mill mine. This mine is small and some of its entries are only three feet high.

A number of applications for work were presented to Superintendent Robinson today and several men seek the jobs of the dead fire bosses. None of them was considered, however, as the certificates from the mining examination board had not been forwarded with the application.

Superintendent Robinson said this afternoon that the mine would be running in full by next week. By that time he expects to have sufficient men to work a force of 500.

About 600 tons of coal were brought out of the mine this afternoon. Most of this, however, had been mined previous to the explosion.

Lists of Dead Disagree.

Dr. E. L. Miller, coroner of Cambria county, frankly acknowledged to a party of newspaper men, including your correspondent, this afternoon that he did not know how many dead bodies had come out of the mine. The count kept by his representative, who was at the morgue, differs from that kept by Secretary Thomas Matthews of the Cambria Relief association. Both of these differ from the list made up by Chief of Police Harris and his assistants at the morgue and also from those kept by the representatives of the press.

To add to the confusion it is now confessed that bodies were removed from the morgue without being properly identified and all of these have been buried. There are doubt and confusion everywhere. At least two of the bodies brought out of the Westmont entrance did not reach the morgue, but were removed to undertaking rooms and have now been buried.

The mystery surrounding the matter has been increased by the fact that most of the victims were foreigners and had to be identified by the aid of an interpreter. As a result of this the lists heretofore published have been inaccurate and the proper names of many of the dead will never be known. Little or no method was followed in the identification of the victims and in their surrender to various claimants.

Dead Number Between 113 and 116.

An effort is now being made to straighten the matter by comparing lists with the check list kept by the Cambria Steel Company, but the counts cannot be verified, radical differences having appeared. At present it looks as if the number of bodies recovered number between 114 and 116, including the men who died at the hospitals.

After comparing his list with that kept by The Gazette representatives this afternoon the coroner said his estimate of last night, which was 111, would have to be raised at least three, and perhaps more. Coroner Miller said this evening:

"No, I cannot give any definite number as the full list of dead so far recovered. My official list contains only 111, but I cannot certify as to its correctness, because I am aware that tricks have been played by a certain undertaker who has taken bodies from the pit mouth. In one case I had to go to his stable to view the body. Other bodies were removed from the morgue without proper identification and I am not even sure that they are included in this list. My list was made up by a subordinate and I do not know the exact number taken out of the mine. I think my man did his work honestly and as carefully as he could, but the excitement and confusion were so great that mistakes are more than probable."

MINE INSPECTORS NOT ABLE TO AGREE

United in Their Opinion of the Cause of the Disaster, but Not on Matters Leading Up to It.

By GIBBONS MARSH,
Staff Correspondent.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., July 14.—The four state mine inspectors have been unable to come to a definite conclusion on certain points about the cause of the disaster. These officials know the real cause, but cannot agree among themselves on certain features that led up to it. They will remain here until Coroner Miller holds the inquest, and in the meantime they will go into the mine each day and investigate the points on which they disagree.

They will not disclose these points. Chief J. E. Roderick says he is fully convinced as to the nature of the disaster, but he would not divulge the cause until he goes on the stand at the coroner's inquest.

Inspectors Josia T. Evans, Joseph Williams, C. B. Ross and I. G. Roby made two trips into the mine during the day. They went through the fatal Klondike section. It is said they found several places where blasts have been made. After they came out of the mine this afternoon they went to the hotel, and changing their clothes went directly to the hospital. This trip was made to interview Fire Bosses William Robinson and John Retallick and Foreman Harry Rodgers. On their arrival there they were informed that the men were not sufficiently recovered from the shock to talk. Their interviews were short.

The officials said much depends upon the testimony of these men in clearing up the mystery.

BATTLESHIP IS DISABLED.

The Illinois Is Punctured by Striking an Obstruction at Christiania, Norway.

CHRISTIANIA, NORWAY, July 14.—The United States battleship Illinois, flagship of Rear Admiral Crowninshield, and the United States cruisers Chicago and Albany have arrived here. Owing to a faulty steering gear the Illinois struck the bottom of the harbor, which will compel her to go back to England and be placed in dry dock.

While the Illinois was standing into the harbor, leading the squadron, her steering gear failed and her helm jammed hard to starboard, with the ship headed straight for the shore. Both anchors were let go and her engines were backed promptly, but the port anchor chain parted. The ship struck an obstruction and a hole was punched in her bottom. The Illinois was eventually backed off and anchored safely.

Rear Admiral Crowninshield will probably shift his flag to the Chicago, and the remainder of the proposed Baltic cruise may be abandoned.

LONDON, July 14. Andrew Carnegie has given £10,000 to Eastbourne, Sussex, for the establishment of a library, for which the duke of Devonshire has given the site.

CAMBRIA COUNTY TO BEAR BURDEN OF RELIEF WORK

No Appeal for Outside Aid to Be Permitted by Committee.

ORPHANS OF MINERS WILL BE CARED FOR

By JAMES B. SANSOM,
Staff Correspondent.

Johnstown, Pa., July 14.—The citizens of Johnstown are doing noble work for the relief of the families of the dead and injured. Mayor John Pendry today appointed a committee of 10 men to take charge of the relief work, and at a meeting it was decided to begin active work tomorrow morning. The relief fund at midnight had reached $2,000, and it is hoped that much more will be contributed in the next few days. An appeal will be made to the people of the city for contributions tomorrow and the committee believes the response from Johnstown people will be more than sufficient to carry on the needed work.

Several contributions have been received from outside points, and while the citizens are grateful for the motive that suggested the sending of aid, they feel that they are able to take care of their own, and do not wish any appeals for aid to be circulated elsewhere.

The Relief Committee.

The committee appointed by Mayor John R. Pendry to take charge of the work held its first meeting tonight. It was composed of four ex-mayors of the city, Horace Rose, James K. Boyd, Dr. G. W. Wagoner and L. D. Woodruff, and John D. Roberts, Dwight Roberts, David Barry, Joseph E. Sedelmeyer and John Dowling. To this the mayor added the name of Matthew Bridges, the mail carrier who serves the district in Cambria City, which was most heavily stricken by the disaster.

A resolution was unanimously adopted that an appeal for relief be issued, but requesting that no appeal for assistance be issued in any other place, as the city feels able to care for all the needy.

Mayor Pendry was authorized to employ an interpreter. He will act as clerk of the relief committee, have charge of the distribution of the fund, and will report as soon as practicable the amount that probably will be needed. He will co-operate with the lodges of various denominations, who have as parishioners the families of the victims, and he will be aided by Matthew Bridges, the mail carrier. The committee will not aid in paying funeral expenses, as the Cambria Relief association will take care of that and also will ultimately give the heirs of each dead miner $1,000.

Contributions will be received by the treasurer beginning tomorrow.

Orphans to Be Cared For.

The orphan children of the victims of the disaster will all be cared for by the residents of this city and Cambria City. While all the charitable societies of the two places will help the unfortunate little ones, the great part of the work will be done by the Children's Aid society.

About a score of women connected with the several societies visited the quarters of the families of the unfortunate miners in Cambria City this afternoon. They had lists prepared and made calls at every home to ascertain the exact condition of the relatives of the dead. Efforts will be made to place the orphans in homes throughout the county.

RIOTS BEGIN AGAIN.

Police Battle Hard With Sympathizers of Striking Freight Handlers and Arrest Eleven Men.

CHICAGO, July 14.—The freight handlers' strike reached the rioting stage this evening, and it was only after the police had charged on the crowd repeatedly and arrested 11 men that a semblance of order was restored.

Eight policemen who were sent with two teams from the Western Electric Company to the St. Paul freight house were unable to extricate the drivers from the pocket into which they were forced by angry teamsters. A riot call sent to the stations was responded to by several wagonloads of patrolmen, who, after a fierce conflict with the obstructing crowd, rescued the wagons, and the drivers, bruised by missiles, were able to reach a place of safety.

Warrants for Band Members.

BLAIRSVILLE, PA., July 14.—(Special.)—John Gerard, manager of the Smith mines here, swore out warrants for all members of the Carnegie Military band who are here in the interest of the strikers, for disorderly conduct by annoyances near the mines in playing and persuading the men not to work. The band went today to Hyde Park and may not return. The strike here seems to be over.

ISTHMIAN CANAL SUBJECT OF TALK WITH SPOONER

Secretary Root Closes His Conference With President and Sails Away.

FOUR MORE NOTABLE VISITORS EXPECTED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 14.—This has been a busy day at Sagamore hill, and it is generally understood that matters of state are engrossing much of the president's time. He did not take his usual dip in the bay this morning, but at the hour that is generally given over to the exhilarating exercise, was closeted with Secretary Root.

It is understood that the Taft commission's work at Rome was discussed, but nothing is known as to what conclusion was reached. As a matter of fact, the president is not likely to take any decided stand until he has conferred with Secretary Hay.

Senator Spooner of Wisconsin called on the president last night and remained quite awhile. It was "officially" given out that the senator's visit was altogether of a personal nature, but there is reason to believe that the Panama canal question came up for discussion. Senator Spooner is the author of the substitute bill, which left the selection of a location of an isthmian waterway largely in the hand sof the president, and which became a law. Mr. Spooner is having a fight to retain his seat in the senate, and it may be that he sought some sort of encouragement from the executive.

Within the next three weeks there are to be four notable visitors at Sagamore hill. Secretary Moody is the first cabinet officer expected, and Attorney General Knox will come to confer with the president before he sails for Paris to investigate the title of the Panama canal property. Gen. Wood also will visit the president before he goes abroad with Adjutant General Corbin. Secretary Hay will come to see the president some time next month.

President Roosevelt, with Mrs. Roosevelt, two of the younger children and Secretary Root, went in a launch to the Mayflower, the president's yacht, which they inspected this afternoon. Secretary Root was then placed aboard the Kanawha, which weighed anchor and sailed for Jersey City. President Roosevelt and his family returned to Sagamore Hill.

It is reported on the best of authority that the president intends to place Gen. Wood in charge of the construction of the Isthmian canal. This report was not denied at the president's home tonight, although nothing more definite would be said concerning it. It was in this connection that the president consulted Senator Spooner. It is known that the president has been looking for a suitable appointment for Gen. Wood since his return from Cuba.

WANT BIDS FOR LIBRARY SITE.

Wilkinsburg Plans to Secure Carnegie Gift—Police Salary Question.

At the meeting of Wilkinsburg council last night it was decided to advertise for bids for a site of the $50,000 library donated by Andrew Carnegie. Burgess Horner offered a substitute ordinance to increase salaries of policemen for one he had vetoed as being illegally drawn.

The substitute provides for increase of pay of street laborers to $2 a day. It passed first reading.

SCHOOL TEACHERS IN THE METROPOLIS

LONDON, July 14.—(Special Cable.)—The school teachers from Pittsburgh and vicinity, who are guests of The Pittsburgh Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph, are spending their first night on a foreign shore. The Minnehaha arrived at London this morning and the party was glad to set foot on dry land again, notwithstanding the fact that the ocean journey was most pleasant and was thoroughly enjoyed. No regular attempt at sight seeing was made today, but a number of small excursions to points of interest were made this afternoon. The real campaign opens tomorrow and all are well prepared for an enjoyable and profitable experience. The members of the party found pleasant rooms awaiting their occupancy at the Midland hotel, which will be their temporary home while they are in London.

TWENTY MINERS ARE YET MISSING, PERHAPS MORE

Twelve of These Are Father Dembinski's Parishioners, and the Cambria City Mail Carrier Knows of Others.

ADDED TO THE KNOWN DEAD WOULD MAKE A TOTAL OF 135

By JAMES B. SANSOM,
Staff Correspondent.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., July 14.—Total dead so far recovered, 115; identified at undertakers', 108; unidentified, 2; removed from morgue and mine mouth without proper identification, 5; total, 115; missing, conservatively estimated, 20. Total, 135.

This is the latest and most authentic estimate of the loss of life resulting from the Rolling Mill mine disaster.

The Rev. Father M. Dembinski of St. Casimir's Polish Catholic church positively says that 12 members of his congregation who went into the mine that fatal morning are still missing. Mail Carrier Matthew Bridges, who delivers mail at the section of Cambria City inhabited almost exclusively by the foreign miners, says 20 missing is a conservative estimate and that the number may reach 25 or more.

In the congregation of the Slovak Catholic church, of which the Rev. Father Martvon is pastor, seven men are reported missing. Three or four more from other congregations are unaccounted for. By tomorrow night it is hoped that a complete list of the missing can be compiled. Searching parties have resumed work and mine officials hope to recover the bodies of the missing in the next two days. They do not believe, however, that the number will reach 10.

Where the Confusion Begins.

All the mine officials are still interested in the search now going on for the bodies supposed to remain in the mine, but some of their attention during the next day or two will be devoted to clearing up the uncertainty that hangs over the list of dead. Radical differences began to appear in the list of dead recovered soon after the explosion.

The first body taken from the mine was that of Joseph Rapitsid, which was removed from the Mill creek shaft and not taken to the morgue at the time. The first load of dead received on Friday morning numbered 47, and was so counted and announced at the morgue and verified by the count made by newspaper men. On Friday the first body brought was that of a victim who died on the way to a hospital. It was closely followed by a run of 39 bodies. The number of dead recovered was then officially announced at 87, and the list was again verified by count. Three more dead were then reported from the hospitals, making in all 90. On Saturday morning early it was announced that 19 bodies were coming out, but only 15 arrived at the morgue. This made 105.

At this point the confusion began. The representative of the Cambria Relief association then announced that he had only counted 45 bodies received in the first lot and 37 in the second. What caused the difference in the number is still a mystery; but this is where the difference lies between his and the others.

Cambria Relief List Short.

The miners who brought out this last load insisted that there were 16 bodies, and after a searching investigation it was discovered that an undertaker had taken one direct to his shop instead of to the morgue, and the coroner had to make a trip and view the corpse. Three men were brought in the afternoon and four more in the evening. Two died at the hospital that night, bringing the total up to 116, while the Cambria Relief's list was four short, with 111. This has been acknowledged by the coroner.

Today relatives of missing miners called on Father Dembinsky and reported that 12 men had not been seen since the morning they went to work in the mine. When seen the priest said:

"I believe there are at least 12 members of my congregation missing. These men, I am informed, went into the mine on Thursday morning and have not been seen since. Their relatives and friends came to me today and gave me a description of the men and asked me to attempt to find them. I will report this to the relief committee.

"I am positive these men are entombed in some abandoned section of the mine. Of course the question will rise that some of them may take advantage of the disaster to disappear to obtain the $1,000 benefit money from the Cambria relief fund. This is not true, as I know that these miners were of good character and would not commit an act of that kind. There were only three of them married, and the rest were young men, who had not been in this country long.

Work on Church Suspended.

"The loss among the members of my congregation is certainly a severe blow to the church. Fifty-six dead have been buried already. We have a relief society in our church circles, and these members will be compelled to pay out about $40 apiece for the benefit of the widows and children. The members of the church had started to build a church and parsonage that will cost $10,000. We will have to suspend operations for the present, as we will not be able to meet the obligations and the payment of the relief fund.

"I know that a number of miners are missing from the Slovak congregation. I learned this today. They all went to work in the mine on Thursday morning and have not been seen since.

"Among the miners who were lost in my congregation, 46 were married and 10 single. I buried the last of these unfortunate fellows this morning. There were three of them, and we were unable to bury them Sunday.

Matthew Bridges, a member of the general relief committee and mail carrier in Cambria City, said last night after the meeting of the committee:

"Many of the miners are still missing from their homes in my district. Their relatives have visited the morgue and undertaking rooms in a vain search for them. I believe many of them are still in the mine, although I cannot say how many. I think 20 is a conservative estimate of the men who entered the mine that fatal morning and are still missing from their homes in Cambria City. None of them has been seen or heard from since the explosion, and their wives and mothers are frantic with anxiety. I believe the rescue parties will find more bodies in the mine."

MONT FELEE BLAMED FOR THE EXPLOSION

Vicinity of Harrisburg Uplifted Nearly Seven Feet Since the West Indian Eruptions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, PA., July 14.—Col. Henry C. Demming of this city, acting state geologist, has written a letter to Mine Inspector Evans at Johnstown, suggesting that the apparent uplift of a part of the state of Pennsylvania caused by the recent earthquake in Martinique and other islands of the West Indies, possibly may have been the direct or remote cause of the disaster at the Rolling Mill mine.

Col. Demming also has written to Charles D. Wolcott, director of the United States geological survey at Washington, calling attention to several rifts of earth and rock that have been found in Pennsylvania since he made his report in June; also to the record of the mercurial barometer in the United States weather bureau at Harrisburg, that in May and June this city and vicinity had been uplifted nearly seven feet.

TWO GIRLS HELD UP

Unknown Ruffians Assail Young Women With Revolvers in Altoona.

ALTOONA, PA., July 14.—(Special.)—Two girls were held up at point of revolvers by unknown ruffians here at a late hour last night. The first victim, Mary Parta, a German, aged 18, was attacked in Central park. Her assailant placed his arm around her waist and pressing a revolver to the girl's head threatened to shoot if she screamed, at the same time dragging his victim into an alley. Just then a man came along and the assailant became frightened and made his retreat.

Miss Emma Helbner was stopped in a similar manner about the same hour in the eastern end of the city. An unknown man went to her rescue and was knocked down by the ruffian. The authorities are yet without a clue.

May Be a Case of Murder.

Edward Allen, colored, was committed to jail last night by William Patterson, justice of the peace of Mendelsohn, on a charge of felonious assault and battery. He is alleged to have hit a man with a brick during a fight yesterday at the new Clairton steel works. His victim was still unconscious last night and it is feared he will die.

GUARDSMEN SUFFERING FROM HEAT

Soldiers Succumb During Hard Day's Drill at Gettysburg.

GOVERNOR STONE VISITS THE CAMP

Commander-in-Chief Received With Military Honors.

TRIAL IS ORDERED BY COURT-MARTIAL

By ROBERT WRAY,
Staff Correspondent.

Camp George G. Meade, Gettysburg, July 14.—A cloudless dawn broke upon the third day's encampment of the National guard at Gettysburg this morning, but before the sun had reached meridian sweltering horses and tired soldiers had wished the night had fallen. While pleasant mountain breezes swept over the fields at intervals, the men in khaki received little relief from the blazing July sun, and many of them succumbed to the heat.

The last note of the reveille had barely ended and marches were still being played on the color lines when the boys were moved to the drill grounds. For nearly two hours they were exercised and instructed in battle movements to prepare them for the ordeal of inspection, which awaits them tomorrow morning. The entire division was on different parts of the large parade grounds during the day. And the field was a shifting mass of color. Moving infantry in heavy masses, galloping cavalry and lumbering artillery made the scene one of bustle and hustle.

The Eighteenth infantry was the first command to usher in the third day of the encampment on the drill grounds. Companies quickly took positions and nearly 700 men were working on the mysteries of the drill regulations. The whole field was a picture of the pomp and paraphernalia of war and recalled the days when Meade and Lee maneuvered for position on this battle ground.

Day's Hard Drilling.

The absence of the great crowds which filled the camp on Sunday was a relief to officers and men, and gave them a chance to get down to hard work.

The field was clear for the drills and the commands were swung from line to column and from column to masses with great rapidity. From morning shots until the dinner call the drill continued and during the afternoon it was extended until the first call for parade, near sunset. It was hard work and tonight the camp is full of tired and sleeping soldiers and the patrol in Gettysburg can tell how easy until the morning gun wakes the echoes.

One of the interesting features of the day was the arrival of the commander-in-chief, Gov. W. A. Stone. He received a splendid military reception and had the honor of an escort of a battalion of cavalry commanded by Capt. Jones of the Sheridan troop. Late last night a message was received from Harrisburg announcing that the governor would arrive in camp at 10:30 this morning. Orders were at once sent to the cavalry and artillery camps for light Battery B and the cavalry battalion to report as escort to the governor. The battery was sent to division headquarters while the cavalry reported in Gettysburg. The guns were placed in battery while the troopers formed on Chambersburg street in the town.

Governor Inspects Camp.

An open carriage drawn by two black horses was waiting at the station for the governor and other carriages for his party. Curious soldiers and residents of the town awaited the arrival of the governor at the Washington street station. When he entered the carriage with Private Secretary Gerwig and Adjt.-Gen. Stewart it was rapidly driven to the intersection of the two streets where the cavalry battalion was awaiting him. As the governor's carriage reached the left of the line a sharp command from the commandant of the battalion caused 300 sabres to glisten in salute in the bright sunlight. While awaiting the carriages containing his party the governor remained uncovered until the sabres were returned to their scabbards. As the camp was reached the guns of Battery B boomed out the governor's salute. He was rapidly driven to the quarters of Gen. Miller, and after an interchange of courtesy returned to his own tent close by.

The governor left Harrisburg in a special train accompanied by Mrs. Stone, his daughter, and Mrs. Gerwig.

Accompanied by Gen. Miller, Gen. Stewart and Maj. Lewis E. Beitler, the governor made an inspection of the camp. He then returned to his quarters and remained there chatting with his friends until the dress parade of the First brigade at sundown.

Homeward Movements, Changed.

It has not yet been decided when the governor's review will be held, but as the inspection will begin tomorrow and last until Wednesday it is not likely that the review will be held until Thursday, in the meantime the governor will remain in the camp. He will return to Harrisburg on Friday evening and will accompany Secretary Root and Adjt.-Gen. Corbin, who will arrive here on Friday morning. It is likely that the review will be tendered the secretary of war on Friday.

The arrival of these two distinguished officials has caused a change in the homeward movements of the Second brigade from Gettysburg. It was the intention to have sent most of the commands to their home stations on Friday night and the Tenth and Sixteenth have been selected as the first to move out. The Fourteenth will now leave on Friday night and the Eighteenth infantry on Saturday morning.

An amusing incident occurred at brigade headquarters early this morning which ruffled the temper of Gen. Wiley and will cause much trouble for a member of the "Fighting Tenth." A herd of cows broke into the brigade headquarters stables and after consuming a large amount of forage laid down and went to sleep. Private William Reifer of Company A, Tenth infantry, Monongahela, was the sentry at the stables. He watched the cows eating the provender of the brigade horses, but made no attempt to stop them.

Fish Pond Raided.

The burglary was discovered by Maj. Lewis A. Anshutz, who questioned the sentry about the matter. Private Roller stated that he had witnessed the breaking-in of the cows, but that there was nothing in his orders to prevent such intrusion.

The private was sent to Gen. Wiley and to him he repeated the statement. The brigade officer of the day was then sent for by Gen. Wiley and told that the men should be instructed that there were many more important things than walking post and saluting officers. Charges have been preferred against Private Roller and he will be tried before a field officer's court in the morning.

Another court-martial will likely follow the raiding of a fish pond this morning. A number of soldiers of the Second brigade discovered a fish preserve back of the peach orchard. They rigged up a seine and proceeded to draw every living thing from the pond. Fish, eels, frogs and polywogs were captured and the soldiers' pockets and hats had been stuffed with their game when discovered by the owner of the preserve. He reported the robbery to the guard and after a chase of nearly two miles, two of the men were captured. They proved to be members of the Fifth infantry.

A regular soldier of the artillery battalion was arrested yesterday for looting a barber shop attached to Battery A of Phoenixville. The regular artillery is encamped with the artillery of the guard, and this soldier was discovered some days ago hanging about the camp of batteries.

Soldier in Guard House.

Several things suddenly disappeared after the regulars came into the camp. The soldier was watched and a search of his tent yesterday brought to light a lot of razors, scissors and other things that he had taken from the barber shop. He is a prisoner in the guard house of the regular battery.

The regular officers here are very much interested in the camp. Day and night they can be seen at all hours making inspections and watching the way in which guard duty is performed. They express themselves as very much pleased with the camp of the Second brigade.

The drill of the United States hospital corps, which was held this morning, while very interesting, taught the medical officers of the division very little. Most of the drill and other features of the work of the corps has been well understood by the officers of the guard. The hospital corps of the division will give their annual drill on Friday at division headquarters.

Private Morris F. R. Frank of Company C, Eighteenth infantry, has been ordered home by Surgeon B. S. Ralston. Frank met with an accident two weeks before coming to camp, which was pronounced a sprain by a Pittsburgh physician. An examination of his arm was made yesterday, when it was discovered that a small bone had been fractured in his arm and that an operation would be necessary.

A model camp, so far as conformation to the rules is concerned, as well as in every other way, is that of the Fourteenth regiment. The camp is excellently policed, its sanitary condition could hardly be bettered and the entire arrangements have formed the subject of enthusiastic comment from Division Surgeon Weaver.

BEST PIANOS.

And Special Inducements to Purchasers at Hamilton's.

During this midsummer season Hamilton's are offering such special inducements to customers that there is no reason why anyone in need of a piano should delay purchasing.

If this were a store of ordinary size, or one that was comparatively unknown, perhaps little significance would be attached to this announcement. But stop to think what this means. This is HAMILTON'S, admittedly the largest and best known music house in this part of the country—and realizing that you can procure one of the world's best instruments on special terms, you have an incentive to buy that is very extraordinary.

Here you'll find the A. B. Chase, the ideal piano—unquestionably the greatest piano ever produced—the refinement of tonal beauty. You'll own an A. B. Chase if you are determined to have the best possible to procure. And the J. & C. Fischer will hold your close attention, for it is the most remarkable piano in existence in point of brilliant vibrant quality. 118,000 Fischers are now in use. Yes, and they are becoming more popular all the time.

The Schumann is the very best piano ever sold at a moderate price. It appeals as much to the most talented musician as to other persons. So, if you prefer to pay only a moderate price, come in and hear the Schumann as soon as you can. The Hamilton and the Smith & Barnes pianos are also famous for their fine quality, although moderate-priced instruments. The fact is, every piano in this great stock is fully guaranteed, so that it makes not a particle of difference what one you may select, you are sure to get big value for your money.

Come in and hear the Angelus piano player—the only player that enables any person to play the piano without experience and have perfect expression. The Angelus plays any make of piano.

BEST WITNESS FOR AN INQUEST LIKELY TO DIE

Condition of Fire Boss Retallick Postpones Work of the Coroner.

HE HOLDS BLAST THEORY

Inspectors Believe from Preliminary Investigation They Know What Caused the Disaster, but Will Not Say for the Present.

By GEORGE A. CAMPSEY,
Staff Correspondent.

Johnstown, Pa., July 14.—The condition of John Retallick, the fire boss of the Seventh district, who had such a narrow escape from death in the Kloudike section of the Rolling Mill mine, is now regarded as critical. It is feared by Mine Inspector Josiah T. Evans that Retallick will not survive.

Since his rescue from the Mill creek entrance early Friday morning Mr. Retallick has been in the Cambria County Memorial hospital. He did not regain consciousness until several hours after being brought to the institution, but since that time until early this morning he has been getting along even better than was at first expected.

The change for the worse came suddenly and unexpectedly. It was said by the staff physicians at the hospital yesterday that the injured fire boss would be able to leave the hospital not later than tomorrow, and Coroner Dr. Edward L. Miller hoped he would be able to hold the inquests not later than Saturday. The change in the condition of Mr. Retallick has stopped all contemplated plans of the coroner, and he will not attempt to set a date for the inquests until Mr. Retallick is able to appear, or until it is certain he never will be able to appear.

Foreman Rodgers Better.

Harry Rodgers, foreman of the mine, who was rescued at the same time as Retallick and brought to the Memorial hospital, was so much improved this afternoon that he was allowed to leave the institution and go home. Probably it will be several days before he will be able to appear before the coroner's jury.

District Mine Inspectors Josiah T. Evans of Johnstown, I. G. Roby of Uniontown, C. B. Ross of Greensburg and Joseph Williams of Altoona called on Fire Boss John Retallick at the hospital this afternoon. They had not heard of the recent change in his condition and went to see him to get from him an official statement as to the real cause of the disaster.

The inspectors were admitted to the ward in which Mr. Retallick lies and talked with him a few minutes. He wished to tell them what he knew of the explosion, but they would not allow him to do so on account of his physical condition.

The interview published in The Gazette on Sunday morning from Mr. Retallick was the cause of the visit of the district inspectors to the Memorial hospital this afternoon. When Chief Mine Inspector James E. Rothrock, who is here investigating the horror, learned that blasting had been allowed in the mine, he started a searching inquiry. Blasting in a mine known to contain gas is not against the law, it is said, but all shots set off under these conditions are usually done under the instructions and superintendency of the mine inspector of the district.

Tentative Conclusion Reached.

After the district inspectors had returned from their visit to Memorial hospital this afternoon inspector Josiah T. Evans said:

"Mr. Retallick appeared willing and eager to tell us all he knew of the disaster; but we decide it was not best to allow him to do so today. His right lung appears to be greatly affected, but I hope he will recover, and we will have an opportunity of hearing his story before the coroner's jury.

"We fully believe now from the result of our investigations thus far that we are able to tell just what caused the accident, but will not make a statement at present. Of course if Mr. Retallick knows positively what caused the explosion it is a different matter and our theory of the cause will be set aside. We have also yet to see Mine Foreman Rodgers and get his opinion."

"Is the cause of the explosion you have fixed upon the result of carelessness or negligence of a miner?" was asked Inspector Evans.

He replied: "Now you will have to infer that. Our report will not be announced until the coroner's inquest. We wish to be sure of our ground first before making the cause public." Many opinions have been given by experienced miners as to the cause, but our decision in the matter will be final.

M'KEESPORT ELKS OWN THAT TOWN

THEY OPENED UP A MID-SUMMER CARNIVAL IN FINE SHAPE.

Today They Will Specially Entertain Visiting Brethren—Mayor Black Surrendered the City and Everybody Made Merry Last Night.

With a magnificent pageant and the blare of brass bands the big midsummer carnival and street fair of the McKeesport Elks was inaugurated yesterday afternoon. McKeesport was thrown wide open to the Elks and their carnival, and a week of festivity and hilarity is assured the Tube City.

The Carnival Company, under whose auspices the affair is being given, arrived Sunday night and had all their booths erected by noon yesterday. The feature of the carnival yesterday was the street parade and demonstration which occurred in the afternoon.

The parade which was to a great extent an industrial one, extended nearly three miles and took one hour to pass a given point. It is estimated that 5,000 men were in line in addition to the numerous floats and vehicles. The chief marshal of the parade was George J. F. Falkenstein, who occupied the head of the procession together with McKeesport's mayor, Robert J. Black.

The McKeesport Elks, attired in black coats and white duck trousers, with white yachting caps, were next in the ranks and were followed by various secret and military organizations of the city and some from neighboring towns.

Immediately after the parade Mayor Robert J. Black, before an immense concourse of people, from a platform on Market street, publicly welcomed the Elks and their carnival and turned the city over to them for the week. Mayor Black stated that the Elks could do as they pleased so long as they obeyed the law. The carnival attractions opened last night and the Youghiogheny river front was crowded with throngs of people until late.

McKeesport is literally one mass of bunting and flags and never before did it present so gay an appearance. The city police are handling the crowds much better than was expected. A score of additional officers are assisting the regular men.

Today is to be given up to the Allegheny, Monessen, Monongahela and Charleroi lodges, which will be entertained by the McKeesport Elks. Tomorrow will be Elks day and the best attractions of the week are reserved.

JEALOUSY OVER A WOMAN.

It Nearly Caused the Ending of Two Men in a Fight.

Both Frank Bucce and Chris. Donatelli were required to give bail for appearance at court in charges of felonious assault and battery yesterday by Alderman S. F. Kerr.

The trouble between the two occurred at Bucce's home, No. 4702 Laurel avenue, June 28. Donatelli testified that Bucce first attacked him with a hatchet and then cut his own throat with a razor for the purpose of suicide. Bucce testified that Donatelli used the razor on him.

The reputed cause of the trouble is jealousy over Bucce's wife. The wife was not permitted to testify.

BOER PRISONERS DO NOT COMPLAIN

PARTY OF THEM ARRIVES IN NEW YORK EN ROUTE TO OLD HOME.

Commandant Ferreira Says They Were Better Cared for Than They Could Have Cared for Englishmen Under Similar Circumstances.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 14.—Among the passengers who arrived today by the steamer Protoria from Bermuda were 108 Boers who were prisoners of war at Bermuda.

The Boers were clad in the same suits they wore in South Africa. Twenty-one of them had been officers. Among the most prominent were Gen. J. B. Wessels, Peter E. Steyn, a brother of President Steyn of the Orange Free State; J. De Villiers, late attorney general of the Free State, and Joubert Reitz, a son of the Free State secretary. None of the officers would talk about the way they had been treated by the British in Bermuda.

"We are all going home as quickly as possible," said Gen. Wessels. "We will try to build up our burned houses and restore things to their old standing. I shall join my wife and family in Pretoria. None of them have been captured, although my sons served all through the war and both were wounded."

The youngest member of the crowd was 12-year-old M. J. DeWet, cousin, he says, of the general. He is accompanied by his brother, P. S. DeWet, who is 21 years old. Both were captured on September 18, 1901, near Kimberley, while serving under Commandant Jacobs.

James L. Malloy of Boston and Michael Halley of Nevada, American citizens, arrived with the Boers. Malloy said he had gone to South Africa from America with a Red Cross ambulance corps and then joined the Boers.

Commandant Peter Ferreira of the Orange Free State said there are now about 4,600 Boers prisoners in the islands of Bermuda. Two hundred of these are Cape rebels. As most of them have no money for their passage home they will have to wait until a British transport arrives. Some of the released privates having complained of the treatment accorded them, Commandant Ferreira said he did not think officers or privates had much to complain of, adding that it was certain that the English cared for them much better than the Boers could have done for the English.

ERRATIC WEATHER.

More of the Cool, Rainy Variety Is Promised for Today, Despite Contrary Indications.

There seems to be no prospective end to the erratic weather of the season. Just when the people had got tired of the last cool spell and were willing to welcome a little heat, of which there was a spell yesterday, along comes the weather bureau predicting cooler weather for today. As if that were not enough, and as if rain sufficient had not fallen this summer, thunderstorms are scheduled.

The thermometer went up to 88 degrees in Pittsburgh yesterday, the records showing that from 4 and 5 p. m. the mercury hovered at that maximum. The lowest was 64 degrees, at 5 a. m. Denver was the hottest place in the country, and as the weather usually comes from that region, it was expected that today would be a scorcher in temperature, the thermometer having mounted there to 96 degrees.

PENNSYLVANIA WILL BUILD A SIX-TRACK LINE

More Improvements Planned Include a New Port Perry Bridge.

BESSEMER TERRACE PLANS

Scheme to Take Out Sharp Curves at Point of Rocks—Stretch from Brinton to Pitcairn to Be Made Six-Track System.

The Pennsylvania railroad has plans under advisement which will add something like $500,000 to expenditures for improvements on the main line between Pittsburgh and Pitcairn, and on the Monongahela division near where it intersects the main line at East Pittsburgh.

The Port Perry bridge is to be rebuilt for double tracks at a cost of about $100,000, the present four-track system between old Brinton station and the Wall yards, a distance of two and a half miles, is to have two new tracks added at a cost of about $150,000, and at Bessemer terrace, sometimes called Point of Rocks, there is under advisement a complete change of the line for about three-quarters of a mile, besides improvements at passenger terminals at several points which will make the aggregate expenditure mentioned.

The change at Bessemer Terrace, if carried out, will call for a complete change of line and the erection of a new four-track system, which will eliminate four or five sharp curves in the course of three-quarters of a mile. In the plan of extending the present four-track system between Brinton and Wall yards to a six-track system, it is not intended to make any change on the present four-track stone bridge at Brinton.

Passenger Tunnel at East Pittsburgh.

At East Pittsburgh station, which has taken the place of Brinton, a passenger tunnel will be driven under the tracks and a shelter shed erected on the opposite side from the station, so that passengers may be taken care of from both sides.

Work on the widening of the present Port Perry tunnel is nearing completion. The extended tunnel will contain two tracks. This work is being done by H. S. Kerbaugh, incorporated, of Philadelphia, who did much of the work on Union station and is now doing the elevated track work on the Ft. Wayne road in Allegheny east of Federal street.

The improvements at the Port Perry bridge will include the extension of the present piers and the construction of a new steel superstructure. The work on this is to be taken up in a short time. Work on the new Brinton commodity yards is being pushed forward rapidly. These yards will handle 1,000 cars at a time.

The Pennsylvania railroad is now arranging to change its No. 1 track between Wilkinsburg and Brinton, which is now the eastbound freight track, and make it the eastbound passenger track. This puts the passenger tracks on the four-track system on the outside nearly all the way from Pittsburgh to Greensburg and provides for the fencing off of the freight tracks at all stations.

Change Eventually to Stewart.

This change will end for the present at Brinton, but will eventually go on to Stewart, beyond where the four-track system is now operated in that manner, except for the distance of three and a half miles between Stewart and Larimer, where a new four-track system, with new alignment, is now being completed by Booth & Flinn. This change of line will be completed some time within a year. It is costing approximately $1,500,000.

On the Pennsylvania main line there is now a fifth track between the East Liberty stock yards and Hawkins station. This is designed to obviate interference with the outer passenger tracks and to communicate with the many sidings running to manufacturing plants in that section. Between Braddock and Stewart there is another fifth track for the same purpose.

Music in Parks Tonight.

ELKIN LOOKED AT LOCAL SITUATION

HE DENIED, HOWEVER, THAT HIS MISSION WAS POLITICAL.

Arrangements Are Being Perfected for the Coming of Campaign Orators. Senator Quay Off for Maine—Treasurer Harris Denies Being Turned Down.

Attorney General John P. Elkin was in Pittsburgh yesterday spending a few hours with political friends and avoiding people he did not want to see. He came in on a morning train and established himself at the Hotel Duquesne, and spent the day there. He refused to talk about anything but the weather, and to those who wondered whether he might be talking politics he denied anything of the sort. He said his visit was purely one of business, and that he could not say a word of politics to anyone.

Mr. Elkin declined to utter a word about the state campaign, or whether he would have a candidate for United States senator. It is pretty generally known, however, that he was endeavoring to learn yesterday what strength he could secure in this county for a fight against Penrose.

It is also pretty generally known that he secured very little encouragement. Allegheny county Republicans have had enough internal warfare, and are regular this time. It is understood that any fight against Penrose is to be made inside the caucus, and will not go any farther.

Spellbinders Are to Come.

Senator M. S. Quay and the local Republican leaders have arranged to open the campaign in this county about September 15, with a list of speakers perhaps the best ever heard in this part of the state. Addresses will be made by men who stand high in the party councils, many of them having national reputations.

It is the intention to have Republican principles thoroughly promulgated throughout Western Pennsylvania, and special attention will be given to arousing the people so that Judge S. W. Pennypacker, the Republican candidate for governor, and the rest of the ticket, will have one of the largest majorities ever given any Republican candidate in this state.

Senator Quay and family passed through Pittsburgh early yesterday morning and Philadelphia last night on their way to the Adirondacks. The senator's family will remain at Lake Placid, while he goes for a hunting and fishing trip in Maine. Senator Penrose met Col. Quay at the Broad street station in Philadelphia last night and they had a final chat on the political situation, which both said was entirely satisfactory. Col. Quay was joined at Philadelphia by "Ben" Sooey, the famous guide and angling expert.

Treasurer Harris in Town.

State Treasurer Frank G. Harris was in Pittsburgh yesterday, but denied that politics had anything to do with his trip west. Business, he says, has been occupying his attention. He denied that he had been defeated at the recent primaries in his county, as he nominated two friends for the legislature and chose the county chairman.

The state treasury, Mr. Harris says, contains more money than at any one time before, the available cash balances amounting to $10,000,000. Much of this is deposited in this city, but the school appropriations of $5,500,000 will have to be paid out in October.

The Citizens' party of Duquesne opened its headquarters yesterday in a large building on North Duquesne avenue. Meetings of the party will be held there and plans laid for the fall and spring campaigns. The central committee which is to have supervision of the campaigns, organized by the election of Burgess George Estep, president; W. O. Walker, secretary; Harry Adams, treasurer; Nicholas Schoerr, J. C. Kneply and W. H. Smith vice-presidents.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND HONORS TO GROVER

Tilden Club's Invitation to Bryan Mislaid, But He Wouldn't Have Accepted, Anyhow.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 14.—William Jennings Bryan's long-delayed letter of apology to the Tilden club of this city was received by the secretary of the club today. Following is the letter:

Secretary Tilden Club, New York:

Dear Sir—When Mr. Cleveland left the Democratic party in 1896 I recognized the right to do so and did not criticise his decision, although as the party candidate I was compelled to bear the odium which his administration had brought upon the party—an odium which has already led to a more disastrous defeat than any since experienced. He has never yet indicated any intention to return to the Democratic party, and his business interests are now such as to make his return impossible. Until he does manifest some respect for Democratic principle and policies, I do not understand why he should be an honored guest at a political dinner given by a Democratic club.

Having thrown his influence to the Republican party in two campaigns, he is hardly in a position to advise the party which he abandoned, or, as he expressed it, which banished him. I am anxious to see the party grow in numbers and in strength, but it is absurd to expect this result to follow an attempt on the part of deserters to turn the party over to the control of those who find the society of Republicans more congenial than that of those who believe in the platforms adopted in 1896 and 1900.

Through the oversight of a clerk in my office I did not see the invitation sent by your club, and I did not know until last Wednesday that one had been received. On that day I received a telegram from my secretary, addressed to me at Aberdeen, S. D., saying that such a communication had been found.

I regret exceedingly that it did not come to me before the time; for while I would not have thought proper to accept, I would have acknowledged the courtesy and given my reasons for declining. Harmony is only possible between those who desire the triumph of the same principles and policies. It is quite evident that Mr. Cleveland's supporters are nearer to the Republican than the Democratic party.

Yours truly,
W. J. BRYAN.

FOUGHT TO A DRAW.

Honors Even in Murphy-Reeder Bout at Beaver Falls.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., July 14.—(Special.)—The 15-round bout between Paddy Murphy of Pittsburgh and Jimmy Reeder of Altoona before the Nonpareil Athletic club at this place tonight went the limit and resulted in a draw. Both men put up a furious fight and but little science was displayed. It was a case of hit and take from start to finish.

In the fifth round Reeder hit the floor and took the count, but in the sixth he rallied and pushed Murphy to the limit. In the thirteenth round Reeder had Murphy on the go for a time, but the Irish lad turned and fought the negro like a demon. At the end of the fifteenth round neither man had received serious injuries. Reeder challenged Murphy to a 20-round bout before the club offering the best purse, which challenge was immediately accepted by Murphy's manager.

ERRORS' TRAIN IN THE TRAIL OF ONE CORPSE

A Glimpse of Floater Causes Commotion Along Allegheny River.

HUNDREDS FLOCK TO SEE

Motorman Templeton's Excitement Communicated Telepathically to Multitudes—Scared a Woman, Was Chased as a Thief.

Somewhere in the Allegheny river or in the upper Ohio the body of a dead man is floating. Two persons got a glimpse of it yesterday, and in a few minutes crowds were peering for the body. It was seen but once, as a swirl in the water brought it to the surface, and it has not been seen since. The momentary glimpse of the corpse by H. A. Templeton had a comedy of errors in its train. Templeton is a motorman and lives at No. 534 North avenue, Millvale.

He was crossing the Forty-third Street bridge yesterday afternoon on his return from work. Nearing the Allegheny side, he happened to glance down into the water, and there he saw the head and shoulders of a man, plainly dead and bloated, appear on the surface.

"Good gracious!" said Templeton. "It's a man. Isn't that a man, a dead one?" he asked of a strange woman, clutching her arm just as she was passing.

The woman looked over the railing in the direction indicated, saw the corpse, shrieked and promptly fainted into Templeton's arms. The motorman, believing that prompt action was necessary, laid the woman down, ran back toward Pittsburgh to telephone to the morgue about the corpse.

Thought Templeton Was a Robber.

He was using the telephone when he was aware of a turmoil outside the office and saw a crowd through the window. The crowd, believing he had robbed the woman, had pursued him from the Allegheny end of the bridge. Templeton straightened them out, aided by other men from the bridge, to whom the woman, now recovered, had told the story. Then Templeton, after telephoning to Sharpsburg and Steubenville, at some personal expense, to look out for the body of a floater, mounted a car to go to the morgue.

While he was on the way the morgue officials ran down to the river, which is only a few yards away, and stared at the water. They were seen by the workmen on the coal dock, by pedestrians and by boarders at the Home hotel, and soon a crowd gathered, and it grew rapidly. On the Allegheny side another crowd, seeing the commotion on this side, congregated on the river bank. The excitement was seen by travelers on the Tenth street, Ninth street and then on the Sixth street bridges, and they stopped and gazed at the water.

In the meantime the Forty-third street footways were congested, seeing which, persons crossing on the Herr's Island bridge stopped, and this, being seen from the Sixteenth street bridge, caused a crowd to gather there. All were gazing up stream, and none of the hundreds, but the morgue attendants and the crowd on the Forty-third street bridge, knew what they were looking for.

He Never Thought of That.

Presently Templeton, ignorant of the commotion he had caused, appeared at the morgue, just as the disgusted officials, realizing that the corpse might take a day or two to come to Eighth street, got back to their station. Templeton told the story of being mistaken for a highway robber and about telephoning to Steubenville and Beaver.

"Why didn't you go down to the river bank and tell somebody with a skiff to get that floater?" asked one of the morgue officials.

"I never thought of that," said Templeton, crestfallen.

"Go down to the river bank and see what you did," said another official.

Templeton went down to the shore, saw the crowds lining both banks of the river and the bridges, all gazing intently at the water, and then fled. He had already told the morgue men that he had once saved the life of a woman, who jumped off a ferryboard plying between New York and Jersey City.

"She jumped off, and I in after her. I saved her life," said Templeton.

The crowds at the various points mentioned melted away. The corpse is still somewhere in the river.

Paine's Celery Compound

After the Failures of Physicians, Special Medicines and Electric Battery, Banishes Pain and Tortures and Restores Health.

In the ranks of sick, tortured, and diseased sufferers, many men and women have become hopeless because of the failures of physicians and their medicines.

We would have all such dejected and despairing mortals take comfort this very day. We would impress upon them the blessed truth that Paine's Celery Compound is abundantly able to save and cure even at the eleventh hour. Paine's Celery Compound accomplishes its life-saving work for the old and young when all other medical treatment fails. A multitude of people have furnished strong and incontrovertible testimony in support of the statement that "Paine's Celery Compound makes sick people well." Mr. John W. Boyd, of Mishawaka, Ind., refers to his own case as follows:

"Last winter I was taken down with a very severe attack of nervous and muscular rheumatism, so bad that I could not lie down, sit up or stand, without the most excruciating pain. I was all the time under the care of two of the best physicians of the place, but I did not improve. I took different rheumatic cures and used an electric battery a half hour each day for 10 days without any relief. Finally I concluded to try Paine's Celery Compound, and to my surprise after using one half of a bottle, I was able to get out, and before I used the whole bottle I went to work and have worked every day since. I have gained 20 pounds in weight and am feeling first rate."

COUNCILMEN GET ALL MIXED UP IN MAKING MOTIONS

A 15-Minute Session of Common Council That Was Largely Farcical.

EVERYBODY VOTED WRONG

Like a Pack of Sheep They Followed Confused Leaders and in the End the Victory Was to the Handful of Ringsters.

Pittsburgh common council met last night in special session for the purpose of authorizing the employment of experts to form an estimate of what it will cost to construct a filtration plant according to the plans that have been prepared by the city government.

Nothing was done. At the very outset the members got into an awful parliamentary tangle, and 15 minutes later, when it was straightened out, it was necessary to adjourn to avoid having to sit in the chamber for three or four hours listening to a reading of the minutes. It was really a victory for the eight organization men of the branch, and after adjournment they crowded and cheered and slapped each other on the back and guyed the reform members, who looked sheepish and tried to figure out just how they had been "him-flammed."

Both Sides Mixed Up.

The reform element had enough members present to prevent a reading of the minutes, but laboring under a misapprehension defeated a motion to suspend the rules, which would have made a reading of the minutes unnecessary.

The machine men, also laboring under a misapprehension, voted to suspend the rules, although at the same time the desire to read the rules emanated from that side of the chamber.

After the roll call, when it was found that a quorum was present, President C. S. Crawford, following the usual order, suggested that a motion to dispense with the reading of the minutes would be in order. Before any of the reform members could get recognition Richard McNally of the Thirteenth ward, a ringster, made a motion that the minutes be read.

The reading of the minutes being the regular order of business and not requiring any such action President Crawford very properly declined to recognize McNally's motion and W. H. Stevenson of the Fourteenth ward secured the floor. He promptly made a motion that the rules be suspended, so that it would not be necessary to read the minutes. This motion was seconded by Dr. George W. McNeil of the Twenty-first ward, and President Crawford promptly ordered a calling of the roll on the motion.

Armstrong Started the Trouble.

The first name on the roll is that of Joseph G. Armstrong of the Twenty-ninth ward. Armstrong reached the chamber late and came in just as Clerk W. C. Gearing was calling his name. He had not the slightest idea what the question before the body might be, but he voted "aye," because long years of service as a machine member had taught him to vote "aye" after any measure had passed through the machine clearing house, as he supposed, presumably, that this one, whatever it was, had. Had Armstrong known what the plans of his fellow ringsters were he would have voted "no," or against the suspension of the rule, because the machine men wanted the rule to stand which required the reading of the minutes. They hoped by forcing a reading of the minutes to obstruct the filtration resolution which was to follow.

The next name on the roll is that of John P. Baldauf of the Twenty-seventh ward, a reform member, and whose constituents when they elected him told him if he voted against anything the machine might vote for, that he could scarcely go wrong. Baldauf knew this to be an ordinarily safe rule to follow. So he promptly voted "no," after he heard Armstrong vote "aye." Baldauf's vote was, therefore, really playing into the hands of the obstructing ringsters, because it militated against the suspension of the rules, and made a reading of the rules minutes necessary.

Followed Like So Many Sheep.

When the other reform members saw that Armstrong voted "aye" and Baldauf voted "no," they "seen their duty and they done it." They all promptly voted "no," each vote snowing the suspension of the rules still deeper, and helping out the plans of the ringsters unwittingly. The only reform member on the list who voted as he really wanted the matter to go was John Martin of the Fourth ward, and he changed his vote to "no" before the clerk had announced the vote.

At the same time the other seven machine members followed Armstrong and voted "aye" when they really wanted to vote "no," as they were opposing a suspension of the rules and wanted to force the reading of the minutes. They voted "aye" partly because Armstrong, their leader, did, and partly because the reform members were voting "no." They were as hopelessly muddled as their reform brethren.

Of course when Clerk Gearing announced that the vote on the motion to suspend was 8 for and 25 against, President Crawford was compelled to rule that the motion was lost, and that the minutes would have to be read.

The reformers and ringsters were dazed alike. Neither knew how it had happened. The machine obstructionists were pleased and the reform members were dumb with astonishment.

Then They Had to Adjourn.

Dr. McNeil was the first to recover. He sprang to his feet and moved to adjourn. The reform members voted right this time and the branch promptly adjourned. President Crawford said that another meeting would be called in a short time, when the needed business would be transacted. Mr. Crawford will be out of the city for a few days, but will give the matter his attention upon his return.

The action of McNally in demanding the reading of the minutes was the result of a caucus the machine members held in the lower rotunda previous to the meeting. They decided to fight the suspension of the rules and to compel the branch to adjourn without the adoption of the filtration resolution. They succeeded, but few of them could tell after the meeting how they had accomplished it. They gave a cheer after council adjourned.

The impression is growing that there is method in the aim of the machine members in obstructing the appointment of experts to go over the filtration figures, and that something more than filtration is in the figures. Director J. Guy McCandless of the department of public works is having prepared.

If there is not the policy of the machine members in fighting the investigation of these figures is peculiar.

No Hurry About the Experts.

The reform members are not at all anxious to adopt the resolution just now, as there is really no hurry for the appointment of the experts. Director McCandless says the plans will not be ready for three weeks, and as the experts can do nothing until they get the plans their appointment can be deferred.

The resolution was to have been introduced by Mr. Stevenson. It provides for the appointment of an expert or experts, to go over the plans prepared for the construction of the filtration plant, and determine what it will cost to carry these plans into effect—to build a plant such as these plans call for. By the terms of the resolution Supt. A. B. Sheperd of the bureau of water supply and distribution is to work with the experts. Director McCandless has already said that he does not believe he can spare Supt. Shepherd for the time that would be required to go over these plans.

Select council met yesterday afternoon and after transacting considerable business adjourned to meet on the second Monday of September at 2:30 o'clock. This branch passed the ordinance granting to the Pennsylvania railroad the right to extend its tracks on Liberty street from Eleventh to Twelfth street. The measure passed common council some weeks ago and is now up to Recorder J. O. Brown. The passage of the measure carries out an agreement made by the city with the company some time ago.

Crossing Made Less Dangerous.

The passage of this measure enables the railroad company to straighten its tracks on Liberty street and makes the crossing less dangerous to the traveling public.

The joint resolution adopted by common council authorizing the appointment of a committee of seven, three from select council and four from common council, to confer with the trustees of Carnegie Institute regarding a site for the Technological school was adopted without opposition.

The report of the general committee on filtration and all communications and papers relating to filtration were, on motion of John Benz, referred to the special committee on filtration of the select branch.

On the call of wards the following papers were presented and referred: Ordinances authorizing the construction of a bridge on the line of Missouri street, between South Eighteenth and Sterling streets, to cost not more than $40,000, establishing the grade of Everett and East Carson streets; vacating Farel street and opening Missouri street.

STRIKE AT PENN MANOR.

Not Getting the Screen and Rate Asker For, 178 Miners Yesterday Quit Work.

The miners of the Penn Manor Shaft Company, at Irwin, Pa., which was recently reorganized under new ownership, are on strike to establish a wage rate of 65 cents the ton over a 1-inch screen.

The men have been working at a rate of 70 cents the ton over a 1¾-inch screen. A committee asked for the substitution of the 1-inch screen at the new rate and the management of the company offered to pay 80 cents with the old screen.

The men refused this and asked for acceptance of their original proposition by Saturday. Not getting this the 178 miners of the plant quit yesterday.

VAUDEVILLE AT THE PARKS.

Pleasing Variety of Entertainment Is Now Offered at Southern Park.

What was really the beginning of free vaudeville in the parks this season was the entertainment at Southern park last night. Instead of a brass band concert there was a varied program of refined entertainment. Maj. R. H. Hendershot, the original drummer boy of the Rappahannock, and his son, gave drum and fife exercises, imitating sounds of battle, galloping horses, express trains, etc. Hoy's Marionette minstrels, worked by Frank Hoy and John Hall, gave a creditable performance in a miniature theater. Hall was encored for his old man delineations and imitations of people. Earl Lindsay, a nine-year-old boy change artist from Philadelphia, showed wonderful ability as a dancer and singer. His impersonation of a Pittsburgh policeman pleased the crowd. There were over 3,000 persons present. The vaudeville show will be continued all week, afternoon and evening.

Helen May Butler's ladies' brass band of Providence opened a week's engagement at Kennywood yesterday. Several thousand people attended in the evening and enjoyed the music.

ONLY AN AGENT.

Government, Not the Railroad, Is Responsible for Mail Matter Lost.

ST. LOUIS, July 14.—The United States circuit court of appeals today affirmed the verdict of a lower court in the case of Bankers Mutual Casualty Company against the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Ste. Marie Company, which was in favor of the defendant.

The court declared that a railroad company is merely the agent of the government, and not responsible to a third party for the loss of mail matter. It is responsible to the government only.

QUESTION LEFT UNSOLVED.

Two Men Quarrel Over Culinary Abilities, One Is Dead and the Other in Jail.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—In a fight with knives late this afternoon Martin Schreiber, aged 22, was killed almost instantly by Edward Duffy, 19 years. The men, with several women, had been drinking in a house at 1226 Wallace street.

A dispute arose between the men over the ability of Schreiber to cook a piece of meat, which resulted in both men seizing knives and fighting until Schreiber dropped to the floor with a wound in his heart. Duffy and three witnesses were arrested.

TWO NEW COLONIES FOR MINE WORKERS

U. S. COAL AND COKE CO. CONTRACTS FOR 200 HOMES.

They Will Be Used to House Men Who Are to Open Up 50,000 Acres of Pocahontas Coal Near Welsh, W. Va. Pittsburghers Get the Work.

The United States Coal & Coke Company, controlled by the United States Steel Corporation, has placed contracts for two colonies of houses to be used as the homes of some of the thousands of miners and coke workers to be employed at the new workings in the Pocahontas field, near Welch, W. Va., where 50,000 acres of coal will be developed. The contracts were placed by William Glyde Wilkins of Pittsburgh, constructing engineer for the company.

They provide for 200 dwellings, which will form the nucleus of a new community to be known as Wilcoe, so named in honor of William Coe, engineer of bridges of the Norfolk & Western railroad. The contract for the erection of the houses was placed with D. M. Fair & Sons of Pittsburgh.

Another group of 100 houses will start another new town to be known as Gary, named in honor of Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation. A. T. Stevenson of Pittsburgh will erect these houses. The aggregate value of the contract is about $200,000.

The work of erection is to start at once, the town of Welch now being overcrowded by the many miners and coke workers who are flocking there for the start of operations. The first group of coke ovens will soon be ready to start and the drift openings that are being made are well into the body of the coal and three mines are already producing coal. All the houses are to be ready for occupancy by early spring.

GEN. BRAGG DENIES PIG TAIL WHISTLE

Says His Opinion of the Cubans Will Be Given Officially to the State Department.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
(Copyright, 1902, by the New York Herald Co.)

HAVANA, July 14.—Consul General Bragg says the publication of an alleged statement by him in a letter to his wife that "Uncle Sam might as well try to make a whistle out of a pig's tail as to try to do anything with the Cubans," was wholly unwarranted. He has telegraphed to the state department that he was not accurately quoted.

What Gen. Bragg said was that when Uncle Sam got through trying to make a whistle out of a pig's tail he would report whether he could make an Anglo-Saxon out of a Cuban. What he wrote was in a private letter to his wife without expectation of its publication.

As a public officer in the consular service of the United States Gen. Bragg said he would not use any such statement for general publication. What he thinks of Cuba and the Cubans he will report to the appointing power in Washington. Cubans here are inclined to accept Gen. Bragg's statement that he was not quoted correctly.

"Gen. Bragg has not been here long enough to form an intelligent and adequate opinion either of the Cuban people or the political or economic situation of the island," said a representative.

TITUSVILLE MEN'S PURCHASE.

They Buy One of the Largest Tanneries in the United States.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 14.—(Special.)—Samuel G. and George H. Maxwell of Titusville, Pa., today concluded a deal for the Jellico tannery, one of the largest in the United States, covering 20 acres, and also 50,000 acres of Cumberland, Anderson and Campbell county coal, timber and oil lands. The deal was consummated through T. T. B. Sher of Lafollette, who returned Saturday from Pittsburgh. The consideration is upwards of $350,000, a cash payment of $104,000 being made.

It is understood that Messrs. Maxwell are backed by a wealthy syndicate of Pennsylvanians, the same who organized the Fentress company a few days ago. Seven carloads of improved machinery are now coming from Pittsburgh for the tannery, and it will resume operations. It is intended to begin the development of the coal and timber land simultaneously with the operation of the tannery.

Chicago Business Men Are Badly Crippled by Freight Handlers' Strike.

WILL FIGHT TO FINISH

Neither the Railroad Managers Nor Their Employes Will Give in an Inch—Commission Men Are Losing $1,000,000 a Day.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, July 14.—While the wholesale business of this city is almost completely paralyzed, and while its business men are suffering a loss of $1,000,000 per day, the striking freight handlers and the railroads are in a deadlock, and announce their determination to fight to the finish over the question of one-half a cent per hour per man, or a total of about $500 for every 24 hours, this sum being divided on one side between 24 railroads and on the other between 10,000 men.

The situation tonight is more serious than at any time since the commencement of the trouble and at no time since the walkout have the points at issue been so obstinately maintained. Three times today the freight handlers sent committees to meet the general managers and three times they came back without result.

Teamsters Will Help.

The last committees were sent out by President Curran of the freight handlers at the demand of the teamsters, who wanted something attempted toward a settlement. All the committees reported as before, that they had failed of any result. The committee that went to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road came back bearing the information that they had been refused admission and were informed that their former employers did not care to receive them.

After this had been reported at the headquarters of the strikers President Curran announced that the fight was on to a finish and that hereafter when the railroads had any overtures to make or wished to do any business with their employes they would be compelled to transact such business through the officers of the Freight Handlers' union.

The business men of the city, particularly those who deal in perishable goods, are growing restive and declare they can endure the situation but a short time longer. It is costing them more than either the strikers or the railroads and they say that if the strike shall not be settled within a week many of them will be badly crippled.

Employers to Become Drivers.

To bring about an end to the blockade which is maintained by the strikers and teamsters the commission men of South Water street met this afternoon to take matters into their own hands. It was out of the question for their employers to look to the teamsters to drive to the depots and they therefore determined to drive their own wagons to the depots tomorrow and remove from them all the goods that have been consigned to them, much of which is being rapidly ruined. A message was sent to Mayor Harrison asking if police protection would be given them and word was received that ample protection would be afforded.

The danger to the men who deliver freight is not so much at the depot as it will be from the men who will follow them when they leave the depot and attack them when they are not in the vicinity of the police. There were but few such cases today, as nobody attempted to deliver any freight. One driver took two small packages to the depot of the Pennsylvania road and at last accounts he was still besieged there. Many pickets were waiting for him and he was afraid to leave the depot.

The firm of J. V. Farwell & Co. today attempted to take some cases of dry goods from their warehouse to their store on Market street and a crowd of men and boys surrounded the wagon, cut the traces and refused to allow the wagons to proceed. The wagons had not been near a freight depot and were not bound for one.

ELECTRIC FIRE ENGINE.

Test of an Alleghenian's Invention to Be Made This Afternoon.

A fire engine run by electricity is to be tested at 2 o'clock today at Market and Juniata streets, Allegheny. It is the invention of James W. Weaver of Perrysville avenue, who has been working on it for three years and now believes he has evolved a practical machine. It weighs 7,500 pounds and carries its own dynamos, the latter having been made by a firm in Cincinnati from Weaver's models.

The dynamos occupy the same position as the furnace and boiler in the ordinary fire engine and get their power by the simple method of attaching a wire to any electric wire on poles or the wires of a street car line. The demonstration today will be witnessed by Recorders J. O. Brown and John Murphy, the fire chiefs of the two cities and many insurance men.

TRAIN ROBBERS LINE UP VICTIMS AND SEARCH ALL

Passengers Throw Their Valuables in the Brush to Defeat the Thieves.

FOUR MEN IN THE CRIME

One Strikes Engineer on the Head and Breaks Gunstock—Two Safes Are Blown Open, but Little Booty Is Secured.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Salida, Col., July 14.—The Denver & Rio Grande narrow gauge passenger train, which left here early last night, was held up and robbed by four men near Sargents, west of Marshall pass.

The robers blew open two safes in the baggage car and demolished the sides and roof of the car. The company says no money was lost. The mail car was not molested. All the passengers were ordered to go to the rear of the train and get out on to the ground.

After using three charges of dynamite the robbers succeeded in opening the safes and took the contents. They then went back to the passengers and relieved them of their money and jewelry. Many of the passengers threw their money, jewelry and transportation into the grass and rocks. An engine and coach will be returned to the scene with the passengers in order that they may recover their property.

One of the robbers addressed remarks to Engineer Ruland, who did not understand what was said, and before Ruland could ask him to repeat his remarks the robber struck him a blow with a Winchester rifle, breaking the stock of the gun. Ruland was able to handle his engine through to the terminal, but his head is badly swollen. No passengers were hurt.

The bandits mounted horses and disappeared in the ravines that lead into Marshall pass. The sheriff at Salida and sheriffs of adjoining counties and a dozen posses are in pursuit.

The train is the most important train operated on the narrow gauge line, carrying passengers for Gunnison, Lake City, Ouray, Telluride and other mountain towns in the western slope.

ASPINWALL REPELS INVADERS WITH HOSE

Pittsburgh Railways Company Prevented from Doing As It Pleases by Determined Residents.

Because the Pittsburgh Railways Company refused to come to an agreement with Aspinwall borough in the matter of relaying tracks on the main thoroughfare, 300 men, women and children of the borough, aided by the volunteer fire company, drove off a gang of nearly 100 laborers, yesterday, who attempted to tear up the tracks.

The fight began early in the morning. Last midnight the town was lined from end to end with thick hose, and a watch stood by the borough fire tower ready to give alarm the moment the Railways company attempted to make an advance.

The women outdid the men, yesterday, in their enthusiasm to stand for the borough's rights. One young woman on Freeport avenue invited the fire laddies to attach a part of their hose to the hydrant in the rear of her home, and when this was done she turned the hose, full in the face of the workers in front of her residence. One Italian laborer fell into a hole, and the younger element found much enjoyment in sprinkling him with a stream.

At noon the laborers and the superintendent of construction retreated, but returned in the afternoon. The men were holding a quiet conference when the laborrs came a second time, but the plucky women took the hose and turned it on the invaders. Some of the women played the hose on the laborers until they were actually washed out of the borough line.

The Railways company officials finally ordered the men off and attempted to come to an agreement with the borough officials, but as yet no agreement has been entered into. The officials of the company sent for the councilmen, but those worthies were a bit suspicious that it was merely a ruse to get them out of town, and then get to work while they were away, so they referred the company to their attorney, Frank R. Agnew.

Pending a settlement the officials stated last night that they would stick to their hose and drive off any one who attempted to relay track.

From what could be gleaned last night it appears that the Railways company wants to get six more feet of the driveway for the purpose of giving greater width between its tracks, and also wants to standardize the entire road.

"The borough," said J. Shanor, president of councils, last night, "has no objection to the company's standardizing its road. In fact it is a thing to be wished for. But we want the company know that it can't have everything for nothing. It has had clear sailing for sometime in this town, and now we propose that it treat us the same as other towns. All we ask is that it pave the street from the curb to the first rail. Now, understand, we ask them to pave but one side. Other towns compel them to pave from curb to curb. We were under the impression that they proposed to do this, but we were surprised to find that now only did they propose not to do it, but that they acually had in view sealing six more feet of the driveway. Now this is the only driveway we have. We will not under any conditions give away any more of it, and we will not allow the company to relay tracks until it gives a guarantee that this same driveway will not be cut and that it will be paved."

New Castle Woman Captures Burglar in Her Home; Two Men Are Killed by Firedamp in an Old Well

THIEF CAUGHT BY A WOMAN

Mrs. Hays of New Castle Held Burglar Until Help Arrived.

PRISONER CONFESSES GUILT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 14.—Mrs. Charles Hays of Oakland avenue captured a burglar red-handed in her home this morning and held him until others in the house were aroused and came to her assistance. The robber was finally overpowered and taken to central police station.

The prisoner gave his name as James Mulvey of Cleveland, and the police believe that Mrs. Hays made a most important capture. As she descended the stairs this morning she heard someone moving about and rushed in to see Mulvey taking a $5 bill from her purse, which had been left in the kitchen cupboard. Mrs. Hays grasped the man by the hair and called out "Murder!" and "Robber!" which aroused two boarders who were sleeping above.

The boarders had a terrible battle with Mulvey before the police arrived. He had no weapon and was terribly beaten by the angry men before the officers reached the scene in response to a telephone message. Mulvey says he did not attempt burglary, but went to the Hays house to get something to eat. When his knock at the door was not responded to, he tried it and found it unlocked. Then he walked in to help himself and came across the pocketbook he was rifling when Mrs. Hays came in the kitchen.

Murphy informed Chief of Police Horner that he had a partner whose name he professes not to know. The partner left Mulvey but a few moments before the latter tried the Hays door and got into trouble. The police believe that Mulvey is responsible for nearly all the robberies that have been committed in this city within the past month. This afternoon Mulvey was charged with robbery, burglary and entering a house in the day time. He pleaded guilty to all the charges and was bound over for trial.

MAY BUILD CLAY PLANTS

American Sewer Pipe Company Officials Resign, Causing Rumors of New Industries.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 14.—(Special.)—Announcement was made here today of the resignation of Thomas F. Anderson, of this city, as district superintendent of the American Sewer Pipe Company, of Pittsburgh, and also of the resignation of Capt. James Porter, general manager of the paving brick plants, operated by the company. Both have held their respective positions for years.

It is reported that Mr. Anderson proposes to ally himself with a company that will erect a large plant in Western Pennsylvania, which will be operated independent of the trust. Capt. Porter is for the manufacture of paving brik, and known to have asked at Pittsburgh for bids for machinery for an independent plant for the manufacture of paving brick, and with associates is understood to be about to erect such a plant in this section.

PENNY ICE WAGONS.

Salvation Army Yesterday Started One of Its Praise-Worthy Charities in Poorer Districts.

Through the medium of "penny ice wagons" the Salvation Army distributed yesterday about 2,500 pounds of ice in the poorer districts of the city. This was the first trip of the army's popular charity this summer. The wagon will continue to make rounds every day until the funds contributed are exhausted.

The army has been collecting on the streets for several weeks to make this distribution of ice to the poorer classes possible. That it may not seem to be entirely a gift the ice purchased by the funds donated is sold in the poorer districts at the rates of 10 pounds for a penny. No more than 10 pounds is sold to one family in a day.

In some places yesterday the army workers did not wait for the penny, but gladly carried the ice into the house. An instance of this happened yesterday afternoon in the Penn avenue district. In the rear of a house at Twenty-eighth and Liberty streets the workers found a family where three little ones were stricken down with fever. The board of health sign was on the door. One of the workers carried a good sized block of ice into the kitchen. The mother of the little ones was profuse in her thanks.

Envoy Zell states that the fund is not yet large enough to keep up the distribution during the hot months. "I suppose we'll have to get down into the streets again," he said pleasantly, "and rouse the people to action. They have been very good so far, but our poor must have more ice, and we rely on the kind hearted to swell the fund with which to purchase this ice."

Death of Merle E. Miller.

Merle E. Miller, a member of the class of 1904, West Penn Medical college, died at 1 p. m. yesterday of peritonitis at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary J. Miller, No. 1719 Fremont street, Allegheny. He was a son of the late John W. Miller, a former well-known North Side druggist, and had spent most of his life in Allegheny. Mr. Miller was a popular member of his class. He attended the North Presbyterian church and leaves, beside his mother, two sisters, Misses Cora G. and Florence Miller. Funeral services will be held at his late home tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, interment to be made at Dunbar Friday.

SCHOOL TEACHERS ARE ON A STRIKE

Twenty-Five Pedagogues Want Higher Wages in Fayette County.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., July 14.—Twenty-five school teachers in Saltlick township, Fayette county's remotest district, have struck for higher wages. They received $27 a month during the last term for seven months' work and at the last meeting of the board a resolution was passed fixing salaries the same as paid the last term.

Immediately the corps of teachers withdrew the applications they had in for schools, which are to be assigned next Saturday, and declared they would use their influence with others who might apply to stay out of the district. After they pay their board, they say, they have just $7 left each month.

There is not much likelihood that other teachers will apply for the striking teachers' places since every district in the county has hard work filling the schools with teachers.

County Superintendent John D. Carroll, before holding the examinations for certificates this year, sent out a circular to every school board in the county urging them to advance the salaries of teachers owing to the higher cost of living. The Saltlick board was one of the few that refused to follow Superintendent Carroll's suggestion. The school term in Saltlick township begins about the middle of September.

Besides having a teachers' strike on hand the Saltlick board is likely to lose its state appropriation, amounting to $1,700. During the last term of school the schools were conducted two months without supplies in the form of books and charts that were badly needed because of a disagreement in the board over what supplies should be purchased and what firm they should buy from. Secretary Michael Berger reported the matter to State Superintendent of Schools Nathan C. Shaeffer and through him it came to the attention of the state treasurer.

Saltlick township is the moonshine country of Fayette county and has gained no little notoriety through the country as the home of the old moonshiner, "Bill" Pritts.

RATES FAVOR THE BRITISH.

East Liverpool Potters Trying to Get Revision of Freight Charges.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 14.—(Special.)—A meeting will be held in Chicago tomorrow that will be watched with intense interest in this city, especially by manufacturers of pottery. Its purpose is to procure a freight rate from East Liverpool to the southwest, including Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma, equal to the rate which the English operators have obtained to the same points.

Within the past two years pottery shipments from this city to these points have fallen off 80 per cent, because of excessive freight rates. The rate to the south and southwest for the English manufacturer is but 47 per cent a hundred for earthenware, while the rate offered to the East Liverpool and Ohio pottery manufacturers is 80 cents a hundred, that rate being in force from this city and in carload lots.

At Chicago tomorrow the Manufacturers' association will be represented by H. P. Knoblock of the Dresden Pottery Company and George Thompson of the C. C. Thompson Pottery Company.

State Charters Issued.

GAS IN A WELL KILLS TWO MEN

Third Victim Is Thought to Be Fatally Ill Near Marietta, O.

DIED RESCUING BROTHER

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MARIETTA, O., July 14.—A tragedy occurred at Heslop, a village near Marietta, on Sunday afternoon. As a result of fire damp in an abandoned well, two men were drawn dead from the cavity and a third is so ill that he will probably die.

Jacob Schlarf had the contract to clean out an old well on the Richard Rinard farm. He put a nitro-glycerine shot in the well in order to dig it deeper, and, not completing the work, went down into the well to throw out dirt. George Greathouse was left at the mouth to draw up the bucket. After a few minutes Schlarf was overcome by gas and Greathouse descended to place the rope around Schlarf to lift him, when Greathouse was overcome and fell beside Schlarf.

His brother, Solomon Greathouse, then entered the well and succeeded in rescuing George, who was drawn out still alive. Solomon fell unconscious after his exertion. Neighbors arrived and brought the dead bodies of Schlarf and Solomon Greathouse to the surface.

Solomon was 27 years old and leaves a widow and child. Schlarf was 36 years of age and leaves a widow and five small children. George Greathouse is critically ill. He is 25 years old and unmarried.

Enforcing Sunday Laws.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., July 14.—(Special.)—County Detective Alexander McBeth has started to enforce the Sunday laws in Fayette county. Last week he closed up the drug stores, soda fountains and cigar and fruit stands in Uniontown and yesterday he closed them in New Haven. Connellsville is to be reformed next Sunday. In Uniontown the proprietors of the stores refused to pay the fines imposed by Burgess Frank Rutter and their cases are to be tested in court.

STATE AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA.—The body of Amos Reshenberg, a miner, was found in the Youghiogheny river ¼ mile below here yesterday, after a four days' search. He had been missing since last Friday night, when he left Connellsville for his home at Crossland station.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA.—J. E. Hines of Ritchie county and Samuel W. Cain of Wirt county were yesterday nominated by the Democrats of the Third senatorial district for the state senate.

ALTOONA, PA.—Two representatives of the United States Steel Corporation are in the city negotiating with Jacob A. Hyle for the purchase of the rail joint which he patented some time ago. They offered him $50,000 for it and have given him 10 days to think it over.

SHARON, PA.—The Sharon tinplate mill resumed operations yesterday, after two weeks' idleness for repairs. About 1,100 men are affected.

MASSILLON, O.—Mrs. William Rhine, aged 27, died yesterday in a dentist's chair from the effects of chloroform administered preparatory to a dental operation.

STEUBENVILLE, O.—John Whalen, a Panhandle brakeman, who resides at Sheraden, Pa., was fatally injured by a train in Colliers yard yesterday.

A JUDGE'S WIFE

Cured of Pelvic Catarrh

MRS. JUDGE McALLISTER.

She Suffered for Years and Felt Her Case Was Hopeless — Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Judge McAllister writes from 1217 West 33rd St., Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"I suffered for years with a pain in the small of my back and right side. It interfered often with my domestic and social duties and I never supposed that I would be cured, as the doctor's medicine did not seem to help me any.

"Fortunately a member of our Order advised me to try Peruna and gave it such high praise that I decided to try it. Although I started in with little faith, I felt so much better in a week that I felt encouraged.

"I took it faithfully for seven weeks and am happy indeed to be able to say that I am entirely cured. Words fail to express my gratitude. Perfect health once more is the best thing I could wish for, and thanks to Peruna I enjoy that now."—Minnie E. McAllister.

The great popularity of Peruna as a catarrh remedy has tempted many people to imitate Peruna. A great many so-called catarrh remedies and catarrhal tonics are to be found in many drug-stores. These remedies can be procured by the druggist much cheaper than Peruna. Peruna can only be obtained at a uniform price, and no druggist can get it a cent cheaper.

Thus it is that druggists are tempted to substitute the cheap imitations of Peruna for Peruna. It is done every day without a doubt.

We would caution all people against accepting substitutes for Peruna. Insist upon having Peruna. There is no other internal remedy for catarrh that will take the place of Peruna. Allow no one to persuade you to the contrary.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

R·I·PANS

I commenced taking Ripans Tabules last summer, but took only one when I felt bad. I got no good results from it, so I took no more, thinking the Tabules could do me no good. I had been troubled with dyspepsia, heartburn and waterbrash for years. Feeling very bad and having the Tabules on hand, I thought I would give them a fair trial. I commenced with one after each meal, and soon began to feel as good as I ever did in my life. I claim the Tabules have cured me.

THE DAGO WAS RIPE FOR MURDER WHEN A BRICK STRUCK HIS ORGAN

"Ain't dat a shame?" The organ was a good one and had just begun to roll out the notes of the late and popular ragtime song, when a large and perfectly developed brick crashed into the organ, seriously injuring its internal works. The Italian dropped the crank as if shot. A villainous look came over his swarthy face. An 8-year-old boy was the only person near, and drawing a knife the Italian made a jump for him.

The boy was Eddie Peters, son of Charles Peters, of Sixth avenue, in the borough of Homestead, where this story is located. Eddie did not know what was the matter with the Italian. He had thrown no brick, and knew nothing as to who did throw it, but he did get one good look at the Italian's face.

Eddie had two squares to cover before he reached his home, but he beat the Italian. As Eddie jumped in the front door the Italian slipped on the steps. Eddie was safe. The Italian was not, as Officer Critchlow had seen the running pair, and captured the Italian before he reached his organ. When placed behind the bars for a hearing today the Italian said "Ainta dat a shame?"

President Mitchell Tells Longshoremen They May Be Asked for Aid.

FATHER CURRAN'S TRIP

Leaves Wilkesbarre on Secret Mission in Connection With the Great Labor Struggle—Believes He Has a Solution of the Trouble.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, July 14.—John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, addressed the convention of the International Longshoremen's association, which began its eleventh annual convention here today. Mr. Mitchell said of the coal strike:

"If the time does not soon come when we succeed we will have to ask for assistance. Failure to attain success would mean a severe blow to unionism. I want a union which knows how to fight and will fight to the end. But there is no one who will try to avoid difficulties more than I. Do you think that I am now asking you to come to our aid? I am not asking it now, but when we do ask, we hope that the longshoremen will come to our assistance. You have grown to be a mighty power, and I hope that you will not only control the Lake ports, but every seaport of the country."

WILKESBARRE, PA., July 14.—The Rev. J. J. Curran, who claims to have a plan by which the miners' strike can be settled, left town this afternoon. It is said his destination was Philadelphia.

Operators Say It's Too Late.

Rumor has it that he will first seek an interview with President Baer and then go on to New York to see the presidents of the Lackawanna, Delaware & Hudson and Erie companies. The local operators say that no plan Father Curran can propose at this late day will be entertained by the operators.

A meeting of striking miners was held at Plymouth today. Addresses were delivered by T. D. Nichols, president of district No. 1, United Mine Workers national board, John Fallon and others. Mr. Nichols said the outlook for the strikers was very encouraging, and that if they remained firm victory would be theirs before very long.

SHAMOKIN, PA., July 14.—Two carloads of special policemen and laborers arrived here today from Schuylkill county. The men, 50 in all, went to work at the Reading company's Henry Clay washery. The strikers made no demonstration. The washery is the first to be operated in this region since the anthracite strike began.

More Pay for Loyal Men.

The Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company today announced that a 10 per cent increase in wages would be paid in this region to employes who had remained at work since the strike started.

HAZLETON, PA., July 14.—Unknown persons at 1 o'clock this morning raided the home of William Hussman, a non-union man at Upper Lehigh, and after getting Hussman and his wife out of bed attempted to burn the house. During the melee the stove upset and all the furniture was destroyed. Neighbors extinguished the fire. Hussman was led away by the marauders and is still missing. It is believed he was so frightened that he fled from the region.

Pickets were stationed near the Drifton collieries today and all clerks and non-union men on their way were turned back.

The odor of the pineapple is delightful; its substance is refreshing, grateful and healthful. We have the best of the fruit in abundance. All orders promptly filled. Both telephones. Somers Brothers Company, Nos. 444-446 Seventh avenue, near Grant.

COAL SHIPMENTS ENDED.

July's Wonderful Rises Over and 21,000,000 Bushels of Coal Gone.

The greatest July rises that ever happened, to use the language of a riverman, have come and gone and no more coal shipments can be made until the rivers again rise. The Ironsides, B. D. Wood and James Moren were the last boats to depart for the south, getting away yesterday, with something like 50 craft.

The total run of coal has approximated almost 21,000,000 bushels and has been a blessing to the coal dealers of the south. Had this coal been retained in Pittsburgh until fall, it is stated that there would have been great suffering in the south. There are still several million bushels loaded, but enough fuel has gone to Cincinnati and Louisville to tide them over for a time. If a rise should develop the latter part of July, as some believe, another good coal run will be made, for much coal is being loaded in the Monongahela valley.

Arrivals.

Packets Leaving Today.

Kanawha, Charleston, 4 p. m.
Elizabeth, Morgantown, 3 p. m.

News of the Rivers.

W. H. Flint & Co. have commenced to run considerable coal at their Iron City mine.

Capt. George W. Hunter, formerly clerk of the Kanawha, is in Pittsburgh on business.

The G. W. Thomas arrived with a tow of empties and the Gleaner was due in port last night.

The coalboat sank at Vanport is in the channel, and pilots are warned to run to the left of it going down stream.

The packets leaving yesterday all carried large lists of passengers. Freight business is not very heavy on any of the lines.

The Dilworth Coal Company has commenced running coal at Rices Landing, the H. P. Dilworth bringing out a tow yesterday.

The towboat Harvester arrived with her tow of empties and returned to Cincinnati after another tow. The mines of the A. F. Budd Coal Company are in full operation.

Capt. Joseph L. Hendrickson, one of the pilots on the Gertrude, who is 80 years old, does not feel his age much. He says, and can stand a watch with the best of them.

According to a Louisville paper the Flint is going to New Orleans to tow oil. It is not the W. H. Flint, but it may be some other Flint. There is only one boat of that name at Pittsburgh.

The industrial and commercial bodies of Cincinnati last Sunday gave an excursion to the site of the Cullom Riffle dam. Every industry and commercial enterprise in the city was represented. Mayor Fiedschmann acted as master of ceremonies.

A riverman remarked yesterday: "In the building of towboats C. W. Posey has the boat owners all beat." Although the man is colored, it is said that ever since he has built has been a complete success and have made and are making money for their owners.

Col. J. G. Lydecker, who has charge of the improvements of the Ohio river, went south yesterday on the Times Star to look at the river and incidentally the bridges. He was accompanied by J. Frank Tilley. The colonel returned to Pittsburgh from Wheeling on account of an accident to the E. A. Woodruff, which knocked down her chimneys, at Wheeling, injuring the "striker" engineer.

The largest cargo of cotton ever carried by a Mississippi river steamboat was by the steamer Henry Frank, which went into New Orleans on April 2, 1881. It included 9,226 bales, of which 2,566 bales were taken on at Memphis, while 322 bales were taken at Natchez, the last point from which shipments were made to top off the load. In addition, the boat had 250 tons of sundries, including 1,224 sacks of cottonseed cake, 300 sacks of seed meal and 1,213 sacks of cottonseed. There were 13 tiers of cotton on each side of the steamer and it reached from the lower guards to above the hurricane roof.

The steamer Fred A. Banks was sold at Memphis by the United States marshal for $8,500 to Capt. Edward Nowland for the Arkansas Packet Company. The only other bidder was Capt. Morgan, of Vicksburg, whose first bid was $5,000. The boat was built for Capt. L. V. Cooley for the Ouachita river trade, and named Ouachita. Capt. Cooley sold her to Capt. Cummins for the Memphis and Vicksburg trade. Her upper works were burned, and in that condition she was bought by Capt. Lew Brunner, rebuilt at Paducah and put back in the Ouachita river trade. She is a 3,600-bale boat, with a fine cabin.

The joke played on Capt. John F. Klein yesterday with a sharp stick. Capt. Roe of the Kanawha, and Capt. Cramer of the Ben Hur, aver that Klein's excursion barges take up too much room. One of them was landed at the foot of Wood street, and the roustabouts on the packets had to carry freight twice the distance they should, on account of the position of the barge. The captains invoked the assistance of Wharfmaster Jenkins Jones, who requested Capt. Klein to move his boat, which he did. Wharfmaster Jones, however, does not want the performance repeated. Capt. Klein says he has not enough room for his boats.

The Ward Engineering Works, Charleston, W. Va., are building a twin screw steel towboat for United States improvement of the Great Kanawha river, the hull of which is completed. The principal dimensions are: Length, 120 feet; beam moulded, 22 feet; over all, 24 feet 8 inches; depth, 4 feet 3 inches; draft, 30 inches, contract speed, 12 miles per hour. She has two quadruple expansion engines with cylinders 7, 10, 14 and 20 diameter by 12 stroke, to make 300 revolutions per minute and develop 225 indicated horse power each. She is fitted with Ward's improved outboard condensers, Blake boiler feed and aid pumps, Ward sectional coal boiler, built for 250 pounds steam.

Good Oil Prospects Near Littleton

The prospects for the Gordon sand territory in the vicinity of Littleton, Wetzel county, W. Va., are improving and promises to be second to the Folsom district in the near future. The development in Marshall county, holds that position at the present time. Southwest of Littleton, the South Penn Oil Company has completed and shot its second test well on the William Newman farm and has a good producer. The well flowed 70 barrels the first 12 hours after it was shot.

In the Folsom district, Wetzel county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 8 on the Genine Robinson tract, located on the west side of the development, into the Gordon; it produced 170 barrels the first 24 hours.

In the Richwood run district the Kanawha Oil Company's No. 8, a gasser on the Samuel Lantz farm, is now spraying some oil and will make a fair producer when drilled deeper into the Gordon.

On the east side of the new Gordon sand development, in Harrison county, the Delmar Oil Company (Greenlee and others) are still fishing for the bailer and string of tools lost in its test well on the William T. Ice farm. The well is still producing a small amount of oil.

In the Little Germany district, Marshall county, the South Penn Oil Company has given its No. 1 on the Margaret Hartley farm its first dose of high explosive fluid and it responded with a production of 70 barrels the first 24 hours.

On the west side of the lower end of the Wolf Summit field, the South Penn has drilled its No. 10 on the W. R. Carpenter, from the Gordon to the fifth sand and has a 10-barrel pumper. Drilling to the lower formation in this district may become a feature some time.

FOURTEEN PAGES.

The Legislative Hold-Up.

Senator Burton of Kansas, who took part in the legislative hold-up which prevented the taking of a vote on the Cuban reciprocity bill, is now endeavoring to extenuate that outrage upon free government by saying that the Republican party leaders connived at that behavior. "They came to us," he asserts, "and encouraged us to keep up the fight." This disgraceful charge upon the good faith and integrity of the Republican leaders in the senate must not pass without notice. The public is entitled to an explanation.

Whichever way we look at the incident, it reveals a blackmailing power in the legislative procedure which attacks the essential principle of republican government, majority rule subject to public responsibility. It is a power more ample and extended than Calhoun claimed under his doctrine of nullification, for that proposed simply a restraint upon the operations of the national government within state boundaries; the legislative hold-up restrains the operation of national government everywhere. The rule of an oligarchy working in secret and avoiding responsibility to public opinion is substituted for popular government.

The possibility of such a phenomenon did not enter into the calculations of the framers of the constitution, although they expected that the senate would be more inclined to corruption than the house because of its greater remoteness from the control of public opinion. The rules of the senate did not originally allow unrestricted privileges of debate, and it is only of late years that such privileges have been employed as the basis of the legislative hold-up. This species of corruption is not peculiar to the United States senate, but is being systematized in general legislative procedure. We have had an instance in this city in the way the Wabash franchises were held up in Pittsburgh councils. It is becoming a regular practice for city councilmen to hold up public business until satisfactory inducements are offered to them to permit action to be taken.

There is only one practical remedy for such evils and that is to confer upon the executive power to bring to vote any public business submitted to the legislature. In national affairs such power can be obtained only by indirect methods. The hold-up is a game at which the executive can play as well as the senate, and a vigorous use of the veto power upon the bills and appropriation items of the blackmailers will bring them to terms. Such an issue would give public opinion a chance to act, and it would seize the opportunity in a way that would make the senate tremble. In local politics charter provision can readily be made that will destroy this resource of blackmailing. The recorder should have discretionary power to submit and bring to vote any measure of public business he may approve. There will then be definite responsibility which public opinion can enforce. If a recorder refuses to act the people may elect a recorder who will. Government cannot be carried on unless the power of decision exists somewhere, and it should not be allowed to be a tool of blackmail or a means of obstruction.

Prosperity on the Prairies.

The farm mortgages of Kansas and Nebraska that have not been paid off in the last few years of prosperity will probably be canceled with the proceeds of this year's grain crops. Notwithstanding the fears of speculators whose hopes were colored by their market commitments, the prospect now is for a very large yield of wheat and of corn. In Nebraska the winter wheat crop will be larger than the most optimistic have expected. The harvesting proceeds slowly, principally because the visible supply of reapers bears an inadequate relation to the acres to be reaped. In a fortnight the same story will be told concerning spring wheat. Some idea of the quantity of work to be done can be ascertained from the fact that wages of harvest hands have increased from $1 50 to $3 a day, and the farmers are thankful to pay the outside figure.

But if Nebraska never had a bigger wheat harvest than the present the same is true of corn. Corn isn't as safe as wheat, because it has a good deal of growing to do yet, but with fair July weather the experts expect a duplication of the record-breaking year of 1896. Nebraska's output of oats and potatoes, already safe, is very large.

The fine crop prospects have taxed the resources of the machinery men to fill orders for farm implements, and every line of local industries has felt the impetus. Six banks in Howard county, Neb., have $350,000 on deposit, and a local journal of that county reports enough grain in sight to pay off every dollar of mortgage debt.

It is clear that calamity howlers are finding their occupation gone in Kansas and Nebraska.

The Delayed Technical School.

The people of Pittsburgh are vitally interested in the speedy realization of the plans of Mr. Carnegie for the Technological institute for which he will provide the buildings and for which he has provided an endowment of $2,000,000. It is a matter of keen regret that after two years the city is apparently no nearer the concretion of its hopes than it was at the beginning of that period. This is due entirely to the failure of the municipality to provide a site for the institution. The reason the site is not provided is that some public-spirited gentlemen desire to procure a greater acreage than the city has means at hand to pay for. To carry out their ambitious plans a bond issue would be necessary, and this the taxpayers desire to avoid. The last bonds issued were voted by the citizens on a promise of their promoters that the issue would result in a reduction of taxation, but the contrary has been the case, and taxes are higher now than before. With this experience the people are not in a mood to vote an addition to their burdens and desire to avoid, if possible, a new issue of bonds. To secure their consent to an addition to the bonded indebtedness of the city a clear necessity will have to be shown. But the city wants the Carnegie Technological school and wants it without delay. The people feel that there has been too much delay already. It is little wonder if Mr. Carnegie is also growing impatient. We urge upon the city officials and others who are responsible for securing a site that they address themselves to the subject at once, so that the much-needed institution of learning may soon be available for the youth of Pittsburgh, who must go elsewhere for a technical training or do without. Delays are dangerous.

Ice for the Poor.

The Salvation army ice wagon has started on its rounds again, and the warmth of the weather made its first day a busy one. Ice is a necessity in the torrid weather, and many poor people are unable to buy it. The plan of selling small pieces at a nominal price, and of giving ice to poor families where there is sickness, is a work of mercy and labor of love which must commend itself to all who seek to ameliorate the condition of their unfortunate fellow human beings. Last year the Salvation army was able to raise only enough funds to keep one wagon at this excellent work, but this summer it is hoped that more money will be available. A few dollars will go a long way in this species of charitable effort.

The Waller Case Reviewed.

In unmistakably plain terms Maj. Gen. Chaffee declares in reviewing the Waller court-martial findings, that the accused officer was guilty of unnecessary and brutal harshness in ordering the death of the Filipino "cargadores" in Samar. Gen. Chaffee softens somewhat the force of his review by approving that part of the findings in the case which absolves Maj. Waller from the charge of murder. In every other particular, however, the comment of the commanding officer of the army in the Philippines is severely plain and condemnatory. There remains the question to be considered of Maj. Waller's mental capacity for rightly appreciating the justifying causes for his inhuman act, and on this point Gen. Chaffee is not silent, but, after summing up the enormity of the offense, declares:

> In view of the foregoing, and giving heed to the combination of influences which affected the mental attitude of the accused, so much of the finding upon the specification and charge as finds him not guilty of murder is approved.

The review of the case by Gen. Chaffee may be accepted as an authoritative utterance on the character of Waller's crime, and whatever disposition there may be to condone the offense will have to seek its justification in his mental condition. Allowing all possible excuse for the provocation which the American officer and his men had received, it is made plain by Gen. Chaffee's review that the act was one which neither the modern system of warfare can approve nor the spirit of the age accept. With this plain statement of the case both the war department and the American public are put into possession of the real facts concerning this much-discussed case.

There is no room longer for innuendo and abuse inclusive of the entire army in the Philippines, or of suggestion of official indifference to acts of cruelty in the prosecution of the war in those islands. Gen. Chaffee places the seal of official disapproval upon this one of the most flagrant violations of the rules of civilized warfare to which the attention of the war department has been directed. If the officer in charge and under whose direction the acts of brutality are said to have occurred is excused, it will be upon some ground other than a disposition of the United States to condone, palliate or suppress the facts in the case.

An Expensive Strike.

The strike of the freight handlers of Chicago has gone into its second week, all hopes of an early settlement having been abandoned, apparently. Like the anthracite coal miners' strike in Pennsylvania, the contest in Chicago seems to be settling down into a grim trial of strength between the employers and the employed. The sympathy strike of the teamsters, who not long ago had trouble on their own account, has made the situation in Chicago more acute, adding to the number of idle men and embarrassing the efforts at arbitration. It is estimated that a million dollars a day will not cover the loss in wages and the loss to the railroads and business men by the present stoppage of work. This is an enormous waste, but there seems to be no way of avoiding it, even with the much-vaunted enlightenment of the twentieth century.

Australia's Misfortune.

Though there has been a good deal of complaining about the weather in this country, there is really cause for thankfulness that it has been no worse. In another column we print some information concerning conditions in Australia that should make every American congratulate himself and sympathize with the less fortunate people of the island continent.

It will be almost impossible for American farmers, except those familiar with the arid regions of the southwest, to realize the misery of that burnt land. Officials report driving fifty miles without seeing enough herbage to support a single sheep, where there should be flocks of hundreds. Owners have been compelled to kill thousands of their best wool producers to save the hide and tallow. To a country so largely dependent upon pastoral pursuits as Australia this is nothing short of a calamity. The remainder of the world may feel the effect in an advance of a few cents in the price of wool, but the new land at the antipodes will suffer keenly in every line of business.

The Pittsburgh and Allegheny school teachers who are touring Europe as the guests of The Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph had the happy fortune of encountering only favorable seas and brilliant sunshine during most of their voyage across the ocean. Now that they are on foreign soil an itinerary will be followed that will include most of the places of interest on the continent and in England and Scotland, affording the fortunate tourists an opportunity for Old World study and observation of surpassing value.

The retirement of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach from the English cabinet in no wise indicates a wholesale breaking up of the old Salisbury cabinet, though no great surprise will be felt should there be an even more sensational departure from the cabinet in the person of the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain. This aggressive leader has by the Salisbury retirement been put into the center of the stage of English politics and what he may or may not do in order to advance his ambitions is a matter for conjecture only.

THE UNOBTRUSIVE ESSENTIAL.

A mighty tumult rises as the horse goes 'neath the wire!
The people rise and cheer again and never seem to tire.
And some are rich and jubilant and others feel remorse.
And the only one who doesn't seem excited is the horse.

When they've held a big election and the crowds go passing by,
And the bands are loudly playing and the rockets flash on high,
And the city's all aglow with the excitement of debate
The only one who's placid is the winning candidate.

When they have a coronation and the town in glad array
Turns out in loyal humor to enjoy a holiday,
Society is all agog; the masses laugh and sing,
And the only one who doesn't seem to mind it is the king.

It is not the puff and noise that make the locomotive go;
It is not the big bass drum that makes the music and the show;
When there's anything important you will notice as a rule
That the star of the occasion is the one who's keeping cool.

AGREEABLE CHANGE FOR GEN. CHAFFEE

From the Baking Sun of Manila to Cooling Breezes of Governors Island.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, July 14.

It will be a great change for Gen. Chaffee, when he assumes command of the department of the east, with headquarters at Governors island. From the tropical clime of the Philippines, with its yellow fever and other amenities and a baking atmosphere, to the cool, breezy purlieus of Governors island, with health-giving zephyrs from New York harbor inviting him to repose of body and mind, is a prospect that must be pleasant even to such a rugged soldier as Chaffee. Instead of giving his official attention to standing off bolomen and keeping his rank and file in fighting health, he may dally with the elusive ping-pong ball, or exercise his mathematical and strategical skill in going through the center hoop at croquet. Governors island is one of the most delightful summer resorts in Greater New York. The distinguished soldiers that have been in command there the last 20 years—Gen. Hancock, Gen. Merritt, Gen. Miles, Gen. Brooke—all have graciously joined in the sports and pastimes which take up much of the time of the officers and their families. On the very edge of the largest city in the United States, Governors island is as quiet as Shousetown. It is just the place to bring a general who has distinguished himself in foreign service and who is tired of Chinese Boxers and Filipino insurgents. On Governors island he can have all the pleasures of the country, with the excitements of town, should he desire them at any time; and he is near enough to Washington to get there in a few hours if his presence may be required at army headquarters. Gen. Brooke, who has been in command in the department of the east since Gen. Miles was removed to take a higher position, is very popular here, and New York will be sorry to lose him; but Gen. Chaffee, with his heroism in the orient freshly glistening upon him, will be a consolation for the departure of his predecessor, and he will be warmly welcomed when he reaches his new post some time in Septembr next.

Evolution of Electric Dial Plate.

One of the big hotels on Broadway, which is about to build a 17-story annex, advertises that "Every room will have a bath and telephone." A "room and bath" is such an old story in this country that no one thinks twice about it; but the placing of a telephone into every room, is something new. It is the legitimate evolution of the electric dial plate in the hotel bedroom, which enables one to order anything, from a marriage license to a whisky cocktail, merely by pushing a button.

Juvenile Emblem of Adult Politics.

The New York gamin has little respect for the great men of this town, particularly when they are dead. A ragged, bare-legged, dirty-faced urchin this afternoon was perched on the knee of the bronze Horace Greeley, at Thirty-third street, Sixth avenue and Broadway. He seemed to find the seat a comfortable one, for he leaned back against the great editor's rumpled vest, and stretched his small foot out on the scroll that the figure has in its hand, with a complacence that was refreshing. There were other ragged, bare-legged, dirty-faced urchins that wished to get up on the Greeley knee, too; but the boy above settled their ambitions by the simple operation of spitting on their heads, which was unconsciously emblematical of politics—in New York, if not elsewhere.

Engineers Ignorant of Their Engines.

On one of the railroads running out of New York a piston rod on an engine broke yesterday. There was a delay of an hour and a half, mainly caused, according to one of the passengers, by the engineer not being able to make some simple repairs which would enable the train to move. This passenger, who happened to be a mechanic, took a hand, and with a monkey-wrench at last "took down" one side of the engine so that it could run the other side, and thus relieved the dilemma. "What surprised me," he said this evening, "was that neither the engineer nor fireman knew how to do anything to the machine when it got a little out of order. At one time a locomotive engineer was not supposed to be entrusted with an engine until he had demonstrated a familiarity with all its parts. From what I saw yesterday it is evident that that wise rule has fallen into disuse. I hope it is not the case on all railroads, for the sake of the safety of the public."

A Fatal Combination.

A New York woman died last night as the consequence of eating lobster and ice cream. It is not necessary to print her name to convey the warning embodied in her fate.

Mrs. Peary Going to Her Husband.

As one crosses the North river from the Erie ferry slip on the Jersey side one can see a steamship, not very large, with only one smokestack, poking her nose from a dock close by. She is the good ship Windward, whose name always suggests Lieut. Peary and the frozen north. She is taking on supplies preparatory to another tussle with the ice and snow in the Arctics, and it is expected that she will find Lieut. Peary before she comes back. She will make one stop at Sydney, Cape Breton, and there the ballast will be taken from her hold and will be replaced by coal. There Mrs. Peary, the gallant helpmate of the gallant lieutenant, will get on board, hoping to join her husband at Cape Sabine, on the west shore of frozen Grinnel Land, and to bring him back to the warmth of a gentler climate and the welcome of friends at home. Mrs. Peary and her daughter, who was born farther north than any other white child in the world, expect to reach the explorer by August 1. On their voyage they will occupy the same state room they had when they were held prisoners by the ice for eight months in Payer Harboor.

Harbor Full of Fighting Ships.

There was a most formidable array of battleships in the navy yard today. There were more vessels than the United States possessed 20 years ago, and they comprised several whose fame is world-wide, and with good fighting reason. There were 10 of these great fighting machines. They were the battleships Alabama, Massachusetts and Kearsarge, the three largest of the navy; the Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship; the Columbia, fleetest ship of the navy; the Montgomery, Dixie, Supply, Panther and Dolphin are there, and could on a few hours' notice be ready for actual warfare. The Olympia arrived this morning on her first visit to the Brooklyn yard. So crowded was the water front that only one berth was left and the famous flagship was obliged to run the gauntlet of battleships and cruisers, almost brushing their sides, to get to it. When she came in the crews on the other vessels lined up at attention. Everyone said "Manila" or "Dewey" when she passed by.

Heat Prostrations.

Half a dozen deaths by heat in New York today, with many prostrations. As usual in this city, the humidity, as much as the caloric, was the cause of death and suffering.

Electric Light to Be Cheaper.

Electric light will be much cheaper after September 1. Announcement will be made tomorrow of a reduction in price of 25 per cent for electric light service, the competing companies having agreed to the reduction. Stripped of its technicalities the schedule of prices shows a satisfactory cutting down of charges and any one can understand that 25 per cent means one-fourth off electric light bills this fall. This city does not use any more electric light, in proportion, than Pittsburgh, if so much; but the lowering of the cost of it is a substantial benefit that many thousands of people will appreciate. That it will lead to a more general use of it is taken for granted. Very little gas is used in business places for illuminating purposes, although in flathouses and the smaller stores there is nothing else employed, except coal oil. Under the new schedule electricity will be almost as cheap as gas, and less troublesome, and it is expected that the incandescent bulb will take the place of the flaring gas burner in most of the new flathouses, as well as in many of the old ones, and that small storekeepers will take to electricity en masse.

Lillian Russell's Wrath Aroused.

Lillian Russell, whose automobile was held up by the authorities of Freeport, Long Island, yesterday because the machine traveled through the village faster than eight miles an hour, said today that those same authorities are pig-headed ignoramuses. Who would have thought the fair Lillian could say such a rude thing! But she says her pleasure was retarded by the constables, deputy constables, magistrates and other dignitaries of Freeport, and when the pleasure of a prima donna is retarded something has to explode—if not the boiler of the automobile, then the temper of the prima donna. It is well that we know, on the authority of the handsomest woman on the American stage, what people are who stop fast-moving autos. They are "pig-headed ignoramuses," and that is all about it.

Beauty Can't Exorcise Justice.

Recorder Goff is not the man to be overcome by a pretty face, either on or off the bench. Fayne Moore, against whom two indictments for complicity in a dirty "badger" crime are still pending, and whose divorced husband is spending 10 years in Sing Sing prison in the same connection, may get married, but she cannot get "white-washed" with Recorder Goff's consent. Fayne is in London appearing on the stage and it is said she is soon to be married in England. She desired to be cleared of the two annoying indictments hanging over her head before becoming a bride, but his honor, the recorder, has set his face against the removal of the indictments, and in no uncertain terms, too.

Devery's Night.

"Big Chief" Devery had the time of his life tonight with fireworks and a general anti-Goodwin demonstration. Goodwin is the man he wants to oust from the Democratic leadership of the district and would be of no interest to Pittsburghers were it not that he is the rival of Devery, whom everyone knows. Devery spent the afternoon and evening in the vicinity of the red, white and blue hydrant at the corner of Eighth avenue and Twenty-eighth street, which, under the designation of "the pump," is as well known to fame as the statue of Liberty, and he saw hundreds of henchmen in that time. When things broke loose tonight he was in fine feather and, to use his own expression, "Everything was as fine as silk."

Death of New York's Worth.

Brooklyn has lost its man-milliner. He died today. His name was John C. Center and he was famous all over Greater New York for his skill in designing gowns and trimming hats. His prices were high, as such services when rendered by men usually are; but it was said that there was not a woman in the city that could approach him for stylish effects in hats and gowns. He was 62 years of age when he died.

Duss Has Captured New York.

John S. Duss has New York at his fingers' ends. In spite of some ill-natured sneers at him and his band, which are noticed now and then, there is no doubt that the Duss concerts in St. Nicholas garden are more popular than anything of the kind in this city since Pat Gilmore's time. In the great building on Saturday evening there was not a seat to be obtained after 8 o'clock, and the multitude stayed to the end, too. One of the features was a cornet solo, which in the "continuous" is generally put on as a "chaser" to drive the people out so that a fresh audience can get in. The cornet solo in the Duss entertainment on Saturday was so good that the performer had to respond to several encores, and had hard work to get away at last. Duss must be making a lot of money, for his manager, as well as himself.

Co-operative Store Idea Revived.

"Co-operative stores" are an old idea, but the idea has rather fallen into desuetude. The Rev. R. B. Mattice, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Throggs Neck, near here, has revived it by opening a grocery store in connection with his church, and he says it is a "howling success." The store is in a barn on the church property, directly behind the church itself. Two counters run the length of the barn on either side. Barrels and boxes, packages and cans are piled up all around. This morning when the Rev. Mr. Mattice's son had just beaten his father at a set of tennis, a customer appeared. He wanted a package of chewing tobacco (for they still chew tobacco at Throggs Neck) and the minister sold it to him for 10 cents. "It costs us eight," remarked the pastor, airily. "End of the month you will have two cents to your credit. How's that for piety and business combined?" It seems to work well, but we shall know more about it when the books are balanced.

Secretary Root's Rebuke.

From the New York Times.

Secretary of War Root was on his way to Southampton recently when a farmer edged into the seat and began telling the cabinet member how to run the government.

When the citizen's supply of criticisms began to run low, Mr. Root asked:

"What is your occupation?"

"Poultry farmer," was the reply.

"Do you know how many eggs each of your hens lays?"

"Why, no," confessed the man.

"Well, the man who looks after my chickens knows how much work each hen does. If he didn't I discharge him for not knowing his business. If a hen doesn't produce 15 eggs a month it's a loss to keep it. Now, my friend, doesn't it strike you that after you have learned your own business so well that I can't give you points on it, then would be the proper time for you to come and teach me how the government ought to be run?"

Texas was once most bitter against trusts. Since the great oil fields were made in the state a change seems to have come over the spirit of her dream.

LOUBET'S VISIT TO DANISH KING

How the President of France Was Led to Visit Christian.

THE MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

There is a little bit of secret history which serves to explain how it is that President Loubet came to pay a visit to the court of Copenhagen in spite of the persistent manner in which old King Christian has boycotted France ever since his accession to the throne, near 40 years ago, never once having set his foot on French soil since that time.

It seems that just before President Loubet left Paris for St. Petersburg he received a call from the crown prince of Denmark, who was passing through the French capital, and who during the course of the conversation, remarked:

"You know that the president of the French republic owes our court a visit.

Loubet looked mystified, as remembering that King Christian had never been in France, he could not understand how the French executive could be in any way in the debt, socially speaking, of the Danish court.

And then the crown prince went on to explain a queer contretemps which took place in 1897, and which has remained until now unrecorded. It seems that when the late President Faure was on his way back from St. Petersburg, the battleship on which he was making the voyage was compelled with the escorting cruisers to pass along a portion of the Danish coast, in full view thereof, and within a few miles distance of Copenhagen.

As soon as King Christian heard that the French squadron was in sight of his capital he went on board his yacht and steamed out toward the battleship, signalling by means of bunting that he wished to go on board the man-of-war, and to greet the president. The officers on board he French ships, for some reason or other, did not understand the Danish signals, and while recognizing by means of the Danish standard that the king was on board the yacht, had no idea that he wished to come on board, and so merely fired the necessary royal salute, and passed on and out of sight without stopping, leaving the king to return to land somewhat mortified.

Realizing, however, that the action of the French ships was due to a misreading of the Danish signals, he decided to say nothing further about the matter, and to make no communication to the French authorities about the affair. His family, however, were aware that he felt rather badly, holding that he had been placed in a ridiculous light, and it was for the purpose of making up for this and for effacing from the old monarch's mind the memory of the 1897 incident that his son, the crown prince, induced President Loubet to call at Copenhagen on his way home from St. Petersburg.

The presidential visit to Copenhagen proved a very great success in every respect, and the two old men, namely the king and the president, each of them advanced in years, hit it off splendidly together.

Gambetta's Death.

Reference has been made in some of the dispatches to the fact that King Edward has been suffering from much the same malady as that to which Gambetta succumbed. This, as well as the fact that Gambetta's son by Madame Leon, is now in this country on a visit, renders it timely to set at rest that popular myth, according to which Gambetta died of a wound inflicted accidentally by the mother of his boy.

The fact of the matter was that Gambetta injured himself slightly in the fleshy part of the hand while cleaning the revolver with which he had been shooting at a target in the garden at his house in the suburbs of Paris. The injury caused his hand to fester in such a manner as to require medical treatment, including the application of a lancet, and confinement to the house for a few days. He had completely recovered from this when he was seized with appendicitis, which carried him off in such short order that even his friends, who were aware that he had sustained an injury from his revolver, became convinced that it was to this injury that he had succumbed. It was appendicitis, therefore, which was the cause of his death, and in no sense of the word any revolver wound, either self-inflicted, or, as generally believed, received at the hands of Madame Leon, who has always remained silent about the matter because with that same spirit of delicacy which led her to decline to marry Gambetta during his lifetime, lest she should mar his political future. She was unwilling to call public attention to a hidden chapter of romance in the later life of France's great "Tribune."

Kitchener's Successor.

The new British commander-in-chief in South Africa, Maj. Gen. the Hon. Neville Lyttleton, is one of the most popular men in the army, and when at the war office as assistant aljutant general used always to get a species of double salute from the messengers—old veterans all of them—on duty there. One being given, as they explained it, because they were obliged to, and the other because of the kindly and courteous manner in which he never failed to acknowledge their tribute of respect. He was in the Eton eleven, and would have been as fine a cricketer as any of the family had the exigencies of the service allowed him opportunities.

The Lyttletons are perhaps the most famous family in the history of English cricket, and I do not believe that there is a single other house in the whole of the British aristocracy which has achieved such world-wide fame in connection with Anglo-Saxon sports. Of Gen. Lyttleton's eight brothers, no less than four have figured in the Cambridge university cricket eleven. Seven of the Lyttletons have been included in the Eton eleven, while at football, athletics, racquets, golf, skating and especially in court tennis, the family is equally supreme.

Gen. Lyttleton is a nephew of the late Mr. Gladstone. His father, the late Lord Lyttleton, was one of the closest friends of that famous statesman, and at the same time that the latter became engaged to the elder Miss Glynne, the late Lord Lyttleton was accepted by her sister. A few months later both marriages were celebrated in the same church and on the same day.

The general is one of the few men who has emerged with increased reputation from the war in South Africa, and to him is due the crushing of the alarming rebellion in the north of Cape Colony, which broke out shortly after the return of Lord Roberts to England. He is a particular favorite of Lord Kitchener, and it is on the latter's strong recommendation that he has been appointed to succeed him as the commander-in-chief of the large army, which it is proposed to retain in South Africa for a number of years to come.

Eight Hours for Spanish Labor.

The young king of Spain has just signed a decree limiting to eight hours the working day for women and children in his dominions. Of course the responsibility for initiating and enacting this decree belongs to the administration. But in the eyes of the people at large it is the name of the young king which will be associated therewith, and the fact that one of the first measures to which he should have put his sign manual after attaining his majority and assuming the reins of power, should have been a law destined to promote the welfare of the working classes, is calculated to increase their sympathy with him.

"Hot Air" Always With Us.

From the Connellsville News.

We appear to be doomed to have with us always what is known in slang parlance as "hot air." We have it all over the country during the summer, and in winter we get it from the halls of congress and the various state legislatures.

DROUGHT IS TERRIBLE.

Sheep Industry of Australia Almost Ruined by Dry Weather.

Australia is suffering from a most terrible drought that threatens ruin to sheep and cattlemen. Of course Australia is having its winter while we have our summer, and there has been absolutely no precipitation in the west, north or northeast sections—those where sheep-raising is the principal industry. The conditions have caused a political agitation about the land tenure laws.

The following extracts from Australian and English papers will serve to show how desperate is the situation:

The western lands commissioners (Messrs. Lanewell and McDonald), during their tour of inspection through the country northwest of Hay, traveled 50 miles on one occasion, and did not see enough vegetation to keep even one sheep alive. The selectors themselves think that the best way to ameliorate their condition is by the construction of numerous light lines of railway, penetrating the whole of the western division, by which means starving stock in trying sections can be speedily and cheaply moved to districts where the pasture is good.

This paragraph also relates to the west, where the drought began earlier than in the north and east:

Over 3,000 tons of artificial fodder have been imported by train from Victoria since the beginning of the year. The present pastoral outlook is ruinous. One small grazier has just sold 1,500 lambing ewes returning from Victorian pastures at 2s 1d for boiling down purposes. They cost him 8s last year. In addition to 2s 6d since for droving and other expenses, besides which several hundreds died on the road. Another grazier has already expended at the rate of 2s a head on the artificial feeding of his stock, but will probably have to boil down eventually, as the increased price of fodder, coupled with carriers' increased rates, owing to the scarcity of water, brings the cost of feeding considerably over the value of the sheep.

Prof. Crookshank, investigating on behalf of English stockholders, relates the following experience of a tour in the north and east:

Prof. Crookshank left Brisbane on April 18 and journeyed through Maryborough to Gladstone, and then on to Rockhampton. There he took every opportunity of getting information, the one topic of conversation with those he met being the drought and the commercial depression. He next proceeded direct to Barcaldine, traveling by night, and by daybreak he began to fully realize the accuracy of the reports he had received. Not a blade of grass was now seen during that portion of the trip. From Barcaldine the professor traveled by Cobb & Co.'s coaches to Aramac, and on continuing the journey across the level, dusty plain, there was no sign of life, except an occasional kangaroo or an emu. It was a scene of perfect desolation. The appearance of the country was that of a typical desert. As far as the eye could reach there was to be seen nothing but a level, sandy-colored plain, without a vestige of grass, the only relief to the landscape being afforded by the deceptive mirage. There, as in Egypt," said he, "the sand sheet of water spreads out before the eyes of the traveler, with trees reflected on its cool surface, which suddenly vanishes, leaving nothing in sight but another long, dusty, khaki-colored stretch of country."

At Aramac there was some slight change, for there were more trees, and a few sheep were seen near bore water, subsisting on the scrub which had been cut for them. The same conditions prevailed at Bowen Downs—not a blade of grass, only thinly scattered dry tussocks. For hours and hours he drove, with nothing to break the dismal scene, until approaching his destination, his attention was drawn to a narrow green ribbon of vegetation, extending for miles across the plain. This was a stream from an artesian bore, fringed by a dense growth of bullrushes. He continued his drive in the intense heat through the Tuaburra country to Mt. Cornish, and there even the indigenous trees were dying. On approaching Longreach paddocks were passed with dead and dying sheep, the wide expanse of country around the town being dotted over with heaps of white ashes of thousands of carcasses of animals which had perished, and had been disposed of by burning. At the railway station there were about 2,000 sheep, little more than skin and bone, and too feeble to move being trucked away to relief country. During the journey back to Brisbane, he said, the same distressing sights were seen.

This extract again refers to the west, where the "boiling down" process has been applied to vast herds to save hides and tallow:

Every day renders the effect of the prolonged drought more apparent, and the consequences are likely to be long and lasting, even in this generally well-favored district. It is reported that on one large property the lambing this year will not exceed 10 per cent, and that more sheep have died than at any time for the past half century. On other large properties feeding is resorted to, an experience never before undergone.

Albury boiling down works have been engaged to treat 12,000 sheep, which had been to the mountains, but which are too poor to return to Deniliquin, from whence they came. These have reached within 40 miles of Albury, but it is now doubtful whether the strong

ANCIENT TOWER COLLAPSES WITH A GREAT CRASH

Campanile in Venice Falls Into a Heap of Ruins.

SURVIVED TEN CENTURIES

Held the Bell of St. Mark's Church and Was Crowned With the Figure of an Angel 16 Feet High—May Be Rebuilt.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Venice Italy, July 14.—The Campanile (detached bell tower) of St. Mark's church, 98 meters high, collapsed at 10:40 this morning and fell with a great crash into the piazza.

The Campanile, which was entirely detached from the cathedral, collapsed where it stood and is now a heap of ruins. The cathedral and palace of the Doges are quite safe, but a corner of the royal palace was damaged. Repairs on the Campanile were to have been commenced today. The ruins are surrounded by a cordon of troops.

The first intimation of danger was the sudden appearance yesterday of a longitudinal crack in the corner of the wall facing the clock tower and the breaking of two windows.

A concert which had been arranged to be held on the piazza yesterday evening was stopped by order of the prefect, with the object of preventing a concourse of people.

The ruins are piled up to a height of 100 feet and the adjoining squares are covered with debris and dust.

The Campanile in falling carried away the Sansovino loggetta and the library of the royal palace. Premonitory signs of the collapse allowed a partial clearance of the piazza and there were no fatalities, but a few persons were injured. The disaster caused an immense sensation.

A little before the collapse a noise of falling stones within the bell tower warned the shopkeepers, workmen and tourists of the impending disaster and all fled for their lives, crying:

"The Campanile Is Falling."

When the disaster was comprehended Venetians were seen in the streets bemoaning the destruction of one of the oldest art treasures in the kingdom. Four of Sansovino's statues of Venetian nobles were demolished in the Sansovino loggetta, while a beautiful example of a Paul Veronese painting was destroyed in the palace. The wing of an angel from the top of the bell tower was thrown down to the front door of the cathedral, smashing the Bando column, which was hurled 35 feet, just escaping the column supporting the south angle of the cathedral and thus averting a more serious disaster.

The fall of the tower produced a thick red dust, which spread like a hanging cloud over the city. This with the rumbling, volcanic noise startled the inhabitants of the most remote suburbs. Thousands of soldiers and police aided in allaying the panic.

The Campanile stood opposite the church or cathedral of St. Marks. It was founded in 888, restored in 1329, provided with a marble top in 1417 and in 1517 was crowned with the figure of an angel nearly 16 feet high. The loggetta or vestibule on the east side of the Campanile was once a rendezvous of the nobility and afterwards a waiting-room for the guards during the sessions of the great council. There were bronze statues of Peace, Apollo, Mercury and Pallas on the coping of the Campanile, and its fine bronze doors were much admired. At the top of the tower a fire watchman with a telescope was continually stationed.

The deputies of Venice have telegraphed to the government at Rome for authorization to establish a lottery for the purpose of raising funds to rebuild the bell tower.

HIBERNIANS MEET TODAY.

President Keating Expects Organization in Ireland and United States to Unite in a Few Months.

DENVER, COL., July 14.—The work of the 42d Biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians began today, with a meeting of the national executive committee and board of directors. Five hundred delegates are expected when the convention opens tomorrow.

Th national officers deny that politics will be injected into the deliberations.

"The convention," said President John Keating "will occupy itself with the extension of the order. We expect that the organization in Ireland and that in the United States will be united in the next six or eight months.

"As to the charges that the executive has been influenced by the Clan-na-Gael or any other body, I will say that the administration for the last four years has been as conservative as any I can remember."

An anonymous circular, calling upon good Hibernians to oppose any resolution which may be offered indorsing the Clan-na-Gael, is out.

ANOTHER MYTH NAILED.

No Such Thing as the "Monroe Doctrine," Says Prof. Hart—John Quincy Adams Did It.

CHIAGO, ILL., July 14.—The Monroe doctrine and President Monroe were discussed by Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard university in a lecture at the University of Chicago tonight.

"Monroe was not the father of the so-called doctrine," said Prof. Hart, "and it is doing him too much honor to attribute it to him. It was solely the work of John Quincy Adams, who kept urging Monroe to take the step until he yielded, rather against his will. Monroe was an honest, God-deserving man, who went to church and paid his debts, but he was no statesman. Adams wrote the doctrine himself, and it appeared in President Monroe's message in exactly the same form in which Adams put it."

ROYAL MUSKOKA NOW OPEN.

Guests Are Arriving Daily at the New Summer Resort.

The opening of the new Royal Muskoka hotel on Lake Rosseau, Muskoka Lakes district, for the season of 1902 has been a source of satisfaction to the proprietors and the reservations that have been made up to the present for accommodation at this resort assures the success of the venture. Guests are arriving daily and by next week hundreds of people will be enjoying the beauties of Muskoka with the advantage of sojourning in one of the best summer hotels in America.

Among the guests at the hotel now are prominent people from Buffalo, Chicago, New York and other American cities as well as many Canadians.

The Ontario government, in conjunction with the Grand Trunk Railway system, is continuing the policy inaugurated last year of restocking the Muskoka lakes with parent bass. The first carload was deposited in Lake Rosseau, June 20, and a finer lot of bass have seldom been seen. Last year 10,000 bass were planted into the northern lakes with much success. The fishing this year in the Muskoka lakes is good, some excellent catches having been made, the bars running from one to four pounds, and pickerel from one to eight pounds.

American Furniture to Become More Beautiful and Comfortable.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 14.—(Special.)—Anyone who took in all the lectures at Chautauqua today must have an abnormal mental digestion. There were six of them and with the exception of Dr. Hultey's lecture recital on "Rudyard Kipling and Tommy Atkins," and Prof. Underhill's reading of "The Merry Wives of Windsor," were of a scientific nature.

The special subject for this week is "Arts and Crafts," Charles Rolph of Buffalo being principal speaker. Mr. Rolph said:

"The furniture of the future will be useful, more beautiful, and more than all, comfortable, for we will not make martyrs of ourselves for the sake of art."

Speaking of art in America, he said: "We, as Americans, do ourselves an injustice. No one can make me believe that what we have done in skyscrapers and shanties is the limit of the American's mind. People want art and they are going to have it."

Prof. Earle Barnes begun today a series of lectures on "The Moral Development of the Child," which, he says, is to be a natural history study in moralism and have nothing to do with religious questions.

Preserving the Summer Fruits.

The preservation of the summer fruits, by ways known to the housewife, are most commendable whenever it is practical. They will not only give her a great deal of pleasure, as her own handiwork, but she will be well supplied with these important foods in some form when their season is past and they cannot be had in their fresh condition.

The housekeeper who has her own well-stocked preserve closet, never feels at a loss for materials when she wishes to make a particularly dainty and delicious dessert, as these fruits may form the basis of some such delicacy, or be used to garnish and transform a very plain and ordinary dish, such as boiled rice or plain custard, into a dish she does not hesitate to offer the unexpected guest.

Preserving fruits is a very simple process when one is careful to observe the few simple rules which govern the operations. The fruits must be perfectly sound and sufficiently ripe. The jars should be glass, with either glass or porcelain-lined tops; the rubber bands must be new and fitted closely to exclude the air and all the utensils must be of such material as will not be effected by the action of the acids in the fruits. Canning is the most valuable way of preserving vegetables and fruits. But in regard to canning vegetables, unless the housekeeper has her own vegetable garden and can get them very fresh and the cost will be much less than the purchased goods will be in the winter, there is no economy in doing the work herself, as it is difficult for the city housekeeper to get the vegetables fresh enough and they are never very cheap, costing as much in same quantity as the canned vegetables you buy, and considerably more when you count the labor, time and discomfort, as well as the uncertainty of their keeping.

With the fruits, however, it is a different matter and most housekeepers who have been accustomed to preserving their own fruits find so much satisfaction in so doing that they will probably continue to do so until the end of time. To the new and inexperienced housekeeper the work seems rather formidable and hardly worth the trouble.

When a large amount of fruit is to be canned at one time, you may put the jars in a large pan with a folded towel under them and set on the stove to heat. Then put into them the fruit cooked without sugar, if for pies, and frozen deserts, and with enough sugar to sweeten to taste if for serving as sauce. Keep the cans in the hot water until all the fruit has been put in them, put on the tops and screw them down tight, lift the jars out and standing on a folded damp cloth. When cold, screw the tops down again if they are loose and set the jars away in a cool, dark closet.

To Can Without Sugar.

After the fruit base been prepared by carefully picking over and washing if necessary, put it into glass jars and set these in large boiler—clean wash boiler is the best if you do a large quantity; pour in enough cold water to reach half way up the sides of the cans, spread a cloth over the top of the boiler, or lay the lids on loosely, put the cover on the boiler and place the boiler over the fire; when the steam begins to escape freely, note the time, and continue the cooking of the fruit according to its size; in the average sized quart cans, the small berries will cook in 15 minutes; large berries, such as grapes and cherries in about 20 minutes; peaches, quinces and pineapple and cut apple and most other large fruit in 20 minutes, but quinces and pears require half an hour.

After the fruit is done the boiler should be removed from the fire, and as soon as the jars can be handled with the aid of folded dry towels, the covers should be screwed down and when the fruit is put away the covers should be again tightened and the fruit kept in a cool, dry place.

Jellied Gooseberries.

This is a very nice way to put up this fruit to serve in the winter with game or roast pork: Pick over the berries, removing the tops and stems and separating the larger from the rest. Put the smaller berries in the preserving kettle, allowing a half pint of water for each quart of berries, stew them to a pulp, then pour them into a jelly bag and let drain over night. The next day put the large berries in a preserving kettle with just enough cold water to cover them and set over the fire. Do not let them boil up hard but stew them gently until they are tender; then skim them out of the boiling water, and put them in a pan of cold water. In the meantime measure the juice from the smaller cooked berries, allowing a pound of sugar to each pint of juice. Put the fruit juice and sugar in the preserving kettle, heat, and stir them together, skimming carefully as the scum arises. When the syrup has boiled quite clear drain the large berries and put them into this syrup and cook them until they are quite clear; then skim them out and put them into glass jars; boil the syrup until it will jelly when a little is dropped on a saucer and cooled; then remove from the fire and when partly cool pour the syrup over the preserved berries and when quite cold seal them up.

Morello Cherry Preserve.

These make the finest preserves. Choose the largest and soundest fruit you can get, pick out the smaller cherries and use for marmalade. Stem and stone the cherries without bruising them too much. This can be readily accomplished with a quill squarely cut off, and pushed evenly through the cherries from the stem end, thus punching out the stone. Save all the juice from the fruit. After it is stoned, weigh the fruit and allow equal weight in sugar; sprinkle the sugar among the cherries and let stand for several hours or over night, so that the sugar may harden the fruit, and it will keep its shape when cooked. Then put the sugar fruit and juice in a preserving kettle and place over the fire, allowing to gradually heat together and then boil gently until the fruit looks clear, removing the scum as it arises. When the fruit is clear remove the kettle from the fire and cover it with a folded cloth and let the preserves cool. When cold, put the preserves in a glass jar and cover with paraffin and close up airtight. Keep in a cool, dark place.

Preserved Raspberries.

Choose large, fine berries, which are quite ripe, freshly gathered, and look them over carefully to make sure there are no worms or insects hidden in their hollow cups. Then weigh it and allow equal weight in sugar. Spread a thick layer of sugar on the bottom of a preserving kettle and then a layer of the berries and so on until all the fruit and sugar are used, having the top layer of sugar. Throw a cloth over the fruit and let it stand over night. In the morning stem, pick, currants, mash and squeeze the juice through a cheese cloth and allow a pint of currant juice to every two pounds of the fruit and sugar weighed together. Set the kettle containing the crushed berries over the fire, add the currant juice in the proportion given above and stir them together until they boil. Skim carefully and stir the berries often enough to prevent their sticking to the kettle, but do not break them. Cook until they look quite clear and then cool them and put up same as the cherries.

Tomato Honey.

This is delicious and should be made from the yellow tomatoes. Select those which are perfectly ripe, wash them and then weigh and cut them in pieces. To each pound of tomatoes add the chipped yellow rind of one lemon. Put them in a porcelain-lined preserving kettle and cook gently for half an hour, then drain off the juice into another kettle and press the pulp gently through a piece of coarse cheese cloth. Measure the juice and to each pint add a pound of granulated sugar and quarter of a cup of lemon juice. Boil for about 20 minutes until the syrup is quite like jelly, then pour into glasses or wide-mouthed bottles and seal.

Preserved Watermelon Rind.

This is one of the nicest preserves and costs nothing for the fruit part as the rind which is the part used, is generally thrown away. Take the rinds from which you have cut or scooped out the red pulp, and remove the green part and scrape away the soft part of the white. Cut into cubes, thick slices or fancy shapes, if you wish to imitate the West Indian preserves. Cook very gently in enough water to cover until just tender. Then drain and cover with very cold water and soak several hours. Make a syrup with following proportions: To two and a half pounds of granulated sugar add a quart of water. Stir until the sugar is dissolved and then boil and skim until the syrup is perfectly clear. Put in the melon rind and simmer gently until tender enough to be pierced with a broom straw. Remove from the syrup with a skimmer and spread out on large platters, and let it stand in the sun for two hours. Slice the yellow part of the rind of a small lemon and the juice of it you prefer, slice the lemon into the syrup. Add a little sliced green ginger root for each pound of the rind and boil all up in the syrup for ten minutes. Remove from the fire and cool. Put the rind into jars and put the syrup on to boil again and then pour it into the jars over the fruit; let get cold and seal up.

Spiced Cherries.

Stem and stone the cherries. Morellos preferred, and then weigh them. To ten pounds of the stoned fruit allow eight pounds of granulated sugar, one quart of vinegar, four tablespoonfuls of whole cloves and four tablespoonfuls of stick cinnamon. Put the spices into muslin bags; make a syrup of the sugar and vinegar, adding the spices, then the fruit, and cook for 30 minutes after they come to a boil. Put up in glasses and seal up, when cold. Spiced currants may be done in the same way and are nice to serve with roast duck or game in the winter.

Paring Fruits for Canning and Preserving.

When preserving such fruits as pears, peaches and apples a sharp, pointed knife should be used and the work very neatly done, not only for the appearance but so that the fruit will not be bruised. Throw the fruit in cold water as soon as pared, as this will preserve their fine color, if this precaution is not observed the fruit will very soon discolor, and this not only spoils its appearance but destroys the delicate fine flavor of the peach especially.

Lemon Trifle.

Sweeten a pint of good cream and whip it to a stiff froth. Grate the yellow peel of one lemon into a bowl and add the strained juice of two and let these lie for two hours with sugar enough to make a thick syrup; then add a cup of sherry and grating of nutmeg; strain into the whipped cream, gradually whipping rapidly. Heap this up in small glasses with a strawberry or cherry on top of each, and serve at once with small cakes.

Swiss Cream.

Take six small sponge cakes, a little sherry, a pint of cream, five ounces loaf sugar, two large tablespoonfuls arrowroot, grated rind of one lemon and juice of half a lemon and three tablespoonfuls milk. Lay the sponge cakes in a glass dish and pour over them just enough sherry to cover and soak them well. Put the cream in a porcelain-lined saucepan with the sugar and lemon rind and let it remain at one side the fire until well flavored with lemon, then take out the rind. Mix the arrowroot smooth with the cold milk; add this to the cream, and let cook gently for three minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire and beat with a wire egg whip until nearly cold, then add the lemon juice and pour over the cake. Jelly or preserved fruits may be used, the juice to soak the cakes instead of the sherry and the fruit spread in a layer over the cakes before adding the cream.

Cardinal Salad.

If one wants a bright bit of color this salad will please both eye and palate. Take a pint of cold boiled potatoes, a pint of cold boiled beets (they are better if spiced), a pint of uncooked red cabbage shredded, six tablespoonfuls of oil, half a teaspoonful of pepper, salt to taste and eight tablespoonfuls of the red vinegar the beets have been spiced in; cut the potatoes in thin slices (use new potatoes and not too well boiled); cut the beets in small cubes or fancy shapes and shred the cabbage very fine. Mix all together and chill for an hour and then serve.

Scalloped Tomatoes.

Peel and cut up a quart of ripe tomatoes, drain nearly all the juice from them. This can be seasoned and set in a cold place for clear tomato soup or iced tomato bouillon. Now put a layer of rather coarse, fresh bread crumbs in bottom of a buttered baking dish; on these spread a layer of tomatoes; season with salt, pepper, a little sugar and bits of butter and then add another layer of crumbs, then tomatoes seasoned as before and cover with fine grated bread crumbs. Put in a hot oven, cover with an earthen or china plate and cook half an hour, then uncover and brown quickly and serve.

League Games Today.

Boston at Exposition park.
Brooklyn at Chicago.
New York at Cincinnati.
Philadelphia at St. Louis.

It was a mighty lucky thing for the champion Pirates that they got a four-run start on Boston in the opening combat at Exposition park yesterday afternoon, as there is no telling what the result of the game might have been. It turned out a 4 to 1 victory for the champions and the 2,497 spectators went home to supper in a happy frame of mind.

Tall, angular Vic Willis was the speed artist that Al Buckenberger sent to the slab for twirling duty and outside of the opening inning he worked well. In the opening inning, however, he was to the bad and before he could settle down to real business the champions had smashed four safties over the pan. That quarter of runs looked as large to the spectators as the opening to the Panhandle tunnel and they proved to be just enough to give the locals the game. It was tough luck for Vic and our old Manager Buck, but things are coming the champions' way these days.

Champions Got a Good Start.

Clarke, who was first up in the opening inning, sent down a whizzer that nearly tore a leg off Big Greminger, the Boston's third baseman, who made a noble try for the ball but it caromed off his shins and before Herman Long could lay hands on it the Pirates' leader was over the initial bag making faces at his old college chum, Fred Tenney. Just to keep a good thing going Beaumont laid one down so close to the plate that Pat Moran almost broke an arm trying to get it, but he couldn't and Beau was safe with Clarke on second. Leach then gave Dick Cooley a chance to show himself and on the fly out, Clarke moved to third.

Here was a chance for the crowd to continue and the opportunity was not lost sight of. It was up to Honus Wagner and the hero of Carnegie didn't do a thing but make good. The first ball that Willis pitched was light but the second one was all right and the crack of Honus' bat was sweet music to the Pirates' friends. When the ball got through going it was almost against the fence in right center, Clarke and Beau were home and Honus was roosting on third.

Willis Was Afraid of Kitty.

When Kitty Bransfield appeared at the plate, bat in hand and a look of determination in his eye, Willis decided not to take a chance and he was passed to first with a smile. Then came Little All Right Ritchey, the best pinch-hitter in the league and as per usual Little All Right was there with his goods and his single to right scored Wagner and put Bransfield on third from which point Kitty scored on Conroy's fly out to Conley in middle field. That's the story of the Pirates' four runs and it is likewise the story of the team's 52d victory of the season.

Wild Conroy was back in the game again after a long suspension on the part of John T. Brush for defending himself from an assault by Tinker in Chicago. Conroy was at short and his fielding was all right but he was a bit shady at the bat. On three occasions he jumped the ball hard, but they counted as fly-outs to Conley and once he allowed himself to be called out on strikes. On two occasions a hit by him would have brought in Pirate scores, but the hit was not there. More's the pity Wid, however, was not alone in this respect. The champions had runners on bases in almost every inning and that was where Willis showed up strongest, because the hit to bring in the runs could never be found.

Boston's Run Was a Gift.

Eddie Doheny was the twirling artist for the Pirates and barring a little wildness at times he pitched a choice game, keeping the hits well scattered. This wildness, however, was responsible for Boston's only run, which was obtained in the second inning. Carney hit a bounder over Doheny's head and Conroy got the ball while on the run and it looked as though the Boston man was out at first but Emslie called him safe on the ground that Bransfield had taken his foot off the base too soon. Of course there was a kick but the umpire's decision stood. Doheny then made a wild pitch which gave Carney an opportunity to reach third and he scored on Long's out at first. The visitors had men on the bases in two or three innings but good pitching and fast fielding prevented any more runs. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Demont, of the visitors, made a pretty play in the sixth when he gathered in Beaumont's foul fly after a long hard run.

Carney, the Boston right fielder, played fast ball and some of his stops drew applause from the spectators. It was his fast fielding that kept Wagner from making a home run in the first inning.

In the second inning Eason, who was out in the coachers' box, ran out on the field and put himself in front of Zimmer's throw, thus blocking Tommy Leach and causing him to drop the ball. It was a baseball trick, but not a clever one by any means.

The accident that Jesse Tannehill suffered at Cincinnati on Sunday was not a serious one after all, and the little left hander will be able to take his regular turn in the box. The index finger of his left hand was stoved up, but not broken.

Patsy Flaherty, the Carnegie boy who is considered the leading pitcher of the American association, and who has won nearly all his games for the Louisville club, was a spectator at yesterday's game. Patsy was spiked in a game last week and is laying off until the wounds received heal up.

Bransfield and Doheny put up a fast bit of fielding in the first inning, when Beaumont sent a hot grounder down toward first. Kitty could not get the ball and reach first in time to get the runner, but Doheny sprinted over just in time to get Bransfield's toss. It was a close race, but the decision went to the Pirates.

There was a loud kick on the part of the Pirates when Umpire Emslie failed to call a strike on Greminger in the seventh inning. Long, who was on first, started to steal second, but was neatly thrown out by Chief Zimmer. Greminger tried to help the steal by striking at the ball, but the umpire, who turned to see the play at second, did not see the strike and would not allow it.

Honus Wagner and his trusty bat cut quite a figure in yesterday's game. Honus had three hits, a single, a double and a three-bagger. In the fifth inning he smashed the ball down into left field and it looked like another three-base hit, but the umpire called it foul. The decision was a close one, as the ball couldn't have hit more than an inch or two outside the foul line.

The Pittsburgh infielders were kept very busy yesterday, but the outfielders had little to do. Wagner had two chances and Beaumont one, while Fred Clarke had none at all. One of Wagner's was a difficult line fly from Tenney's bat, and had it got away would have been good for three bases at least. Honus tore across the field and nailed the ball while the spectators cheered wildly.

The report that Lee Tannehill, who is far and away the best shortstop in the American association, has been signed by Cincinnati for next season is denied by both Jesse Tannehill and Patsy Flaherty, who pitches on the same team. Jesse says that he will not leave Dave Pond to the Reds and the boy will follow his advice. Flaherty says that young Tannehill is a wonder, both in fielding and batting.

The Boston players kept nagging at Pat Moran their catcher, all afternoon, yelling at him to wake up. Pete was catching a fine game, and there was no occasion for these call downs. In the sixth inning, as the last man was retired, Tenney yelled at Moran to let that ball go to Shine, and Pat thinking the side was not yet out nearly broke his back trying to stop the ball, and he was angry when he discovered the mistake.

Tommy Leach was at it again yesterday and made some play that bordered on the sensational. His prettiest piece of work was a one-handed pick up while on the run of Moran's slow grounder and his quick throw to first. Some of the Boston players applauded this play. Tommy was forced to doff his cap every time he came in from the field, and the applause bestowed was deserved. That boy is certainly a wonder at fielding his position.

Mal Eason, the Brookville boy who has been pitching winning ball for the Boston team, made himself very unpopular with the spectators and Pittsburgh players yesterday. Eason shouted to the players on the coaching lines, and his remarks drew a hot retort from Claude Ritchey, who sang out, "Old boy, you know what you got it in Chicago for. Knocking. Shut up, you knocker," but even that would not keep Eason quiet.

In the eighth inning Tenney, while at bat, popped up a little foul which the catcher could easily have got under, but the sun was in Zimmer's eyes and he made no effort. Bransfield did, but started too late. As he thought Zimmer would get the ball, Manager Clarke sent in a protest from left field which read: "If you can't see in the sun, holler for some one to take it." The protest was sent in by Fraser, and Ritchey, Bransfield and after that there was no occasion to "holler."

Honus Wagner's great dodging act in the sixth inning was lots of fun for the spectators. Honus was on third with Bransfield on first, and he tried to score on Ritchey's grounder to Long, but was caught by ten yards. Honus kept dodging up and down the line, sliding the man with the ball, and between Bransfield and Ritchey plenty of time to reach third and second. Nearly all the Boston players joined in the chase, and the crowd applauded Wagner for his clever work.

The Giants Were Easily Shut Out by the Reds.

CINCINNATI, O., July 14.—New York put up a very amateurish exhibition today and was shut out by the locals. Jones was wild in the early rounds and Umpire Powers for questioning a decision and Matheweson took his place in left. Hogan was put out of the grounds for talking to Power from the bench. ### WEINIG KOCKED OUT.

As Usual the Ex-Bicyclist Took a Lot of Punishment and Fought Hard.

FORT ERIE, ONT., July 14.—Kid Carter knocked out Al Weinig in the seventh round. The fight was scheduled to go 20 rounds and it was one of the hardest fought battles ever seen here. Weinig worried Carter a little in the first five rounds with hard jabs, but after that the Kid made a veritable chopping block of the ex-bicyclist. Carter punished Weinig terribly and in the tenth had him almost out, but Weinig managed to finish the round.

Weinig took some hard punishment in the eleventh, Carter punching him all over the ring. Blood was flowing from his nose and mouth and from a cut over his eye. Carter rushed matters in the twelfth and soon had Weinig staggering. A right full on the jaw stretched Al at full length on the floor, but he dragged himself on to his knees and straightened up at the count of nine. Carter sent a right square on the point of the jaw, and Weinig went down and out. Weinig was the most battered boxer that ever emerged from the Fort Erie ring. Jimmy Handler and Jack Bonner challenged Carter.

In the preliminary Harry Cobb of Niagara Falls won on a foul in the eighth round from Jimmy Smith, the feather weight champion of Canada.

LIPTON GETTING READY.

Preparing Plans for Yacht and a Challenge.

LONDON, July 14.—Sir Thomas Lipton's arrangements to challenge again for the America's cup will be practically completed in a couple of months. The plans for a working model of the challenger are finished and in a safe at the Fairlie yard. Draughtsmen are now preparing the working drawings and the officers of the Shamrock III. are already engaged. There has been strong pressure on Sir Thomas recently on the part of influential shareholders of his company to induce him to abandon the idea of challenging in 1903 and devote himself to improving the affairs of Lipton, Limited, but thus far he has shown no indication of abandoning his personal desire to contest for the America's cup in 1903.

Open Air Basket Ball.

The Lyceum Pool Tourney.

An interesting pool tournament was started at the Lyceum last night and it promises to be exciting. One of the features of last night's contest was the playing of John Gauhea, who defeated Hafter and Powell, two of the best players entered. These contests will be continued throughout the week, with the exception of Wednesday and Thursday, on account of the orphans' picnic. All the members, including their friends, are cordially invited to attend. The contests begin at 7:30 p. m. sharp.

ALBERT CHAMPION,
Who Was Leading the Race When the Motor Broke Down.

MOTORS BROKE DOWN AND RACE WAS POSTPONED

There Was All Kinds of Trouble With the Machines at Colosseum.

LIVELY AMATEUR EVENTS

Charles Reel Wins Ten-Mile Race as Well as the Lap Prize—Largest Crowd of the Season—Hour Race Takes Place Tonight.

The Colosseum at Recreation park, Alleghenw, was well filled last evening, about 3,000 people being present to witness the one-hour motor-paced race between Albert Champion of France and Basil DeGuishard, also of France, and a 10-mile race for amateurs.

The one-hour race was a dismal failure, owing to the breaking down of both tandem pacing machines, DeGuisard's pacer retiring after the fifth mile and Champion's stopping after the 12th mile.

It was a great disappointment to the crowd, but the management promptly announced that the race would take place this evening in addition to a five-mile amateur event under the same conditions as the 10-mile event of last evening, and that all coupons would be accepted to night.

Amateur Race Was Exciting.

The 10-mile race for amateurs in which a prize was offered to the man leading the greater number of laps, and one for the rider leading the greater number of miles was a most exciting event and was won by Charles Reel in 24:02 2-5. He also won the prize for the greatest number of laps, scoring 38, while Percy Brown won as the leader of the greatest number of miles, having six to his credit.

The race was called promptly at 8 o'clock with eight starters: Harry Brown, William Hoffsidt, Percy Brown, S. A. Shirley, Ernest Herlinger, Charles Reel, Harry Bupp and David Molter. The men were closely bunched for the first mile, which was made in 2:11 1-5, with Reel in the lead. Molter showed signs of being too slow for the terrific pace set, and from this dropped slowly behind. In the fourth mile and fourth lap Molter collided with Shirley and Herlinger and they all went down together, but without any serious results. Shirley and Molter pluckily jumped on their machines again and continued the race, but Herlinger withdrew. Shirley made a brilliant effort to make up his lost ground and was heartily cheered for his courage, but it was of no avail, as he had lost too much ground.

Percy Brown and Reel were alternately in the lead most of the time and passed and repassed each other frequently amid the applause of their friends in the crowd, and all continued so close together that it looked like almost anyone's race until the last lap, when Reel took the lead and won by a yard or two, with Harry Brown and Percy Brown in the order named close behind him.

There Was a Long Delay.

A delay of over an hour occurred before the great race was started, owing to the repeated breaking of the chain on the big motor tandem which was to pace De Guishard, and finally it was agreed that he should be paced by a four-horse power motor and receive a handicap of one mile, while Champion, who holds the 10-mile record of the world of 13:47 2-5, made on the Colosseum track, would be able to do even better, as he was in excellent condition, but he did not. De Guishard, who is but a youth of 16 years, was greatly admired for his style and evident fast riding throughout the race, and it was apparent to all that his pace was much too slow for him.

The men were started from opposite sides of the track at 10:06, and the first mile was made in 1:27. Champion passing De Guishard and gaining over a lap. In the sixth mile De Guishard's motor commenced to break down, and after the second lap he lost the pace and dashed ahead on his own account, while the crowd shouted encouragement to him and cheered him to the echo.

They Were Going Fast.

Champion pushed along at a tremendous pace and passed his opponent a number of times, but at the commencement of the thirteenth mile his motor pacer broke down and the officials of the track called the race off. De Guishard said after the race that his wheel was disabled in the sixth mile or he would have made a better showing. As it was, Champion was several miles ahead of him at the close, and he rode the thirteenth mile without his pace, making the total time 19:05. Champion's time for the 12 miles when his motor broke down was 17:26, and for the 10 miles, 15:55 1-5. Both men developed so much speed last evening that it is expected that the race this evening will be very exciting and close.

WYETH BEATEN AGAIN.

American Derby Winner Seems to Be a Mark.

CHICAGO, ILL., July 14.—Wyeth, the American Derby winner, was beaten again at Washington park race track today, but he could have won with a better jockey. The race was a $600 affair, with penalties and allowances, and Wyeth got in at 98 pounds. With Lyne in the saddle the Derby winner had to carry 100 pounds and he seemed to be in an easy place. He went badly in the betting, opening at 3 to 5 and going to the post at even money and a shade better. Meanwhile Favonius, who won, was being backed from 4 to 1 down to 9 to 5, as though already in. The race had a bad look from the betting point of view. When it was run Lyne, on Wyeth, let the heavily played Favonius get eight lengths ahead of him and made no effort until well in the stretch. Then he made a useless run. Favonious was simply galloping out in front and Wyeth's belated rush was of no avail.

First race, 6 furlongs—Farmer Bill, 113, Dominick, 6 to 1, won; Void Bell, 113, J. Lynch, 2 to 1, second; Bonaventure, 105, J. Ransch, 3 to 2, third. Time, 1:16 2-5. Dupage, Emir, Mireina, Lampoon, Olonetz and Vestia ran.

Second race, 8½ furlongs—Artan, 105, J. Ransch, 8 to 1, won; Boaster, 110, T. Knight, 5 to 2, second; Pounding, 104, Lynn, 12 to 1, third. Time, 1:50 3-5. Scortic, Caliban, Dr. Hart, Mattinbell, Ravensbury and Hayward Hunter ran.

Third race, mile and 50 yards—Favonius, 107, J. Ransch,

HALTING OF THE CITY MAY SPOIL CARNEGIE'S AIM

Will Not Give More Till Technological School Is Provided For.

SQUABBLE OVER LOCATION

Forbes-Bouquet Site Which Carnegie Wants, Adequate for Accommodation of Three Great Institutes—Offered $1,000,000 for Endowment.

Some of Andrew Carnegie's close friends fear that unless the city of Pittsburgh, which has been for two years halting short of acceptance of his technological school, comes forward speedily to take what he offers, he may repent of his generous intentions toward it. Not that he will withdraw his gifts, but that his desire to make Pittsburgh the beneficiary of the greater part of his wealth may be chilled.

According to one of these friends, Mr. Carnegie considers the site bounded by Forbes and Bouquet streets ample. "It will," he is quoted, "be sufficient for all the buildings that need be put upon it for a hundred years to come."

Mr. Carnegie is said to prefer this site and the friend who interprets him to the public presents a plan of the grounds diagrammed to show its possibilities.

Room for Three Great Institutions.

The plan is presented herewith, and the diagram shows sufficient area to give room for the buildings of the three leading institutions of the kind in the United States. Could the buildings of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, of the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, and of the Armour Institute in Chicago be picked up and relocated in Pittsburgh, the site fronting in Forbes and Bouquet streets would be large enough to give room for them all, and after that the ravine could be filled to provide space for additional buildings.

This friend of Mr. Carnegie says the situation is really serious, as the founder is growing impatient with a delay that materially interferes with the working out to his satisfaction of his expressed determination to be his own executor. He designs, it is represented, as executor of his own estate to make Pittsburgh the greatest beneficiary.

Something More to Come.

After the institute, the technological school, after the technological school, much and more that Mr. Carnegie has not confided to others, at which he has only hinted; but before further plans are unfolded must come the technological school. It now bars the way, and until Pittsburgh provides it with a site will continue to do so, and ground will be lost that may never be regained.

Mr. Carnegie's friend points out that the site he prefers is immediately available. "Therefore," he says, "secure it." The money to purchase it is ready at hand for use. "Therefore, use it." The larger site proposed may be had, but there is not the money to purchase it. "Therefore, buy the site Mr. Carnegie prefers." Only by a bond issue, voted by the people, can the money be provided for the larger site, and it is first doubtful whether the people will be willing to vote more money, with sufficient in hand to purchase the site Mr. Carnegie has indorsed; and (second) it is doubtful whether a bond issue to purchase a site for technological schools and colleges would stand a legal and constitutional test.

Might Be Continued as a Rebuke.

"Therefore," says Mr. Carnegie's friend, "meet Mr. Carnegie's wishes by providing for his school the site he prefers, which may be secured at once and for which there is sufficient money. Avoid the delay involved in asking the people to vote more money, which is not needed, but the refusal of which might be construed by some as a rebuke to the man who has given millions and wants to give more for the intellectual development of Pittsburgh."

Mr. Carnegie's friend offers these questions for the consideration of the people and municipal authorities of Pittsburgh, accompanied with the plan spoken of, showing the available area to be ample:

First—Has the city of Pittsburgh the constitutional and legal right to issue bonds to the extent of $1,750,000 to provide a site for a technical institute?

Second—Can the city of Pittsburgh apply the $360,000 remaining in the fund voted by the citizens for park extension, to the purchase of a site for the technical school north of Fifth avenue?

Third—Granting that the city of Pittsburgh has the right to apply the $360,000 now in hand to purchase the 11 acres at the corner of Forbes and Bouquet streets for purposes of park extension, why should not the new Carnegie Technical school be placed upon this site? By grading and filling, nine and a half acres may be made available for building purposes on a level with Forbes and Bouquet streets, leaving on a lower level ground on which power houses and other necessary outbuildings could be put. There is level ground enough without any grading at the present time to accommodate all the buildings owned by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, and the Armour Institute in Chicago, all three of which could be put upon the ground that is available in addition, a quarter of a mile along Bouquet street could be used for building shops or ateliers. What is the matter with this site?

Fourth—Why should not the city of Pittsburgh, having already in hand the necessary money to purchase this site, proceed to acquire the property for park purposes and then grant to the trustees of the Institute permission to go ahead and utilize the site for the technical school?

Fifth—Would not such a use of the site round out the park and the erection of the buildings balance the building of the institute on the opposite side of the ravine, thus making a harmonious and congruous whole?

Sixth—Why longer delay?

Mr. Carnegie is said to have argued for two hours, at the meeting with the trustees, against the advocates of the larger site, pointing out the adequacy of the Forbes and Bouquet street site, declaring it would give space for all the buildings that need be erected for a hundred years. It was at the end of the argument, as a further exhibit of good faith and of confidence in the correctness of his views, and as a guarantee of his determination to further benefit the people of Pittsburgh that he exclaimed:

Offered Another Million.

"I will give another million dollars to the endowment."

The endowment is waiting on the erection of the buildings, which are to be provided, and equipped by Mr. Carnegie, and the buildings are delayed only for want of a site, for which the people of Pittsburgh have voted $3,000,000. "The site," said Mr. Carnegie's friend, "can be had for the money voted, and it is the one Mr. Carnegie wants the city to purchase. All that is now needed is for the city to act. When the site has been secured, the buildings erected and the success of the school has been demonstrated, Pittsburgh will hear from Carnegie again, in his role of executor of his own estate, but not sooner."

The reports for last year of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology show that it had 1,430 students, the Pratt institute had 2,121 students; the Armour institute had 1,000 students. These three institutions which, it is shown, could be accommodated on the Forbes-Bouquet street site, have buildings and equipment that last year afforded facilities for 5,551 students. The range of studies at the Massachusetts institute is the very highest, embracing engineering, architecture, machine designing, etc. At the Pratt institute the studies are of an industrial nature, including clay, iron and wood working, decorating, drawing and designing in and on clay, iron, wood, paper, etc. The course of study at the Armour institute is very much the same as at the Pratt institute.

It is also alleged that he admitted in writing his inability to pay his debts and willingness to be adjudged a bankrupt.

Executions were issued as follows: D. W. Nobbs vs. J. C. Bisir, $100; Knoxville Land improvement Company vs. Sarah Silberstein et al, $3,220; Pittsburgh Wall Paper Company vs. Edwin G. Diehl, $1,205; W. W. Hunter, Son & Co. vs. Andrew Nelson et al, $85; Pittsburgh Commercial Exchange vs. Dr. F. B. Staube, $20.

A statement was filed by the authorities of Duquesne borough signifying the desire to increase the indebtedness of that borough $70,000. The money is to be used for improvements—$50,000 for street work and $20,000 for sewer construction. The present indebtedness is $207,000 and the assessed valuation $4,183,510.

WILL DOUBLE-TRACK THE GLENWOOD BRIDGE

IMPROVING B. & O.'S WHEELING BRANCH

Reconstruction of Bridge Will Cost $200,000—Big Betterment Plans Working Out.

The engineering department of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has prepared plans for the entire reconstruction of the bridge over the Monongahela river at Glenwood, and will shortly award the contracts. The big bridge is to be made double-track. The improvement is demanded by the large amount of traffic which comes over the Wheeling branch, the coal business in particular having become more than the present single-track bridge can well accommodate.

This work is to be completed inside of a year, if the plans of the company carry out. It is also planned to go ahead with the new Parkersburg bridge and have that also finished within a year. Other improvement work is progressing rapidly and already the good effects are being felt at many points in this district.

For the coming year the Baltimore & Ohio plans to make a greater outlay for extraordinary improvements than in any one year before. While the Baltimore & Ohio will not spend as much as President A. J. Cassatt says the Pennsylvania will, $100,000,000 in 1903, the number of millions which the smaller system will devote to improvements will be surprisingly large. There are several large plans for betterment in this district of which nothing has yet been announced and these, with the plans already made public, mean an expenditure of at least $5,000,000 locally.

Local B. & O. Travel Breaks Records

This is the heaviest week in the history of local Baltimore & Ohio travel. Yesterday a party of 1,600 persons left for Youngstown, on account of the excursion of the St. Andrew Dramatic society. Today there will be 35 coaches of passengers for the outing of the Maccabees at Cascade park, New Castle, and in addition two large Sunday school picnics at Olympia park, the new resort at Versailles. The churches represented are the Thirty-third Street and the Herron Avenue United Presbyterian. Thursday will be the heaviest day of all. For the dedication of the Odd Fellows' home at Grove City the road has provided 70 coaches capable of carrying 5,000 people. On the same day there will be an Atlantic City excursion for which 14 Pullmans have been ordered, in addition to the regular coach service. Two more large Sunday schools, the Mt. Washington and Wylie Avenue Baptist, will picnic Thursday at Olympia.

Wabash Again Leads the Way.

The Wabash has announced finally its intention to make special rates from Omaha and Kansas City to connect with the St. Louis and Chicago excursions for New York and the Atlantic coast. Official information of this was received yesterday from General Passenger Agent C. S. Crane of the Wabash by Assistant General Passenger Agent F. H. Trisfram. The proposition to make a rate of $9 per cent of double the one-way fare from Omaha and Kansas City to St. Louis and Chicago on this account, was negatived by the vote of the members of the Western Passenger association. Mr. Crane has now served notice that the rates will be put into effect by the Wabash anyway. The other roads are expected to fall into line.

The Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern railroad established a new record on its line for fast running Sunday evening, making the run from Washington, Ind., to Cone, Ills., 163 miles, in 164 minutes, and making two stops aggregating 16 minutes, the actual running time being 148 minutes.

KEISER ADVANCED TO SUCCEED CULP

Division Operator on P. R. R. to Become the Division Passenger Trainmaster.

A. W. Keiser, division operator of the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad, has been appointed passenger trainmaster of the same division. He succeeds C. W. Culp, who, as already announced, has become assistant general manager of the Washington Southern.

The appointment of Mr. Keiser to the vacant position comes in the due course of the civil service system of the Pennsylvania. He has been connected with the train-operating end of the Pennsylvania for several years, starting on the southwestern branch. His appointment as division operator was made a year ago when C. M. Shaefer was removed to Philadelphia. The other promotions following Mr. Keiser's advancement were not announced yesterday, but are expected today. There are several of the Pittsburgh division men well qualified for the position.

Official Denies Reading Report.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., July 14.—(Special.)—Reading railroad officials tonight denied the story sent out by the Associated Press to the effect that, "It is authoritatively admitted that arrangements have almost been completed for the running of Philadelphia and Reading trains into Buffalo and Pittsburgh, over the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh and Beech Creek lines. It is possible that formal announcement to this effect may be made tomorrow by President Baer of the Reading road."

The official seen tonight said: "No such action was contemplated by the Reading management."

Mr. Bassett Leaves the Hospital.

General Passenger Agent C. W. Bassett of the Baltimore & Ohio, who has been a patient at the West Penn hospital since the first of the month, was so far recovered yesterday that he was removed to his home. It is expected that he will be able to resume his duties before the end of the month.

THE PITTSBURGH GOLFERS MAKING FINE SHOWING

Preliminary Scores Recorded Close to Those of Champion Travis.

WILLING TO MAKE WAGERS

Bets That the Entire Delegation of Nine Would Qualify Today Went Begging—How Pittsburgh Players Are Paired for Play.

By J. N. PATTERSON.

Chicago, July 14.—A better showing could not have been asked than that made today by the nine Western Pennsylvania golfers in the last preliminary play of the amateur golf championships of the United States, which open tomorrow with a record field of 159 starters. Scores recorded by the Pittsburgh players were within two strokes of the best record today by Champion Walter J. Travis and John Reid, Jr., and promise an even stronger showing than that which opened the eyes of the golfing world to the Smoky City's strength last year at Atlantic City and wagers that the entire delegation of nine would qualify in tomorrow's play went begging this evening.

The Western Pennsylvania golfers are paired as follows for the qualifying starting at 8 a.m., C. D. Thompson and Percival Manchester, Glenview, 9 a. m.; E. M. Byers and W. E. Egan, Lake Geneva, 9:18; C. B. Fownes and Warren Dickinson, 10:12; W. C. Carnegie and Foden Horstmann, Chevy Chase, 11:30; G. A. Ormiston and F. R. Hamlin, Chicago Golf club, 11:36; H. C. Fownes and Walter B. Kirk, Ontwentsia, 12:36; Dr. D. P. Fredericks of Oil City and William F. Brown of Philadelphia Cricket club, 1 a. m.; W. C. Fownes, Jr., and J. B. Rahn, Omaha, 1:24; H. McSweeney, Oil City and A. Poole, Jr., Ontwentsia, 2:24.

Made a Great Showing.

Six out of fourteen were among the eligibles last season at Atlantic City after yesterday's play, so the iron City's advancement is well recorded by the probability of every entry continuing on in the match play for the high honor.

W. C. Carnegie of the Allegheny Country club led the Smoky City squad today with the strong medal score of 83 in on best ball foursome which John Reid, Jr., of St. Andrew's won from E. M. Byers of Allegheny and Stuart Stickney of St. Louis by 5 up in 18 holes. Reid and Carnegie were going as fast as any one during the day, as evidenced by Reid's 80 duplicating Champion Travis' score. Byers went in 84 and Stickney in 88. Reid's play was remarkable in view of nine strokes for the eight holes, his score of 37 for the last nine holes being the record so far. This foursome in which Pittsburgh has figured so prominently was one of the best contests of the day, attracting an interested gallery. Reid's and Carnegie's cards:

John Reid, Jr., St. Andrews:
Out ..... 5, 5, 5, 4, 4, 9, 4, 6, 3—45
In ..... 5, 2, 4, 5, 5, 6, 4, 4, 4—37—82

W. C. Carnegie, Allegheny Country club:
Out ..... 6, 4, 5, 4, 5, 5, 6, 4—41
In ..... 4, 3, 4, 7, 3, 5, 5, 4, 4—38—83

Equaled the Practice Record.

The best ball for Carnegie and Reid was 77, equal to the lowest record for the course, made by Walter Egan in practice yesterday. Travis, in making his 80 today, defeated J. C. Thorpe, the Massachusetts champion, 5 up. Travis has not been playing his best golf, his best score so far being 80, and there are many who expect some of the western youngsters who have been little heard of in eastern tournaments, to cause the "old man much trouble. The title-holder was weak on his puts and pulled his drives today and a similar game to the coming match play rounds would certainly invite defeat. The biggest blow which the tournament has suffered since the absence of Findlay S. Douglas from the entry list, owing to typhoid fever, has been the illness of William Holabird, Jr., who was the main dependence of the west, and was picked as Travis' most formidable opponent, this, his home course, being a strong factor. Holabird is threatened with typhoid. His temperature is 101, and there is hardly any possibility of his starting today.

Contentment reigns among the seven Pittsburghers and two Oil City golfers tonight by reason of scores ranging from 82 low and 88 high. A feature has been the playing of C. B. Fownes, who was defeated by Dr. D. P. Fredericks by only one hole in 20 today. His best has been 84 with 39, second only to Reid's record for the last nine holes.

Some Very Clever Records.

George Ormiston and Fredericks have made the best records, of 82; W. C. Fownes, Jr., returned an 85; H. McSweeney, 88, and C. D. Thompson, 86. J. E. Porter of Edgeworth and John Moorhead, Jr., of Allegheny are not attending. In a best ball foursome this morning W. C. Carnegie and C. D. Thompson finished all even against W. P. Smith of Philadelphia and Dr. L. L. Harlow of Washington. Best ball for fours, 70. Percy Paine of Princeton has been playing as brilliant golf as any one on the field with three 81s an 82 and an 83. Unless he lapses in form he is due to figure strongly. The lowest 64 medal scores for 18 holes qualify tomorrow against 82 for 36 holes out of 129 starters. There were 144 entered against 159 this year. The Glenview course is pronounced the best in the country by the Pittsburghers. Champion Travis says it is an ideal championship course, and only distanced by Garden City. The field this year is not quite so strong as last year's, though there are some westerners to be heard from.

PITTSBURGH MEN ON THE LINKS AT CHICAGO

Crack Players from This Section Expected to Make a Showing in National Championship Event.

This morning on the Glen View course at Chicago, Pittsburgh golfers will begin their second competition in a national championship event. In this they will meet the very best players of the country and will have the eyes of golfing enthusiasts the land over fixed on their efforts.

There are nine Western Pennsylvania golfers in a field of 154 entries, and if the showing made last season in their first attempt is any gauge the Smoky City swingers of the crooked stick will be heard from before the final match for the great honor is played on Saturday of this week.

Starting this morning there will be 36 holes of medal play, the 64 lowest gross scores to qualify instead of 32, as last year. Six local players qualified last year, a surprising proportion. Then, commencing tomorrow, 18-hole matches will be played, morning and afternoon of each day, until all are eliminated except the two players who will meet in the 36-hole final contest.

Champion Travis last year played Walter Egan of Chicago in the final, winning the honor. The Western Pennsylvania golfers entered, who should all qualify in such a large field as 64, are as follows: Amateur Champion E. M. Byers, John Moorhead, Jr., O. D. Thompson and W. C. Carnegie from the Allegheny Country club; W. C. Fownes, Jr., George A. Ormiston, H. C. Fownes and C. B. Fownes from Highland, and last but not least, Dr. D. P. Fredericks of Oil City, a remarkable golfer from the hilly regions of the oil derrick.

HERBERT'S "IDOL'S EYE" AT DUQUESNE GARDEN

This Merry Mixture of Music and Comedy Pleased a Large Audience Last Night.

One of the largest audiences of the summer season at the Duquesne Garden enjoyed the jingle nonsense of Victor Lerbert's opera, "The Idol's eye," at the garden last evening, and voted the management another conspicuous success in the beauty and color of the stage settings, which were in excellent keeping with the reputation already established in this respect.

The opera is doubtless best known as the medium for some of Frank Daniels' antics and it was to his abilities as a humorist that the composition owes much of its vogue, though both in music and libretto there is much that is pleasing.

The Duquesne Company hardly caught the vim and spirit of the piece last night that they may be expected to display when they settle down to the work later in the week. Mr. Drew's Abel Corn, the role played by Daniels, is a partially successful repetition of the Daniels success. Mr. Martin as McSnuffey, the "Hoot-Mon," of pleasant memory, is grotesque and emits a Scotch dialect that would make a Scotchman ravlo crazy. Mr. Piggott's Ned Winger is lively and gay, reproducing the young American who wanted to win Cuba with spirit. Mr. Persse's Tobasco was, from a comedy standpoint, better than anything he has so far done. Miss Mason's Damayanti and Miss Carrington's Maraquita were vocally and picturesquely delightful, while Miss Bishop sang the weird music of the "Priestess effectually.

"The Idol's Eye" is a summer night's amusement, even at its best, and the production of it at the Garden last night meets the requirements in this respect admirably, as the frequent applause of the audience fully testified. The choruses were excellent, the swinging effect of the fine march chorus at the conclusion of the first act being especially good.

Joe Bonnell, the monologue and comedy artist, though a stranger to Pittsburgh, made good in the Palm garden.

MINISTER WU MAY WAKE UP HIS COUNTRY

He Has Thoroughly Imbibed American Ideas of Progress.

HE HAS THREE AMBITIONS

China Needs Education, Railroads and Newspapers, He Says—First Thing to Be Done Is to Reform the Financial System.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU
603 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.

Minister Wu's return to China is regarded by statesmen in this country as one of the most important events that could happen for the celestial empire, and as likely to result in the greatest benefit to China. He has proven himself a diplomat of the highest order, and it is generally considered that his personal influence, which was only possible to one who had come into close contact with he people here and had gained their good will, was instrumental in accomplishing much for the benefit of China during the negotiations when the dismemberment of the empire seemed approaching.

For these reasons many people here believe that when the Chinese fully appreciate the work he has done for them he will have great influence in their councils. He will carry with him many ideas for the improvement of China.

"What I hope, above all else," said Minister Wu, when seen by The Gazette correspondent today, "is to see my country placed on a firm financial basis."

How Silver Hurts China.

He hopes to contribute toward this end. China is on a silver basis, and for 20 years her debts have been made more and more burdensome because these debts are in gold and the value of silver has been steadily going down. The placing of China on a firm financial basis will permit other reforms which Minister Wu hopes to take a part in bringing about.

"There are three important things for China," said the minister. "They are education, railroads and newspapers. I would like to see China improve in these things, because China has need of good men, and the way to get good men is to have good education. We ought to have more schools in China, and more young men studying in Europe and the United States. I should like to have schools in China as you have them in your country. We want high-class newspapers in China. That is another form of education."

Minister Wu intends to write two books, one on America, for publication here, and the other on his observations outside of China, for circulation in his native country. This latter work will be intended to spread Mr. Wu's ideas among the people of his own country. However, as he has before him at least two years' work in the codification of the sovereign laws, the minister did not know when he could start his books.

Change Not Immediate.

It is expected that Minister Wu will not leave Washington for some weeks. His successor, Liang Chen Tung, is now attached to the Chinese special embassy to the coronation of King Edward VII., headed by Prince Chun, a son of Prince Ching, who is the head of the Chinese board of foreign affairs and the embassy to attend the coronation ceremony in August. Then Minister Wu must have time in which to close his affairs in Washington.

Prince Chun is to return to China by way of the United States, and the officials of the Chinese legation are not prepared to say whether the new minister will take up his duties at the legation on his arrival in the United States or go to China with Prince Chun and return later to Washington.

Officials personally acquainted with the new minister describe him as a man of imposing stature and slightly inclined to stoutness. He speaks English with facility.

Maj.-Gen. Lloyd Wheaton closed his active military career today, having reached the statutory retiring age of 64 years. He is at his home in this country, where he recently arrived from the Philippines. The vacancy caused by his retirement already has been anticipated by the appointment of Brig.-Gen. John C. Bates, now commanding the department of the Missouri at Denver.

JOHN DALZELL WILL DO HIS FULL SHARE

PUTS HIMSELF UNDER QUAY'S ORDERS FOR CAMPAIGN.

When Released from the Stump in Pennsylvania He Is at Chairman Babcock's Service for Other States—He Starts for Europe.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
603 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.

Representative Dalzell, accompanied by his son Samuel, left tonight for New York and on Wednesday will sail for Europe. They will return on the steamer sailing from Liverpool on August 23, and on his return Mr. Dalzell will be subject to the orders of State Chairman Quay for the campaign in Pennsylvania and to Congressional Chairman Babcock for the campaign in other states.

In discussing tonight the coming campaign Mr. Dalzell said:

"All the indications are for a Republican victory all along the line. In Pennsylvania we will have an old-time victory. This year there are no factions in the state, so far as the state and national tickets are concerned.

"Pennsylvania Republicans wish a continuance of the good times and will be found working together to that end. I have placed myself at the disposition of Senator Quay and will make as many speeches in the state as he desires. In Judge Pennypacker we have an admirable candidate, and I look for a majority of about 200,000 for the state ticket. The legislature will be strongly Republican, and we will carry the 28 Republican congressional districts which were created by the last legislature, with a possibility of winning one or two more.

"The splendid condition of the party in the state has had its effect on neighboring states with the result that Republicans are certain to control the next congress. I have promised Chairman Babcock of the congressional committee to make a number of speeches in other states as soon as I am relieved in Pennsylvania, and expect to speak in Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and, possibly, Kansas."

Before leaving Mr. Dalzell recommended the appointment of Albert Long of Pittsburgh as a midshipman at the Annapolis naval academy, with Harry Campbell of Oakmont as first alternate and Ralph J. Mills of Braddock as second alternate.

CHARLES W. METZGAR.

MIMICRY OF REAL WAR.

Navy to Attack New York City and the Army to Defend—Judges to Decide the Victory.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—Plans are materializing for the naval movements which will precede the joint army and naval maneuvers this autumn. The arrangements have been placed entirely in the hands of Rear Admiral Higginson, commanding the North Atlantic station.

An interesting part of the work will be that assigned to the "umpires." Officers will be assigned to each of the ships in the naval maneuvers and to both ships and fortifications in the joint exercises, to act as judges, and it is understood that the final decision in the greater maneuvers as to whether the army or the navy has been victorious will be rendered by a board of high ranking officers from both branches of the service, probably headed by Admiral Dewey.

The entire scheme of the exercises is to be based on probability. For instance, a battleship steams up past one of the Staten island forts in the dead of night. A searchlight flashes out into the blackness from the fort, finds her, and the gunners ashore train their big weapons to blow her out of the water. Did the searchlight find her in time to have prevented deadly work had it been real war? Were the guns in the fort trained on her with the requisite precision, or can she be considered as having run the gauntlet and as flying up the bay to shell the metropolis?

The plans for the joint maneuvers are lagging a little, owing to the fact that Gen. Brooke will turn over the command of the department of the east in a few weeks to Gen. MacArthur, and not until the latter takes hold of the arrangements for the army's participation in the maneuvers are the plans expected to take definite shape.

PARTY HEADQUARTERS

They Will be Opened in Philadelphia Early in August by Col. Wesley R. Andrews.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—(Special.)—Col. Wesley R. Andrews, secretary of the Pennsylvania Republican committee, will leave here the latter part of the week for Meadville and other points to secure some needed rest. The latter part of the first week in August Col. Andrews will go to Philadelphia, open state committee headquarters and arrange the preliminary work prior to the arrival of State Chairman Quay in September, when the campaign will be formally opened.

Col. Andrews has the widest acquaintance of any man of the Republican workers of the state. He was strongly urged to take the nomination for congress this year in the Erie-Crawford district by the leaders of both counties and was assured of the nomination without much trouble; but he declined to enter the contest, as Senator Penrose required his services in his contest for re-election. It is now believed that Mr. Andrews will be nominated from the Erie-Crawford district in 1904 and elected by a rousing majority.

NO SNAKES FOR HAWAII.

Gen. Corbin Allays Islanders' Fear by a Cabled Order.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—Among the published orders of the division of the Philippines is one which contains a cable dispatch showing that the protests of the people of Hawaii against the importation of snakes into those islands from the Philippines was successful. The message, which is signed by Adjt.-Gen. Corbin, says:

"Prohibit shipment on transports of animals and snakes to the United States and Hawaii."

AFTER OBSTRUCTIONISTS.

Contractors Before Commissioner Gamble to Answer a Lockmaster's Charges.

W. Lawrence Lauler and Patricio Patryall, railroad contractors, who are working on a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad extension near Millsboro, Fayette county, were held for court by United States Commissioner H. D. Gamble yesterday on a charge of obstructing the river. The charge is made by James A. Evarts of lock No. 5, who alleges that the men make a practice of dumping refuse and tree stumps into the Monongahela river.

Lauler, Patryail and John Terry were arrested last week on the same charge, but when called for a hearing their release was obtained by reason of a defective indictment.

Chancellor of Exchequer Has Presented His Resignation.

BALFOUR MAKES ADDRESS

New Premier Says He Has No Secrets or Surprises and Pays a Tribute to Salisbury — Chamberlain Promises Support for the Chief.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, July 14.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has resigned as chancellor of the exchequer. Perhaps never has a change of premierships been effected with so little dislocation of business, public or private, as accompanied the transfer of the seals of office from Lord Salisbury to A. J. Balfour. The occurrence had no effect whatever on the stock exchange.

The only other change in the cabinet thus far announced is the chancellorship of the exchequer, though others are foreshadowed. Mr. Balfour, in addressing the first meeting of his followers at the foreign office this afternoon, informed them that he could not count on the continued assistance of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, but he could count on the latter's good wishes.

The public showed little interest in the party meeting. The new premier, when he entered the conference room of the foreign office, accompanied by the duke of Devonshire, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Lord Londonderry and others, received quite an ovation. Mr. Balfour referred to the loss of the services of the chief, who for nearly 50 years had been engaged in active political life.

Has No Secrets.

"I do not flatter myself," proceeded the premier, "that the gap he has left can be filled. But the place he has left must be occupied, and it is because the king has desired me to do my best to take that position, that I have asked you to meet me today. I have accepted a great task and a heavy responsibility, certainly from no overweening belief in my own capacity, but because I am sure, or at least have every reason to believe that in attempting to carry on this work I will have the most important qualification a leader can have, namely the regard for and confidence in those with whom he works.

"For myself, I have nothing to say. To all the members, or at all events, to the members of the house of commons, who are listening to me, I have no secrets and no surprises. You have known me so well and so long that even were I disposed to dwell on this thing there is nothing I could say which could or ought to alter the judgment already long ago formed.

"But if I have nothing of a personal nature to say, neither have I any pronouncement to make. Changes there must be, consequent on the great change which we have met here to deplore. But this is not the occasion on which either to discuss them or even think of them.

No Change in Policy.

"As for the question of policy, I need hardly tell you that the policy of the Unionist party remains now what it has always been. We have lost the services of a brilliant advocate of our cause. We have lost a man around whom the sentiments and emotions of the party have for many years crystallized. Nevertheless, I feel we would do wrong to despair, do wrong to have even the faintest misgiving in regard to the future of the cause he has so long and so well upheld. If we preserve the unity in the future which has never been wanting in our ranks in the past, the inherent vitality of our cause will make up for any weakness in the arms which have to sustain it."

After a warm tribute to Lord Salisbury by the duke of Devonshire Sir Michael Hicks-Beach rose and said there was no one whom he would have more gladly and more readily have accepted as leader of the party than the man he had followed as leader for more than seven years. But Lord Salisbury's retirement was a break with the traditions of his past political life. Two years ago he had begged for personal and not for political reasons to be relieved from office; but he had consented at Lord Salisbury's instance to retain it to the end of the war. He now felt that the moment had come when such poor services as he could render could no longer be necessary to the country.

Chamberlain Proffers Support.

There were younger men who would do the work at least as well as he had been able to do it. He had, therefore, told Mr. Balfour that it was his strong desire to take the present opportunity of retiring from the office he had so long the honor to hold.

J. Austen Chamberlain, financial secretary to the treasury, said his father wished him to say how greatly disappointed he was at the fact that he could not be present to welcome Mr. Balfour to the leadership and say with what pride and pleasure he would give all the assistance in his power. Turning toward Mr. Balfour the speaker continued:

"My father bids me to say to you, Mr. Balfour, that you will find in him a colleague equally attached to you by private friendship and public regard, and that in offering you his support he feels he may speak also in the name of the whole Liberal Unionist party of the house of commons."

The resignation of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach caused intense surprise. It was generally taken to be almost more important than Lord Salisbury's, and was regarded in some quarters as being directly due to the more important voice which Mr. Chamberlain will have in the new cabinet.

Speculation is already rife as to who will be Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's successor. The name of R. W. Hanbury, president of the board of agriculture, is frequently mentioned.

Informally announcing Lord Salisbury's resignation in the house of lords today the duke of Devonshire added that his lordship had also retired from the government leadership in the house of peers, and desired that he, the duke of Devonshire, should take up that position.

CALL FROM SOUSA FOR PITTSBURGH COMPOSERS

He Will Devote One of His Concert Nights at the Exposition to Local Artists.

"Pittsburgh composers'" night at the Pittsburgh Exposition, which opens on September 3, promises to become much more of an event this year than it was last. In a letter just received from Atlantic City, Sousa requests that those Pittsburgh composers desiring a place on the program hand in their manuscripts at the earliest possible moment, so that they may be sent to him and given proper rehearsal during his stay at Atlantic City. Manuscripts are to be left at the Exposition office in charge of Manager T. J. Fitzpatrick, who will see that they are duly forwarded.

Local composers can well afford their very best for this occasion, as Sousa, during his coming European tour, intends to play a large number of works composed by Americans, among which should be some from the Smoky City. Compositions already selected for presentation abroad are the "Moorish Dances," by Dr. Paine of Harvard; "Bohemian Overture," by Henry Hadley of New York; "Indian Suite," by McDowell of Boston; a suite by Arthur Foote, and the "A. C. Dedication March," by Ad. M. Foerster of Pittsburgh.

Several manufacturers of influence are carefully looking over the ground in Mechanical hall with a view of making exhibits there that shall attract because of their novelty. They realize that nothing so rivets the attention as machinery in operation or busy hands shaping and forming some article for general use. The newest brick-making machine already is assured, likewise the latest appliances in the electrical field, including the wonderful X-ray apparatus.

TIN MILL PROPOSITIONS.

Report That a Wage Reduction Is Contemplated Is Denied by Both Sides.

Propositions that are going to the tin mill lodges of the American Tin Plate Company, to drop certain of the detail clauses of the wage scale proposed by the Amalgamated Association at its last convention in Wheeling, have led to a report that the proposition is to make reductions in the wage. The old base wage was reaffirmed for a year prior to the Wheeling convention.

Officials of both the American Tin Plate Company and the Amalgamated Association yesterday denied the report of a proposed reduction. The tin mills are running light now, some being closed for repairs, and it is said that the productive capacity is ahead of the requirements of the domestic market.

The recent conference in New York, to arrange the detail scale, failed to close it and settlement will go over till after the lodges have voted on withdrawal of the propositions which the tin plate company cannot meet.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

Distressing Accident on the Allegheny Hillside Yesterday—Two Houses Were Destroyed.

Minnie Eckert, 10 years of age, daughter of Joseph Eckert of the Geyer road, Allegheny, left at home by her mother yesterday morning, must have used oil on the fire, because she was all in flames when she ran from the house about 11 o'clock. She died soon after, at the home of an aunt, not far away, where she was taken by the man who caught her.

Because of the situation of the house, on the side of the hill, it was almost destroyed before the firemen got there, as was also the house of Henry Beyer, next door, and the house of Charles Voight, which adjoined the Beyer house. The loss is about $5,000, one-half of which is covered by insurance.

IT ENTERS FIRST RANK AMONG THE GAS PRODUCERS

Manufacturers Light & Heat Company Has Absorbed Several Independents.

CAPITAL OF $7,180,000

Manufacturers Company Yesterday Voted Control in the Tri-State and Wetzel Gas Companies—The Part of H. B. Beatty.

A deal was completed yesterday whereby the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company becomes the controlling interest in the Tri-State Gas Company and the Wetzel Gas Company. The Tri-State company is capitalized at $1,500,000 and has a funded debt of $246,000. The Wetzel company has a capital stock issue of $300,000. The control of these has been purchased by the Manufacturers' company, which now has an aggregate capital issue of $7,180,000.

Through this deal there remain few independent interests in gas production in

H. B. BEATTY,
Who Has Been Made President of Nine Gas Companies and Vice General Manager of the Manufacturers' Light & Heat Co. and Has Thereby Become One of the Most Prominent Gas Men in the Country.

Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio. The manufacturers takes rank with the Philadelphia Company and the new Union Natural Gas Company, recently chartered in Delaware for a stock issue of $6,000,000 and bonds of $2,000,000 to consolidate six interests in Western Pennsylvania and Ohio. The other gas concerns of importance centered in Pittsburgh are the Ft. Pitt Natural Gas Company and the People's Natural Gas Company.

A meeting was held yesterday at the office of the Tri-State and the Wetzel companies in the Tradesmen's building, which voted the new control of the Manufacturers' Company.

Changes in Concerns Controlled.

H. B. Beatty, vice-president and general manager of the Manufacturers' Company, was elected president and general manager of the Tri-State and the Wetzel companies, to succeed S. W. Crawford, who has been president, and F. M. Lowry, who has been general manager and vice-president.

Daniel Iseman of Washington, Pa., and George W. Crawford of Pittsburgh have been added to the directorate of the Manufacturers' Company to represent the Tri-State interests, and the other members of the directorate are S. Y. Ramage of Oil City, president; H. B. Beatty of Pittsburgh, vice-president and general manager; L. A. Mevran of Pittsburgh, second vice-president; E. H. Myers of Pittsburgh, treasurer; F. N. Chambers, O. H. Strong, E. V. D. Selden, H. I. Beers and H. M. Nichols of Oil City.

By its newest acquisitions, absolutely or to the extent of control, the Manufacturers' Company becomes one of the most extensive oil and gas producers. It owns or controls oil and gas wells, 1,034 miles of pipe lines and 116,436 acres of land, held under lease for oil and gas purposes.

The Interests Combined.

The concerns merged are the Manufacturers' Light & Heat Company, capital $3,000,000 and with something less than $600,000 in bonds; Tri-State Gas Company, operating in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, capital $1,500,000, and funded debt $246,000; Relief Gas Company, operating in Pennsylvania, capital $100,000; Wetzel Gas Company, operating in Ohio and West Virginia, capital $300,000; Canonsburg Gas Company, operating in Pennsylvania, capital $120,000; Mutual Benefit Gas Company, operating in Pennsylvania, capital $200,000; Waynesburg Gas Company, operating in Pennsylvania, capital $100,000; Citizens' Gas Company, operating in Pennsylvania, capital $50,000; Blacksville Oil & Gas Company, operating in Pennsylvania, capital $10,000.

The capitalization of some of these underlying companies has been only nominal. H. B. Beatty is now president of all and also of the Central Gas Company of Woodsfield, O., in which the Manufacturers' Company is not interested. L. B. Beatty is secretary of the underlying companies. The Waynesburg, Citizens' and Blacksville companies were taken over some months ago and the Canonsburg Company about a year ago.

Gas Supply for 50 Years.

Through its acquisition experts estimate that the Manufacturers' Company has in sight gas to supply its present trade for at least 50 years. This does not contemplate undeveloped holdings in West Virginia. The new organization of the Manufacturers' Company is one of special interest in that it grew out of the Manufacturers' Natural Gas Company, which was operated with $600,000 capital when the management was taken up by H. B. Beatty.

Mr. Beatty has followed an idea which he originated in 1879, from what was known as the Burning well in Slippery Rock, Butler county, Pa. At that time Mr. Beatty tried to interest part of the present board of directors of the Manufacturers' Company in a company to pipe the gas to New Castle for fuel purposes. At that time, although gas was in use from the oil wells in the field, no lines were laid for the exclusive transportation of gas, the time not being ripe for gas as fuel. He removed to Bradford, Pa., and in 1884 became a member of the Bradford Oil Exchange and an oil producer in Warren county.

Mr. Beatty in Another Field.

He returned to Oil City in 1887 and in company with O. H. Strong he formed the Oakwood Farm & Garden Company, Limited, the largest establishment in this country for growing roses under glass.

Still recognizing the adaptability of gas for fuel Mr. Beatty became interested in the Manufactures' Natural Gas Company and recognizing the great possibilities of the field, he removed to Pittsburgh and assumed personal control of the company, with the result that from the idea springing from the sight of a burning gas well he has not only fulfilled his dream of piping the gas for fuel to one small town, but by his election to the office of president of the Tri-State Gas Company he is given the presidency of nine gas companies in addition to his position of first vice-president in charge of the Manufacturers' Company, giving him control of not only an unlimited amount of gas, but a large oil production in sands which are proven stayers.

FARMERS JUMP AT BIG PRICES MADE FOR CORN

Heavy Shipments Cause a Flurry in That Pit and Bears Have Inning.

OTHER GRAINS FOLLOW

Lower Liverpool Cables and Large Visible Supply Have Depressing Influence on Wheat—Oats Setback on Free Offerings—Provisions Quiet.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, July 14.—Heavy movement in corn held the attention of grain speculators today and brought slumps all around. July corn continued its display of pyrotechnics of last week, although it looked like the falling stick instead of rocket flight. Everything on change was bearish, but in the general decline the thudding drop of 5½c in July corn was most important and caused talk of an end of the corner. Closing losses were 5c for July corn, ¾@¾c for September corn, ¾c for September wheat and 1⅛@1¼c for September oats. Provisions closed 2½c lower to 7½c higher.

It was a big drop in July corn and the bulls tried to give special reasons for the decline. Probably the true cause was that corn in generous supply is moving toward Chicago at a rapid rate. Ever since the talk of a corner in July options elevators and cash handlers have been busy making contract-grade corn with their utmost energy. Today the bulls had to face receipts of 472 cars, 119 of which were contract grade. In addition to this private elevators moved out 270 cars and 119,000 bushels, a total of over 500,000 of contract stuff.

All Had Corn to Sell.

The fair weather in the last few days was just the sort to help in grading and with the reported estimates of 350 cars for tomorrow, which would probably be augmented to over 1,000 cars, the crowd, led by the elevator people, sold to a man. September was weak on the general rush of corn to market and opening a shade to ½@⅝c lower than Saturday at 61⅝c to 61¼c declined, though gradually, and closed weak ⅝@⅞c lower at 61c. July rallied a little from its bottom price, but closed very weak, with a loss of 5c at 81c.

Wheat ruled weak after a momentary firmness at the opening on prospects of rains. Cables were lower in Liverpool, Paris was closed and receipts showed a heavy percentage of new wheat. The visible supply increased 686,000 bushels, against a decrease of nearly 2,000,000 bushels last year. These influences, together with those attendant upon the corn break, offset a few showers in several western states.

Too Much Wheat in Sight.

The crowd began selling freely and September wheat, which opened a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher at 73¼c to 73¼c, declined steadily as the session advanced. Primary receipts were fairly large at 986,000 bushels, against 1,370,000 bushels last year. Local receipts were 93 cars, six of contract grade and 85 of new stuff. Minneapolis and Duluth received 534 cars, making a total for three points of 627 cars, against 1,056 cars last week and 644 a year ago. The estimate of 350 cars for tomorrow was received bearishly.

Oats had something of a setback today as a result of free offerings by farmers of the new oats in order to take advantage of high prices.

Favorable weather over Sunday and a general improvement in crop prospects precipitated selling. September sold off over 1c, selling as high as 33⅛c at the opening and closing weak 1⅛@1¼c down at 32⅝c. Receipts were 87 cars.

Provisions were rather quiet, but held up well in the face of a weak hog market. The outside bought early, but both pork and ribs lost most of their advances. September pork closed 2½c lower at $18 67½; September lard, 7½c up at $11 42½, after touching $11 45, and September ribs a shade higher at $10 85@10 87½. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 350 cars; corn, 345 cars; oats, 175 cars; hogs, 20,000 head.

NO TROUBLE TO GET RAILS FOR NEXT YEAR

Pool Members Dispose of Fears Expressed by Certain Western Railroads.

NO INFLATION OF PRICE

Opposition Developing in Southern Railroad to Taking Louisville & Nashville at the Option Price. Distiller Restrained.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, July 14.—Officials of the companies embraced in the steel rail pool today repudiated the statement credited to western railroad managers that great difficulty is being experienced in placing new orders for steel rails for delivery in 1903. An official of one of the largest steel rail companies said that any railroad that desires steel rails for delivery for next year can have them at the pool's price of $28 a ton.

"The amount of business already accepted by the steel rail plants for delivery in 1903," said he, "amounts to something like 750,000 tons. The production next year will amount to about 2,000,000 tons. From this it is evident that the claim that railroad managers are finding great difficulty in placing new orders for 1903, and that much contemplated extension work will have to be postponed, is absurd."

A representative of the United States Steel Corporation said: "Judging from the orders already placed, consumption of steel rails next year will exceed the capacity of the mills. However, railroads are not experiencing any difficulty in the matter of contracts for next year. I am informed that a number of the mills have refused to consider contracts calling for delivery in the first quarter of 1903, but this is due to the fact that they have oversold their capacity. That is, they will be compelled to carry considerable business over into next year."

Opposition to L. & N. Deal.

During the past few weeks considerable opposition has arisen in a quiet way among the stockholders of the Southern railway to the possibility of that company being forced to take over the holdings of Louisville & Nashville now held by J. P. Morgan & Co. It will be remembered that this firm now has an option on the controlling interest in Louisville & Nashville, the option including the holdings of John W. Gates and his associates. It is understood that this option is at $150 a share, and it has been the belief in financial circles that J. P. Morgan & Co. eventually will turn over their controlling interest at that price to the Southern railway. It now appears that some of the largest shareholding interests in the Southern railway are opposed to the purchase of Louisville & Nashville at a price anything like $150 a share and will oppose the deal.

They take the ground that the Southern railway is in no position to incur any additional obligations and that $150 a share is more than the stock of Louisville & Nashville is worth.

Distiller Woosley Restrained.

A supplementary order has been handed down by Judge Lacombe of the United States circuit court in the suit of the Standard Distilling & Distributing Company against George L. Woosley, the Hammond Distilling Company and the Manhattan Trust Company. Woosley was restrained for a year, or until the further order of the court, from engaging in the distilling business within 1,200 miles of Chicago. The order also directs that Woosley call a meeting of the Hammond Distilling Company at the earliest possible date to resign as president and director of the company; that he dispose of his stock in the Hammond company as soon as possible, and that he refrain from voting on the stock, either as officer or director, in the meantime. The Manhattan Trust Company is restrained from turning over the stock of the Standard Distilling & Distributing Company deposited by Woosley to that defendant.

Shipbuilding Combine's Earnings.

It is estimated that the earnings of the American Shipbuilding Company for the year ended June 30 are $1,520,000, after allowing for dividends and charging off a liberal amount for depreciation. The earnings are said to be equal to about 20 per cent on the common stock and the total surplus of the company is estimated at $3,262,000, or about 42 per cent on the common stock issued.

NEWS FROM THE MINES

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 14.—The lawsuit brought by the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Company against the Empire State Idaho Company at Spokane is to quiet title to the ownership of part of the big vein. Ore worth from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000 is at stake in the fight, which is the most important that has occurred in the tangle over the ownership of the great silver-lead lode of the Coeur D'Alenes. It affects the ownership of claims along the full length of the ledge, and its merits have puzzled some of the most prominent mining engineers in the country.

The Black Swan mill, near Salina, Col., is reported working satisfactorily. The concentrates run from $20 to $200 a ton, according to the grade of ore from the shafts.

Leasers on the Janet Wise, on Beacon Hill, Cripple Creek, are finding rock assaying up to $7,000 to the ton.

In tunnel No. 2 on the Little Monitor, near Pikin, Col., a 3½-foot vein has been encountered, two foot of which runs 200 ounces silver and $2 gold. The shaft of the Little Charley, on Marble Mountain, is down 40 feet, showing six inches of ore, yielding from $30 to $40 in silver, lead and gold.

Advices from Silver City, N. M., say that a great deal of work is being done at Shakespeare and adjacent companies, but that no large bodies of ore have been struck thus far. Operating companies have decided that piecework does not pay in the district and are turning their attention to deep mining.

Assays from a 4-foot vein in the Keystone, Gold Mountain district, Utah, returned $30 80 gold and four ounces silver.

The winze in the Josephine, at Rimini, Mont., is down 50 feet and shows two feet of high-grade ore. Shipments will be a considerable quantity is high grade, full of native silver which runs upwards of 500 or 600 ounces a ton.

A quartz vein showing at least 45 per cent. pure gold has been uncovered by Charles Collins and George Brantury of Granite pass, Ore., in the Pickett creek district. The vein is 12 inches wide and lies between two well defined walls of serpentine. It was found at a depth of 12 feet.

The Aberdeen Company has encountered a new ledge of free gold on its property near Hill City, S. D., at a depth of 35 feet. Some fine specimens have been taken out.

A good strike is reported in the Little Monster, three miles east of Marcus, Wash. The ledge at the point of contact with the lime runs $10 gold, 286 ounces silver and 9 per cent. lead.

The Metal Market.

Metal markets today reported a dull business and, in tin and copper, more or less weakness and declines. London tin in the absence of demand fell off 10s, making the final spot prices £127 and future £125. The local price, in sympathy, declined about 25 points and ruled easy, with spot quoted at 28 30@28 90. Affected by a dull interest, London copper sagged 10s lower before the close of the day, spot standing at £52 12s 6d and futures at £52 17s 6d. Local prices kept about ¼c all around. Standard spot is from $11 50@11 70; Lak $11 87½@12 12½; electrolytic $11 87½@12 00 and casting $11 75@11 95. Lead was unchanged here at 4¼c and abroad £11 6s and £11 8s 9d. There was fair activity in the spelter market and a firm tone in consequence, though no improvement in price, which remained at 5¼c. At London market advanced 2s 1d to £22 5s. Iron was dull and steady in the local market. Warrants were not quoted. No. 1 foundry Northern, $22 00@23 00; No. 2 foundry Northern, $21 00@22 00; No. 1 foundry Southern, $21 50@22 50; No. 2 foundry Southern, soft, $21 50@22 50. Foreign markets were also dull and a shade lower, Glasgow closing at 55s 8d and Middleboro at 50s 3d.

Grangers Take the Lead in Wall Street

MANIPULATORS PUSHING ST. PAUL TOWARD FRONT

Other Western Stocks Are Dragged in Atchison Being a Good Trailer.

SALES IN LARGE BLOCKS

An Effort to Advance Readings Brings Little Success—Some Weak Spots Are Found Among the Industrials. Bonds Are Irregular.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, July 14.—The speculative operators in favor of higher prices for stocks took hold of the market with renewed vigor today, centering their campaign in St. Paul. That stock has always been peculiarly effective as a leader, owing to its representative character amongst the western trunk lines, and to the large floating supply in the market. Its notable rise today therefore had some sympathetic effect on stocks of its own class. The mass of securities, however, remained singularly unresponsive to the aggressive strength of St. Paul and even sagged in spots from torpid demand. In the early market the effect of the St. Paul movement was interfered with by the obvious profit taking going on in Missouri Pacific and the suspicion thus aroused that the St. Paul manipulation was expressly designed to facilitate this profit taking.

There were also weak spots amongst the industrials. The decline from Saturday's level reached a point in Missouri Pacific, Sugar and Amalgamated.

Atchison a Good Trailer.

Atchison responded early to the St. Paul rise and followed it closely throughout the day, but it was not until late that Union Pacific, and still later when Southern Pacific came into the movement. The St. Louis Southwestern stocks and Illinois Central were also conspicuous. A reference to the day's sales list will show that the stocks above specified made up the principal portion of the day's market. As each stock was successively brought forward into the movement the buying took on large proportions. Blocks of from 1,000 to 6,000 shares were dealt in freely in all of the active issues. The weak stocks generally recovered and closed unchanged or at slight losses. An effort was made to advance the Readings, but it was not pursued. Much was made in connection with the advance of hopeful talk of crop prospects, and no account was taken of the signs of strength in the grain markets based on reports of more unwelcome rains in the southwest. The grain markets are not considered a reliable barometer of actual crop conditions, owing to the disturbance of abnormal conditions by speculation.

Is Too Much Juggling.

It must be considered also that the speculative mind is much confused in following the statistical rectification in the government's crop acreage figures in the attempt to conform the agricultural departments figured to the census returns. The favorable bank statement on Saturday was urged as an evidence of easing conditions of the money market, but money rates were not appreciably easier here today, and foreign exchange advanced a fraction again. There was a deposit of $100,000 at the sub-treasury for telegraphic transfer to New Orleans, and New York exchange at Chicago remained at 25 cents discount. The market closed rather irregular, but with the grangers at the top level.

The bond market was more irregular even than stocks and was without conspicuous feature. Total sales, par value, $4,247,000. United States refunding 2s declined ⅛ and the 3s and old and new 4s ¼ per cent on call today.

The Local Market, While Still Very Dull Was Somewhat Broader and Showed an Increase in Sales

REAL ESTATE TRUST CO. WAS ADVANCED $14

The Stock Was Marked Up on Ill-Founded Reports of a New Combine.

WINDOW GLASS DECLINED

The Steel Shares Were Dull and Narrow—Pittsburgh Coal Common Fairly Active—Fire Proofing Preferred Was Lower—Bonds Quiet.

The market on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday, while still very dull and unimportant in details, was somewhat broader, firmer and more active than for several days past. The features, however, were few and without much significance. Most prominent among these was Real Esate Trust Company stock, which sold 175 shares at $294, an advance for the day of $4 a share over the last previous selling price, and of $5 over the last previous offer. The advance and activity was doubtless due to the published report that the company was to absorb the old banking firm of N. Holmes & Sons and erect a sky-scraping office structure at Fourth avenue and Wood street. The report was ill-founded and met with prompt denial by the president of the trust company, and an almost indignant one by the banking firm. There is no exact way of telling how such reports are originated, or for what purpose. A surmise is that they are frequently started as a stock-jobbing scheme on the expectation that money may be realized in the market before the public becomes convinced that nothing is being done along the lines rumored. To a firm like N. Holmes & Sons such a report must be very annoying, to say the least, for its members are but men young, or in the prime of life with the best parts of their business careers before them—and, with the well-known success of their house, it is not likely they are ready to retire or sell out. If they did, their friends and patrons argue, where would they find a better investment for their money than in a house so long and splendidly established. It has been fashionable of late months to originate all kinds of reports concerning local financial institutions, and some of the combinations gotten up in various minds, have been so ridiculous as to have been positively absurd. This latter one which has been going the rounds for 10 days or more, is placed in the last class.

In the industrial group the principle activity was in American Window Glass common, which sold 610 shares, but lost ⅝ by closing only steady at 62¼. The preferred did not find a quotation, while the other glass stocks were neglected. Pittsburgh Coal common had three trades with an aggregate of 625 shares, but closed dull and almost heavy at 25¼, a loss of ⅜. The preferred was very quiet, but steady, and a fraction higher at at 89⅞ exdividend. River coal common was without sales, while the preferred was dull and unchanged at 39¾. The steel issues were also very quiet and without important change in prices. National Fire Proofing preferred was weak and ¼ lower at 39¾, sales and asked. The common did not sell. Electric seconds were unchanged in price and almost ignored in the sales. Brewing issues were firm, but quiet. Marsden common had a sale of 200 shares at 3¾, a gain of ⅛, while Philadelphia Company preferred sold 30 shares at 49, a gain of $1. The price was ½ higher than that bid for the common, which is the first time such a thing has happened in months. A small lot of Standard Underground Cable sold at 215, $25 below the last previous selling price. In the remainder of the list there was nothing of importance. Bonds were very dull and unchanged.

In reply, your attention is called to this clause in the letter of Collector Treat, to which you refer: 'Any certificates of stocks presented for transfer when such transfer is dated prior to July 1, 1902, will not be subject to further tax if the party shows that he became the owner of the stock after June 20, 1898.' Because Robert E. Lee of Beadling station is alleged to have broken up Edward Williams' home and threatened to kill him if he ever saw him again, he was held in jail by Alderman John Downey yesterday to answer half a dozen charges.

As he left he says that Lee hit him over the head with a beer bottle, cutting him badly.

Williams did not return to his home until Sunday, when Lee chased him out of town and scared him so badly that he slept in the woods. This Company has bought, paid for and now owns in fee simple, free from debt and with perfect title

86,666 Acres of the Best Land in Cuba

LOCATION.
The Company has exercised great care in selecting this land and investigating titles, and secured what is considered the most desirable location on the Island. This vast tract is located on the beautiful Cochinos Bay, having 15 miles of water front. Cochinos Bay is navigable for ocean vessels, and as our plans develop the products can be shipped direct from our own docks to all parts of the world.

DESCRIPTION.
About 20,000 acres of this Land is already CLEARED, and READY FOR CULTIVATION, and the balance, over 60,000 acres, is covered with VALUABLE TIMBER, consisting of MAHOGANY, EBONY, SPANISH CEDAR, SATIN WOOD, etc., etc. The SOIL on the ENTIRE TRACT is DEEP and ranks EQUAL to any in CUBA, which means that there is NO RICHER SOIL ON ANY PART OF THE EARTH!

Are You Interested?
If you are entirely satisfied with your present condition and income then you are NOT interested.
BUT If you are AMBITIOUS,
If you WANT TO IMPROVE YOUR CONDITION,
If you want to INCREASE YOUR INCOME,
If you want ABSOLUTE FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE,
In fact, if you WANT TO MAKE MONEY EASILY, QUICKLY and PERMANENTLY,
THEN YOU ARE INTERESTED IN OUR PROPOSITION.
VERY FEW AMERICANS have any idea of the immense Wealth of Soil and Climate of Cuba. Most people think it very hot and unhealthy. The fact is EXCESSIVE HEAT and FROST ARE UNKNOWN, never above 99, and never below 40, and since Americans "cleaned up" Havana THERE IS NO HEALTHIER REGION ON THE GLOBE.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT YOU CAN DO IN CUBA!
You can raise a bountiful crop of any kind of vegetables in three months, and THREE CROPS A YEAR.
You can raise and market strawberries and other small fruit ANY MONTH IN THE YEAR.
You can make a profit of $200 to $400 PER ACRE EACH YEAR raising pineapples and other fruit, and at the same time and on the same land you can plant an orange grove THAT IN FIVE YEARS WILL YIELD A PROFIT OF FROM $400 TO $1,000 PER ACRE EACH YEAR for generations.
You can produce more and make more money with less effort than in any other part of the world.

Keystone Realty Co. Buys Plot Near Morningside for Home Sites.

RAILROAD DEAL OF $40,000

Two Belmar Place Houses Sold—Good Sale in Wylie Avenue—Pittsburgh Maintains Fourth Place in Building Operations.

The Keystone Realty Company has purchased from James McKee 13.86 acres in the Eighteenth ward for about $56,000. The property is a rectangular-shaped plot, having a frontage of 311.5 feet in Stanton avenue and 1,900 feet each in McKee and Hawthorne streets. It is situated nearly across Stanton avenue from the Schenley mission and extends back nearly to the Morningside boundary. Since the company's organization, April 1, it has been seeking a plot of land inside the city limits that would make a desirable lot plan and found this the only one available for its purpose. The two side streets, McKee and Hawthorne, have never been dedicated and will be closed and a wide street made through the middle of the plan. This will make the side lots 130 feet deep and they will have a frontage of 30 feet.

The Stanton avenue frontage will be divided into 40-foot lots, with a depth of 150 feet. Stanton avenue is already paved and the other street is to be graded and sidewalks laid at once. As soon as sewer and water connections can be arranged the company will begin the erection of 19 colonial brick houses of 10 rooms each which will cost $40,000. All the lots will be sold with building restrictions, which with the prospect of a street car line being extended soon along Stanton avenue from Negley avenue to Butler street will make the property very desirable for residence purposes.

P., V. & C. R. R. Buys a Brick Yard.

The Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad has bought the Lanz brick yard on the South Side for $40,000. Title to the property was secured from Charles, Andrew and William Lanz. The property is in three parcels, measuring 84.5x276.5 feet, 85x19 feet and 90x287 feet, and is situated in the south side of Thirty-fourth street, extending back nearly to the hillside. Part of it lies in the Twenty-fourth and part in the Twenty-seventh ward. The railroad will use the ground for additional track room.

George T. McDonald has sold for C. A. Riffle two of the latter's new houses in Belmar Place for $12,600. The houses occupy adjoining lots, 25x83 feet each, in the south side of Hermitage street, between Homewood avenue and Sterrett street. No. 7232 Hermitage street was bought by J. R. Stickler and No. 7214 by E. D. Howells. The houses are colonial brick containing 10 rooms each and will be occupied as homes by the purchasers.

Good House Sales.

Charles G. Mitchell has sold to Wesley D. Wakefield two brick houses on lots 20x100 feet in the west side of Heberton street, near Stanton avenue, for $17,000. One lot measures 20x100 feet and the other 25x100 feet.

Through the agency of J. W. Sherrer, William McFarland sold to Ira D. Smith an improved property, 60x95 feet, in the north side of Station street, at the corner of Princeton place, for $12,000.

The new Farmers Deposit National bank is beginning to assume its skyscraper proportions. The steel frame is now up to the third story and the work its progressing rapidly. Probably no building has ever been constructed in Pittsburgh under more unfavorable conditions, the scarcity of room and the crush of traffic making it necessary to do as much of the heavy hauling as possible at night and to exercise the utmost caution to prevent accidents. Hundreds of persons every day stop to view the work and with the instinct of curiosity seekers get as close to danger as they can. Thus far there has been no serious accident of any kind, and the contractors are doing their best to avoid a list of fatalities such as attended the erection of the Frick building last year.

Deal on Wylie Avenue.

George Schmidt & Son sold for Robert Lewin, committee for William Bigge, to Harry and Joseph Lichtenstein an improved property, 24x100 feet, in Wylie avenue, near Townsend street, Eighth ward, for $12,925.

In spite of adverse conditions Pittsburgh maintains fourth place in the ranks of large cities in her building operations. According to Construction News of Chicago her loss for the month of June compared with the corresponding month last year was 35 per cent, but, as that journal goes on to remark, "this should in no wise affect one's sentiments with regard to Pittsburgh, because the operations in that city have gone on at a stupendous pace the past few years." Allegheny shows a gain of 123 per cent from June, 1901, to June, 1902, three cities only making a better record. New York, Chicago and Philadelphia exceeded Pittsburgh in the amount of their building operations and St. Louis was only $25,000 behind. Of the 25 cities enumerated 17 show a decided gain over last year and six a loss.

CHAFFEE ORDERED TO EASTERN COMMAND

He Severely Disapproves of the Acquittal of Waller and Day by Philippine Court-Martial.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—Maj.-Gen. George W. Davis has been ordered to relieve Maj.-Gen. Chaffee in command of the army division of the Philippines September 30. Gen. Chaffee will then be placed in command of the department of the east. Gen. Brooke is now in command of that department, but he is to retire at the end of the present month. During the interim Gen. MacArthur will command.

The incoming Philippine mail brings the full printed record of proceedings in the court-martial cases of Maj. Lytleton W. T. Waller and Lieut. John Horace Arthur Day of the marine corps. The record shows that Maj. Waller was acquitted of murder, but that Gen. Chaffee, declaring that "there has been a miscarriage of justice in this case," disapproves the finding and acquittal except that while Waller should not have been found guilty of murder the verdict should have included a lesser offense.

Gen. Chaffee declares that, except three who deserted, no overt acts were committed by the cargadores, but, on the contrary, "those sent to their death continued to the last to carry the arms and ammunition of the men after they were no longer able to bear them, and to render in their impassive way such service as deepens the conviction that, without their assistance, many of the marines who now survive also would have perished."

In the case of Lieut. Day, who also was acquitted, Gen. Chaffee disapproves the finding to the specification and charge of murder. He says Lieut. Day should have known that his commanding officer, Maj. Waller, had for three weeks been under a test of mental and physical endurance such as few men are called upon to undergo; that he was sick with fever, his temperature 105 and his body covered with painful sores. Day was the only officer not sick on duty and in the full possession of his faculties, and his plain duty was to counsel delay in the execution of the orders to kill the natives. Gen. Chaffee refers to the order of Maj. Waller as "tainted," and says "that it should have prompted him (Day) to a positive disobedience of the same."

Notwithstanding the disapproval, the two officers were released, as they could not be tried twice for the same offense.
